QUINLAN GUILTY; MAY GET 7 YEARS

I. W. W. Agitator Convicted in Paterson of Inciting Silk Workers to Riot.

NEWS INFLAMES STRIKERS

DYNAMITE THREATS MADE

Special to The New York Times..

PATERSON, N. J., May 14.—Patrick Quinlan, the Industrial Workers of the World agitator, was found guilty by a Passaic County jury this afternoon of uttering remarks inciting the silk mill strikers of this city to assault and riot. The verdict was returned after a deliberation of an hour and one-half, and fell like a bomb in the camp of the Industrial Workers of the World, as Quinlan is the first leader of the organization to be convicted of a prison offense.

The Paterson strikers are greatly excited to-night, and wherever they gather one can head them bitterly denouncing the county authorities, the jury, and predicting all sorts of unpleasant things for Paterson as a result of the verdict in Judge Klenert's court. The verdict may mean a seven years' term in State prison for "Big Bill" Haywood's black-haired, good-natured little lieutenant.

Only a few of the strikers were in court when the jury returned its verdict. Deputy Court Clerk Tower called the roll of the jurors and then asked them in a loud voice if they had agreed upon a verdict. As one man the twelve replied "We have."

"What is your verdict?" asked Mr. Tower.

"Guilty as charged in the indictment," said James Space, the foreman.

Quinlan was not in the Court House when the jury returned. He had left the building about a half hour before. His counsel gave notice of appeal and the court continued the agitator's bail.

Girl Runs From Courtroom.

The strikers in the courtroom had risen to hear the verdict. For a moment or two they stood still in their places, a few of them repeating to themselves in low voices the words of Foreman Space, "Guilty as charged."

Then the tension broke. Little Carrie Torello, one of the busiest of silk mill pickets, who had sworn that Quinlan never uttered the words in the indictment, started on a run out of the courtroom.

In the streets and on the high school green outside the Court House about 500 strikers were waiting to hear the news. They were lounging about on the grass, and were ready to give Quinlan a great cheer when he appeared among them a free man, as they were certain to a man he would.

"Guilty as charged! Guilty as charged!" shouted Miss Torello as she came running out of the Court House. In a moment she was surrounded by the strikers. They would not believe that it was true.

"It's true I tell you!" the girl shouted. "I heard them say it. They found him 'guilty as charged.'"

She then led the strikers to Helvetia Hall, where Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Carlo Tresca, Adolph Lessig, and other lesser luminaries of the Industrial Workers were waiting to hear the news of the verdict. Soon the hall was packed with men, women, and children. In the crowd in the corridor one man was heard to shout that the time had come to "blow up the court," while another said that Paterson was in for all the trouble it could handle.

Calls Verdict Unjust.

"This verdict is a class verdict," said Miss Flynn to those about her. "It is an outrage. I know Quinlan is innocent. I can swear it with my life if necessary. It is absolutely unjust, but it will spur the strikers on. The strike will go on better now than ever before, for the strikers will realize now that they are being persecuted, and will stand more solidly together than ever before. I was seated near the jury room when the jurors retired, and heard them laughing. They seemed to take the case as a joke. But Pat Quinlan is not going to jail on the verdict of any Paterson jury. Rest assured of that. We will appeal the case clear through to the Supreme Court in Washington if necessary."

Tresca, who stood beside Miss Flynn, was so excited that he could hardly express himself, even in his native tongue.

"If I make one million speeches," said Tresca, "I could not so well express the capitalistic propaganda as did this Dunn, the county prosecutor. They shout for law and property, but for human life they say nothing. It is an outrage, an outrage; that is what it is."

As the reporters left the hall they passed a young man at the foot of the stairway. "We will put dynamite under the court," he shouted.

Intense Feeling Against Police.

"Yes, they will get all that's coming to them now," another in the crowd added.

The feeling against the police is very intense to-night. It was the police whose testimony convicted Quinlan, and at the doors of Police Headquarters the strikers lay most of their troubles so far as the courts are concerned. They openly charge that the indictments found against Haywood, Miss Flynn, Tresca, Lessig, and Quinlan are all based on false information framed up by the police for the purpose of sending leaders

BRYAN'S PEACE SQUADRON.

Secretary Plans Friendship and Fellowship to Abolish War.

Special to The New York Times..

WASHINGTON, May 14.—William J. Bryan is a "two-battleship" man. He launched yesterday the peacemaker Friendship, intended to drive all death-dealing armorclads from the seas by knocking them out with shells of good will and the smokeless powder of affection. He laid to-day the keel of the sister vessel Fellowship. Speaking informally of his efforts for international peace, he said he would send out the Fellowship on the broad international waters bound for the harbors of Concord and Amity and carrying only kindly sentiment as ammunition.

To a remark made by Andrew Carnegie, Mr. Bryan gave credit for his own conception of the Friendship. Mr. Carnegie had spoken, he said, of two small gunboats that were the only war craft of England and the United States on the Great Lakes, and the limitation of the armed marine representation on the lakes to those vessels had been a potent force for friendly relations between the powers.

"The thought occurred to me," explained the Secretary of State, "that if two such small craft could aid peace there was no reason why this Nation, which is friendly to all others, should not take the lead in a movement of genuine friendship which would absolutely eliminate all possibility of war. The enthusiastic reception my words have met have encouraged me greatly to hope that the peace plan will work to success."

STRIKERS FIGHT POLICE.

Battle in Yonkers Streets Following Attack on Refinery Workers.

In a fight early last night in Yonkers, between 500 strikers from the plant of the Federal Sugar Refinery and the police reserves from two precincts, seven strikers were so badly injured that they were removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, and nineteen others, including a woman, were arrested charged with rioting.

The trouble began when the workers at the refinery at Vark Street and the Hudson River were leaving for their homes at 6 o'clock. As the men left the plant they were met by pickets who tried to persuade them to join the strike. The strikers had assembled in large numbers on Vark Street, within six blocks of the refinery. They became angry when they found they could not induce the workers to join their ranks, and began to hurl stones at them. Several of the workers were badly beaten.

The few patrolmen on hand called upon Police Headquarters for help. The strikers met the new force with a shower of stones. The fight extended from Vark Street to South Broadway, a distance of six blocks, and much of the fighting took place in the shadow of St. Joseph's Hospital in South Broadway. The police seeing that the hospital was threatened, and fearing that windows there would be broken, charged the rioters with their nightsticks, and began to make arrests.

Three prisoners were put in an automobile patrol wagon. A large crowd of strikers rushed the patrol bent on rescuing their companions. Capt. Cooley and three patrolmen with him drew their revolvers, but dared not fire for fear of injuring the women and children in the street. Soon another large force of police arrived and rescued the patrol. James Kalasha, 33 years old, an Italian of 232 Newman Street, was arrested, charged with violating the Sullivan law.

When the police threatened to shoot if the strikers continued the fight many of the strikers retreated to their homes, where for some time they continued to shower the police with stones from roofs and windows.

DOOM THE SLASHED SKIRT.

Chicago Dressmakers Speak Out Boldly—City Council Dodges.

Special to The New York Times..

CHICAGO, May 14.—The slashed skirt is doomed, any way, if Chicago dressmakers have their way, but the City Council, after a solemn conference to-day, came to the conclusion that the time was inopportune to inaugurate any movement looking to dress reform.

Alderman John Coughlin, "Bathhouse John," shocked by the prevailing mode, sought to have drafted by the Health Committee of the Council an ordinance making it illegal for women to wear tight-fitting slashed skirts.

"I fear it would not be salubrious for the Health Committee to investigate a matter of this kind," remarked Alderman Pretzel as the clerk finished reading Alderman Coughlin's proposed ordinance. The measure was abandoned without a dissenting vote.

Chicago dressmakers are unanimous that the slashed skirt must go, and at a meeting adopted this resolution:

> Whereas, The slashed skirt is a fraud, cheat, and atrocity, perpetrated on an intelligent nation by foreigners who look upon the skirt as a joke; and
> Whereas, The Chicago Dressmakers' Club is unalterably opposed to any form of fashion which is immodest or suggestive; and
> Whereas, Woman stands for the highest ideals of the human race; therefore be it
> Resolved, That the Chicago Dressmakers' Club place itself on record as condemning the slashed skirt and all similar designs which appeal to or suggest immodesty.

W. E. Hosac, a member of the club, addressing the meeting, excoriated the slashed skirt, which, he said, was suggestive.

"And here in America," he said, "we have really decent and well-trained women wearing this atrocity because they think it necessary to keep in style. They do not know that the Parisian designers have sought to make it popular in this country in order to make it the style in France. When told the truth of the matter they lose no time in discarding the frightful garment."

SCUFFLE WITH WIFE; SHOT.

Mrs. McNeil, Under Arrest with Chauffeur, Accuses Husband.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 14.—H. P. McNeil, a nephew of United States Judge Emory Speer of Georgia, was shot and probably fatally wounded in a scuffle with his wife to-day at Pablo Beach. Mrs. McNeil and Plush Lee, McNeil's negro chauffeur, both were placed under arrest pending an investigation.

The McNeils left Jacksonville to-day for Pablo Beach in their automobile. According to statements attributed to the chauffeur and to Mrs. McNeil, she was attacked by her husband. She grappled with McNeil, who, according to the statements, had drawn a revolver and was attempting to shoot her. In the scuffle the pistol was discharged, the bullet entering McNeil's head just behind the ear.

NAME FORGED, SAYS FRIEDMANN'S RIVAL

PROSECUTION THREATENED

Friedmann and Head of His New Concern Lock Horns Over the Free Treatment of Poor Patients.

Morris Eisner, head of the syndicate that has contracted to pay $1,000,000 to Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann for his turtle vaccine for tuberculosis, exhibited yesterday what he said were photographic copies of a statement purporting to bear the signiture of Dr. Maurice A. Sturm, formerly of the Friedmann forces, but who is now opposed to the German physician. In the alleged statement Dr. Sturm is made to admit that he has "no knowledge of the method of preparing said vaccine or of the ingredients composing the same." When a copy of this statement was shown to Dr. Sturm in his office in the Hotel Ansonia last night he said:

"The signature of my name is a forgery. I neither wrote the statement described by Mr. Eisner as being in my handwriting nor authorized its preparation nor signed it."

Dr. Sturm's lawyer, Jacob I. Wiener of 261 Broadway, was present at the examination of the exhibit, and after a consultation with his client said:

"I am gonng to take this matter up with the criminal authorities, and thereafter will pursue such course as is warranted in the premises. I have been Dr. Sturm's counsel for twelve years and have seen his signature repeatedly. This is the boldest piece of forgery I ever saw, and I shall bring the culprits to justice."

Some one suggested in fun that an opinion on the writing should be sought from Dr. Friedmann, who prides himself on his cleverness with the pen. He has demonstrated his skill innocently by copying the signatures of Emperor William and others.

The photographed statement was brought forword yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Friedmann forces in tho physician's apartments at the Hotel Majestic. There were present Dr. Friedmann, his lawyer, A. G. Hays, of 60 Wall Street; Mr. Eisner, Dr. Julian G. Meyer, who will be one of the physicians in attendance at the New York headquarters of the "cure" that are being prepared in the twelve-room house at West End Avenue and 103d Street; Capt. David Arnold of the Rhode Island Coast Artillery, who acts as bodyguard and adviser for Dr. Friedmann, and the newspaper reporters.

"Where is the original?" Mr. Eisner was asked.

"It is locked up in the safe," he replied.

"Under what circumstances was the statement prepared?"

"I can say nothing about that," Mr. Eisner answered. "Dr. Sturm wrote the statement and signed it. That is all I will say."

The statement is dated April 27, 1913, the day on which the contract between Mr. Eisner and Dr. Friedmann was signed, and reads:

> Having to-day made the statement that I have knowledge of the formula for the preparation of Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann's vaccine, I now, of my own free will repudiate that statement as in all respects unwarranted, and I fully and voluntarily say that I have no knowledge of the method of preparing said vaccine or of the ingredients composing the same.

When the matter was presented later to Dr. Sturm for confirmation, he expresesd anger and amazement.

"But wait," he shouted dramatically. "I now recall that on May 1 I received a telephone message from Dr. A. C. H. Friedmann, brother of the discoverer, asking me to come to his office at 43 Exchange Place and consult with him on an important matter. I complied, and he said to me: 'I saw Eisner last night, and he said they were going to produce a statement saying you know nothing about the remedy. The statement was witnessed and signed before a notary public. I saw it. I want to put you on your guard.' He asked me if I had signed any paper of such a nature within two or three days. I told him I had not."

Lawyer Wiener asked Dr. Sturm to write his name a dozen times rapidly, and also to get from his files papers and checks bearing his signature. These signatures were compared with that on the photographs. In all except the photographed signature Dr. Sturm invariably added the title "M. D." to his name. Mr. Wiener called attention to what he said were fundamental discrepancies between the photographed signature and Dr. Sturm's writing. Mr. Wiener said that within a day or two he would apply for summonses for one or more persons to appear in a Magistrate's court in forgery proceedings.

After the display of the photographs of Dr. Sturm's alleged statement Dr. Friedmann and Mr. Eisner locked horns in a heated discussion over the provisions for the sale of the turtle vaccine to charity patients. Mr. Eisner had said that four or five physicians, without a governing head, would begin work next week in offices fitted up for their use in the West End Avenue house. These physicians would work independently, he said, in order to conform to the law, which prohibits the practice of medicine by a corporate institution.

"If these physicians devote their time to pay patients, how will the poor receive treatment?" Mr. Eisner was asked.

"We will insist that the poor be treated," Mr. Eisner replied.

Mr. Eisner had said that neither he nor any other person would act as head of the institution. He said he could not give orders to the attending physicians.

"But I insist that the poor shall be treated," Dr. Friedmann shouted, "in accordance with the contract I made with you."

"The contract does not specify how this can be done," Mr. Eisner averred.

"Yes it does. It says you must treat charity patients," Dr. Friedmann insisted. He ran out of the room and returned with his copy of the contract, waving it and announcing he would show it to the newspaper reporters.

"Don't do that. You don't know what you are doing. You don't know what you are saying when you speak in English," Mr. Eisner protested.

Dr. Friedmann folded the paper so only a sentence was revealed, and read it aloud. It was a general statement to the effect that the poor would receive treatment free of charge. Mr. Eisner conceded that neither he nor any one else could enforce the clause if the physicians of the institution declined to perform free service except that he could refuse to sell the turtle vaccine to recalcitrants. He suggested that one day a week would be set apart for charity patients if the physicians agreed. It became known yesterday that Mr. Eisner personally—and not as committing the firm of the Eisner-Mendelsohn Company, 90 Wall Street—entered into

SAVE MAN IN PATH OF SUBWAY EXPRESS

The uptown platform of the Subway station at Seventy-second Street was crowded with waiting passengers early last evening, and one of the most impatient was William Jupp, a paper dealer of 831 West 179th Street. He wondered if an express thain would ever come, and in his wondering and watching, he leaned too far aver the edge of the platform. As he fell to the track bed his head struck a rail with such force that it left him senseless. At that moment the oncoming express was around the curve and only 125 feet away.

The sense of his danger swept the crowd, spreading alarm instantly. A hundred voices were lifted in a chorus of horror, but in the crowd there were two men who did not have time to cry out. They were Detective McManus and Moses Satz of 945 Fox Street, the Bronx. The moment they saw Jupp fall and roll over unconscious they knew somebody would have to go to the rescue. So they did.

They grabbed him by the arms and tried to lift him. He was heavy, and they lost another moment shifting their grip to get a better purchase. The platform crowd saw the big train bear down upon the group. They howled a warning to the motorman, but it did not come in time. He could not stop at such short range, and the train pulled in.

The people on the platform clutched at one another, and several women fainted. As the train came to a grinding halt they could not tell what had happened to the three men that they had seen in its path. They feared the three were crushed beneath the heavy wheels, and yet they were not sure. Men beat on the doors of the different cars, and as they opened they swarmed through to look from the windows on the other side. There, standing safe on the southbound tracks were McManus and Satz, still holding the unconscious Jupp.

They had cleared the path of the train in time—just in time. The news of their escape spread through the crowd and was shouted incoherently across to the other platform and up the stairs to the ticket window level where people had halted, afraid to come down. Pretty soon every one was cheering, men were pounding on the platform with their canes and all declaring the rescuers heroes of the first water.

As McManus and Satz carried Jupp to the downtown platform word spread among the spectators that the former was a Central Office man, and then they all agreed to write about what they had seen to Commissioner Waldo, anxious, every one of them, to sing the praises of at least one policeman.

Dr. Pryor, who came with an ambulance from Polyclinic Hospital, found Jupp with a scraped head and suffering from shock. He was taken to the hospital.

TAP DAY INTEREST INTENSE.

To-day's Semi-Private Elections May Mark a Yale Revolution.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, May 14.—Excitement, although suppressed, never ran so high at Yale before on the eve of the annual Tap Day selections to the three senior societies. The threat of the sophomores to refuse elections next year unless the choices to-morrow are of representative quality; the Faculty orders closing the campus to the public and the promise of the freshmen and sophomores to remain off the campus during the election hour, and the drawing of the Faculty away to attend the annual Faculty tea on the Forestry School grounds have created a situation novel in Yale secret society history.

A report current to-night is that Wolf's Head, next to the youngest of the senior societies, has pledged the sophomore class to adopt the reforms urged and has also already given out its pledges to the members of the junior class, whom it will select to-morrow by the traditional custom of tapping.

The Elihu Club, newest of the four societies, has refused to participate in Tap Day, and it has assured the sophomores that it is ready to accept the reforms they suggest. Under these conditions it will be easy for the sophomore class to agree to accept elections next year to Wolf's Head and the Elihu Club, and spurn those to Scroll and Keys and Skull and Bones, thus raising the newer societies to first rank and prestige in the university and eliminating the evils against which freshmen and sophomores have thus far protested in vain.

Whether this radical step shall be taken or not will depend upon to-morrow's action by the two older senior societies. It is believed that "Bones" is making a special effort to secure the three major sport Captains for next year, Henry Ketcham of the football eleven, Jack Blossom of the baseball nine, and William Lippincott of the crew, and that the prime honor of being the last man slapped for "Bones" will go to Ketcham to-morrow.

20 FALL INTO THE SEA.

Workmen Rescue Their Companions When the Scaffold Breaks.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 14.—Twenty men were cast into the sea to-day when the scaffolding at the end of the Earle Pier at New Jersey Avenue collapsed under the weight of an engine.

Gallant companions, swung down on ropes and at the risk of their lives, being in danger of being dashed to death against the concrete piling, saved all the imperiled men. Seven were unconscious when hauled to the pier.

SAY MISS LEISHMAN CAN'T BECOME NOBLE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 14.—The "Association of High German Nobility," which regulates affairs connected with the semi-royal houses of the Fatherland, discussed the forthcoming marriage of Miss Nancy Leishman and the Duke of Croy at its annual meeting, which has just taken place at Frankfort-on-the-Main.

According to statements appearing in the Berlin press it was unanimously decided that the daughter of the American Ambassador could never hope to be recognized by a German Court either as a Duchess or as a "Highness." It was the opinion of the members of the association that no marriage of a Duke of Croy could be recognized as regular unless the bride were a woman of "equal birth."

Roland von Berlin, the society weekly, commenting on the action of the association, says:

"Mr. Leishman, who in other respects enjoys the reputation of being a very intelligent business man, appears not to have informed himself sufficiently regarding the chances which await his daughter in the case of her marriage to the sovereign Duke of Dülmen, Westphalia."

The High Nobility's apprehensions in reference to Miss Leishman's "unequal birth" do not appear to be interfering with the plans for the wedding, which, THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns, will probably take place in June. The marriage, it is believed, will be solemnized at the home of the bride's family in Paris, where Miss Leishman and her mother and sister are now living.

FLY AS PARALYSIS CAUSE.

Doctor Says It is Commonest Carrier of Infantile Disease.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—Warning against the fly as the commonest cause of infantile paralysis was given by Dr. E. W. Saunders of this city in an address before the Missouri Medical Association to-day. Dr. Saunders traced a connection between infantile paralysis and the raising of poultry, and gave that as an explanation why the disease was more prevalent in country and suburban districts than in the crowded part of a city.

Although experiments were not complete, he said he was confident final tests would demonstrate a connection between "limber neck" in fowls and infantile paralysis. His theory is that flies carry the germs of infantile paralysis from the carcasses of fowls, and possibly from those of hogs and dogs, to food. That contaminated food then is eaten by children and infantile paralysis results.

Dr. Saunders condemned the legal protection of the buzzard, which, he said, transmitted infectious diseases of live stock.

IMPUGN CARLISLE MORALS.

Witnesses Tell of Evil Conditions Superintendent Denies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The Senate Committee on Indian Affairs to-day heard from three sources of alleged immorality at the Indian School at Carlisle, Penn. The committee has been investigating Indian affairs for several months. To-day Antoine De Nomio, an Indian from the Bad River Reservation in Wisconsin, told the committee that letters to him from his fourteen-year-old daughter, attending the school, describe conditions there as very bad.

De Nomio's testimony was followed by that of Mrs. Laura C. Kellogg, an Indian reformer. She said that while she knew of no specific cases of immorality, she thought that lax discipline on the part of Supt. Moses Friedman had resulted in many evils.

F. H. Abbott, Acting Indian Commissioner, corroborated in a general way what Mrs. Kellogg said as to immorality.

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Penn., May 14.—Replying to reports of charges made by Mrs. Kellogg at Washington, Supt. Friedman said to-night:

"In the absence of anything specific I can only say that there is absolutely no ground for criticism of either the discipline or the morals of the institution. The general demeanor of the students at the Carlisle Indian School, including the discipline, has never been better in the history of the institution."

Widow Endows Medical Research Work at California University.

BERKELEY, Cal., May 14.—In memory of her husband, who suffered for years from a malady that eluded medical skill, Mrs. George William Hooper of San Francisco has presented to the University of California $1,000,000 for the establishment of an institution of medical research.

In announcing the gift to-day at the commencement exercises, Benjamin I. Wheeler, President of the university, said:

"Mr. Hooper knew that he could not be helped, but he hoped that something might be done for others who suffered in the same way. His devoted wife has made possible a realization of his wish in behalf of the sons of men."

BIG NEBRASKA WIND TAKES DOZEN LIVES

Ten or More Dead in Seward, and Deaths Elsewhere Reported.

HOUSES WRECKED IN OMAHA

Giant Wind Hits Other Towns—Stapleton Said to Have Been Wiped Out.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., May 14.—This State was storm-swept again late this afternoon, many persons being killed and injured in tornadoes in several regions.

In Seward eleven persons are known to have been killed and thirty-five injured. It is believed daylight will show a much greater death list in the town as well as in the country surrounding it. A third of the town was wrecked.

Staplehurst, a small town seven miles from Seward, is reported to have been wiped off the map. The death loss there cannot be learned to-night, as the telephone and telegraph wires into that place have failed.

The identified dead in Seward include:

HOOVER, Mrs. DAVID.
HEFFINGER, Mrs. WILLIAM.
WASSERMAN, Mrs. CHRIS.
WASSERMAN, Mrs. B. L.
SCHULTZ, J., Burlington section foreman.
Six-year old daughter of Schultz.
IMLAY, Mrs. R.
CRIM, SAMUEL.
EDWARDS, Mrs.

The tornado struck the western or residence portion of Seward and swept everything in its path. Those killed mostly were caught in the wreckage of their homes. After passing through Seward the tornado moved to the northeast. Reports have been received that the towns of Tomaro, Lushton, Grafton and McCool Junction were wiped out. Four persons are reported killed in Tomaro and several in McCool Junction. Utica was in the path of the storm.

Following the cyclone came a hail and rain storm. The town was without lights to-night and search of the ruins was made with lanterns.

Houses Wrecked in Omaha.

Omaha and South Omaha were hit by a strong windstorm, but there was nothing in the way of a cyclone. Fewer than a dozen houses were wrecked, and there was no death. Telephone and telegraph wires are down in every direction. Reports are coming in slowly of tornadoes in other parts of the State. Rushton, a small town near Seward, is one of the places reported as destroyed. The wires into that town are down.

The afternoon was sultry all through the State, and in its later hours wind clouds formed. They swept from the southeast to the northwest, spreading destruction.

In Seward the wind became a typical tornado, which swept through the residential part, the business section escaping harm. The exact number of houses destroyed in Seward cannot be ascertained to-night, but it is known to be at least twenty-two. Eleven bodies have been pulled from the ruins, and twenty-six injured persons are being cared for in hospitals and hotels.

Thousands of citizens here, remembering the Easter cyclone, spent half an hour in basements and cyclone cellars. The houses wrecked were in the Southeastern quarter of the city. Two houses that had stood in the path of the Easter cyclone, but escaped damage then, were wrecked to-night near Forty-fifth and Folds Streets.

The Omaha Commercial Club telegraphed offers of assistance to Seward and the Governor has been called upon for State assistance, as well as for State militia to patrol the stricken towns until order is restored.

Officials of the Nebraska Telephone Company in this city were informed early this evening that the tornado in Seward had resulted in twelve deaths and injury to fifty persons, several of whom were hurt fatally.

Seward Reports Ten Deaths.

SEWARD, Neb., May 14.—A tornado which took a toll of at least ten lives, injured more than thirty persons and destroyed more than a third of the town occurred shortly before 6 o'clock this evening. Twenty-two residences, including several of the best in the town, were destroyed and many more were partly wrecked, but the business section did not suffer greatly.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 14.—A tornado struck the town of Seward, thirty miles west of Lincoln, about 6 o'clock to-night. Nine are dead and many injured. Three of the dead are Mrs. B. L. Wasserman, Mrs. Edwards, and Mrs. David P. Hooper. Communication with Seward is difficult, as wires are down. It is reported damage was done in the town of Lushton, farther west, but its extent is not known.

The first report from Seward came to the Burlington offices here from the train dispatcher in that place. It said at least nine persons had been killed and a large number injured. Later telephone messages reduced the number of dead to eight.

A request came to Lincoln to have two undertakers go to the town. Two undertakers prepared to leave at midnight. Several physicians also made ready to go.

SAVED BY HIS TROUSERS.

New Yorker Near Plunge Over Cliff in Catskill Auto Run.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURG, May 14.—All of the twenty-two cars entered in the Catskill reliability run, conducted by the Motor Contest Association, Inc., arrived here before 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. All covered the distance within the time limit. They left Edgewater at noon.

Charles Reis, President of the Marion Sales Company of New York, was a passenger in one of the cars. On the summit of Crow's Nest, near West Point, rounding an abrupt curve, the rear wheels swerved, and for a moment it looked as if the car might plunge over the precipice, several hundred feet high. Alarmed, Mr. Reis jumped from the car. He stumbled and would have gone over the precipice had his trousers not caught on the machine and held him fast. Meanwhile the chauffeur had got the car back to safety, and the other occupants dragged Mr. Reis into the machine. Mrs. Reis, Duncan Curry, and G. H. Pallon were in the car with Mr. Reis.

The visiting autoists were given a rousing greeting to-night by the Newburg Automobile Club. Addresses were made by Mitchell May, Secretary of State, on motoring laws; A. G. Batcheller, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the A. A. A., on Federal aid for road building, and First Deputy George A. Riker of the State Highway Commission.

The tourists to-morrow will proceed to Catskill, where the hill-climbing contest will take place, returning to New York in the evening.

WELLS AS ROCKEFELLER AID

Special to The New York Times..

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 14.—Edgar Huidekoper Wells has presented his resignation as curator of modern English literature at Harvard and general secretary of the Harvard Alumni Association, to accept employment from John D. Rockefeller. He will enter the office of the financier as a member of the staff which assists Mr. Rockefeller in the management of his philanthropic and business interests.

Dean Wells, as he is best known, is a Harvard graduate of the class of 1897. Only recently he refused an offer to become graduate manager and treasurer of the Harvard Athletic Association. He will enter upon his new duties next September.

AUTO KILLS A POLICEMAN.

Luis Kennard of Bicycle Force of Woodmere Run Down.

Shortly before midnight last night an automobile crashed into one of the bicyclse policemen of Woodmere, L. I., and so severely injured him that he died in a few moments. The auto then put on greater speed and disappeared down the road. The accident occurred on Broadway, about halfway between Wooomere and Arhurst. There is absolutely no clue to the automobile.

The dead policeman, Louis Kennard, was 35 years old and lived at Arhurst. He had been a member of the bicycle squad of the Woodmere force about three weeks. He was on duty along Broadway to-night and was riding his bicycle. He had no light on his machine.

SHOOT AMERICAN AS SPY.

Rebels Execute John Alamia fcr Alleged Aiding of Federals.

DONNA, Texas, May 14.—The body of John Alamia, an American citizen, who was executed by the rebels at Rio Bravo yesterday, was brought to Donna to-day for burial. Lieut. Col. Zertuche, Chief Surgeon of Blanco's staff, said the evidence showed Alamia was in the employ of the Federals as a spy. He was tried before a court of rebel officers and sentenced to be shot. His brother, Jose Alamia, is Tax Collector of Hidalgo County, Texas.

According to Zertuche, ten of the twenty-seven Federal prisoners, taken in the battle of Reynosa Saturday, were also shot.

Montclair Pastor Told to Perform Ceremony for None Other.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 14.—The members of Unity Church in annual session to-night voted in favor of a proposal that the pastor, the Rev. Edgar S. Wiers, be instructed to require a medical certificate from all persons seeking to be married in the church henceforth. Notice of the intention to have the annual assemblage vote on the question had been given in advance, and all came prepared to express their convictions. The vote in favor of the proposal was unanimous. There were a number of women present.

Recently the Rev. Henry E. Jackson of the Christian Union Congregational Church announced that he would perform no marriages unless the bridegroom presented a certificate of good health.

BLACKMAILED INTO CRIME.

Ex-Convict Says He Stole from Santa Fe to Hide New York Record.

LOS ANGELES, May 14.—Asserting that he embezzled to silence blackmailers, William St. John Ranney of Pasadena pleaded guilty to-day to the charge of stealing money from the Santa Fé Railroad Company, by which he was employed as chief clerk to the auditor. Ranney, though charged with the embezzlement of $60,000, was arraigned in the Superior Court on only one charge, which involved $1,815.

Judge Willis set Saturday as the time for passing sentence. Ranney submitted to the court a written statement in which he said he had stolen to obtain money to silence five men who threatened to expose him as a former prisoner in the New York State Reformatory at Elmira.

Ranney passed five years at Elmira, he said, after having stolen money from a New York firm.

WILL INSPECT SING SING.

Westchester Grand Jury to Visit Prison—To Take Up Kennedy Letter

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 14.—The Westchester County Grand Jury was not in session at White Plains to-day, but it was announced that it would reconvene to-morrow morning, and the letter filed by Warden John S. Kennedy of Sing Sing State Prison asking that an official investigation of the prison be made would be considered. It is understood that the Grand Jury will go to Sing Sing in a body and make a thorough inspection of the prison.

George W. Blake, appointed by Gov. Sulzer to investigate the prison, reported to the Governor that the conditions at Sing Sing were intolerable. As no direct charges have been made before the Westchester Grand Jury against Warden Kennedy, it is reported that the jurymen will not take any testimony, but will simply inspect the prison.

JOHNSON TO SIGN ALIEN LAND BILL

Telegraphs to Bryan That He Will Approve Anti-Japanese Act.

INSISTS IT IS HIS DUTY

CITES FEDERAL STATUTES

Administration May Uphold His Contention and Await Further Note from Viscount Chinda.

SACRAMENTO, May 14.—Expressing his determination to sign the Alien Land bill recently passed by the Legislature, Gov. Hiram W. Johnson of California to-day telegraphed to William J. Bryan, Secretary of State, a long explanation of the action taken by the Legislature. The message was in answer to President Wilson's request, sent through Mr. Bryan, that the bill be vetoed.

"I am sending a statement of California's position," he said, "and it is my expectation to sign the bill."

When asked if he would sign it to-day the Governor replied that he did not care to set a definite time.

"It may be twenty-four, possibly forty-eight or seventy-two hours before I sign it," he said.

Gov. Johnson's message follows:

Hon. William J. Bryan, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.:

Your very courteous telegram relating to the Alien Land bill reached me late Sunday night. I take it, from our conversation and your request made to me to withhold Executive action until opportunity was accorded for the presentations from the Federal Government, that your message embodies what it was your wish and the wish of the President to say to us before final action.

In this response, it is my design most respectfully to present the situation from our standpoint and the views that actuated our Legislature in passing the bill and that impel me to sanction it.

For many years a very grave problem, little understood in the East, has confronted California; a problem the seriousness of which has been recognized by statesmen in our Nation, and has been viewed with apprehension by the people of this State. When the present Constitution of California was adopted more than thirty years ago, it contained the following declaration: "The presence of foreigners ineligible to become citizens of the United States is declared to be dangerous to the well-being of the State, and the Legislature shall discourage their immigration by all means within its power."

Of late years our problem from another angle has become acute and the agitation has been continuous in the last decade in reference to our agricultural lands until finally affirmative action in an attempted solution became imperative. This attempted solution is found in the action of our Legislature in the passage of the Alien Land bill. In the phraseology of this bill, in those whom it affects, in its scope, and in its purpose, we believe we are within our legal and our moral rights, and that we are doing only what is imperatively demanded for the protection and preservation of our State. In this enactment we have kept ever in mind our National good faith as evidenced by existing treaties, and our desire and anxiety have been to act only in such fashion as would commend us to our sister States, and would justify us to our fellow-countrymen.

Reasons for Japan's Protests.

The objections to our bill are based, first, upon the treaty obligations of the Nation, and, secondly, upon the assertion that our act is offensive and discriminatory. The protest to our measure, as your telegram states, comes from the representative of Japan. The bill that is now before me provides substantially in its first section that all aliens eligible to citizenship under the laws of the United States may acquire real property in the same manner as citizens of the United States, and the second section provides that all aliens, other than those mentioned in the first section, may acquire real property in the manner and to the extent and for the purpose prescribed by any treaty now existing between the Government of the United States and the nation or country of which such aliens are citizens or subjects, and may in addition lease for a period of three years lands for agricultural purposes.

Thus we have made existing treaties a part of our law, and thus we have preserved every right that any foreign nation by international contract has insisted upon preserving with our National Government.

The treaty of 1911 with Japan, in reference to the citizens and subjects of each country, provides that they shall have "liberty to own, or lease, or occupy houses, manufactories, warehouses, and shops; to employ agents of their choice; to lease land for residential and commercial purposes and generally to do anything incident to or necessary for trade upon the same terms as native citizens or subjects submitting themselves to the laws and regulations there established."

Directed Only at Agriculture.

We assume that the right of Japanese to own real property, for the purposes described, is absolute in our State, and we seek to deal only with our agricultural lands.

We embody the treaty in our law, and we add to it permission to lease our agricultural lands for the period of three years.

Where such extraordinary care has been exercised to preserve honor and good faith, in the very words of the contract made by the protesting nation with our own, and to do more by authorizing leases of agricultural lands, it would seem that we ought not to be open to any accusation of violation of treaty rights, or of desire to intrench upon that which belongs alone to the National Government, or which might become a matter of international policy.

By the law adopted we offer no offense; we make no discrimination. The offense and discrimination is contained, it is claimed, in the use of the words "eligible to citizenship," and in making a distinction between those who are eligible to citizenship and those who are not. We do not mention the Japanese, or any particular race. The Constitution of California in 1879 made its distinction, and there never has been protest or objection.

The naturalization laws of the United States, long since, without demur from any nation, determined who were and who were not eligible to citizenship. If invidious discrimination ever were made in this regard the United States made it when the United States declared who were and who were not eligible to citizenship, and when we but follow and depend upon the statutes of the United States and their determination as to eligibility to citizenship we cannot be accused of indulging in invidious discrimination. May I venture to call to your attention the immigration law now pending in Congress, which passed both houses of the last Congress, where apparently certain classes who shall be excluded from our country are described as "persons who cannot become eligible under existing laws to become citizens of the United States."

At this very moment the National Legislature, without protest or objection—indeed, it is published in California by express consent—is using the terms that are claimed in California's law to be offensive and discriminatory.

Discrimination Against State.

At least three States in the Union have in the past enacted laws similar to the contemplated law of California, and the enactments of those other States have been without objection or protest. That the protest is now made in respect to California but emphasizes the acuteness of the problem confronting California and demonstrates that California is differently viewed than other States of the Union, and that if discrimination exists it is discrimination against California.

We insist that, justly, no offense can be taken by any nation to this law, and more particularly does this seem to be clear in the instance in a nation like Japan, that, by its own law, prevents acquisition of land by aliens. It is most respectfully submitted that, after all, the question is not whether any offense has been taken, but whether justly it should be taken. I voice, I think, the sentiment of the majority of the Legislature of this State when I say that if it had been believed that offense could justly be taken by any nation to the proposed law, that law would not have been enacted.

We of California believe firmly that in our legislative dealings with this alien land question we have violated absolutely no treaty rights. We have shown no discrimination; we have given to no nation the right to be justified in taking offense. So, believing with a strong reliance on the justice and the righteousness of our cause, and with due deference and courtesy and with proper consideration for the feelings and the views of others, we had hoped the authorities at Washington would have seen the question as we in this State have been forced to see it—as we must see it or be blind.

Says He Will Sign It.

And so, with all respect and courtesy, the State of California feels it its bounden duty to citizens to do that which the interests of its people demand; that which the conscience of its people approves; that which violates no treaty rights; that which presents no discrimination, and that which can give no just cause for offense.

You have suggested to me delay, but this question was very earnestly and fully presented by you to our Legislature, and the Legislature determined to proceed. My province is to approve or disapprove the law as presented. Our people, as represented in the Legislature, have overwhelmingly expressed their desire for the present Alien Land bill. The vote in the Senate was 35 to 2 and in the Assembly 72 to 3. With such unanimity of opinion, even did I hold other views, I would feel it my plain duty to sign the bill, unless some absolutely controlling necessity demanded contrary action. Apparently no such controlling necessity exists.

It is with the highest respect for yourself and the President that I feel my duty to my State compels me to approve the action of the Legislature.

HIRAM JOHNSON,
Governor of California.

So far as the California administration is concerned, the Governor's telegram ends the land bill controversy. Gov. Johnson has until June 16 in which to sign the act, and in the normal course of events it will become a law at the expiration of ninety days from the closing of the Legislature or on Aug. 10 next.

The only contingency that might arise to check its operation from and after that date is the threatened referendum petition which Theodore A. Bell, a Democratic leader, has said he would circulate against the measure as soon as it was signed.

JAPAN MAY PROTEST AGAIN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—In the opinion of high officials of the Federal administration no change has been produced in the situation involving the United States and Japan by the announcement of Gov. Johnson of California that he will sign the alien land bill.

As matters stand now the incident resolves itself into one of diplomatic exchanges between the Governments of Japan and the United States. No further dealings with Gov. Johnson will be undertaken. The next move will be Secretary Bryan's response in behalf of this Government to the protest made by Viscount Chinda, the Japanese Ambassador.

Just what form the answer of the United States Government will take has not been disclosed. From what has been said at the White House and the State Department it has been understood that the United States would support the action of California to the extent of contending that the new law was not in violation of the treaty with Japan. Gov. Johnson makes this same point in his message to Secretary Bryan. He insists that the law offers no offense and makes no discrimination against the Japanese.

A copy of Gov. Johnson's message will be furnished to the Japanese Ambassador before a formal reply to his protest is made. It was suggested here to-night that a second protest from Japan, based on the approval of the land bill by Gov. Johnson, probably would be forthcoming. This note may seek to answer the arguments of Gov. Johnson in his message to Secretary Bryan.

When Gov. Johnson's message was received at the State Department this evening Secretary Bryan was attending a dinner given by the Spanish Minister. Mr. Bryan left Washington on a midnight train for New York, where he has an engagement to speak to-morrow. He said that any official comment on the Japanese subject must come from the White House to-morrow.

It was suggested elsewhere to-night that in one respect this Government, in answering the Japanese protest, was likely to follow the argument of the Governor. This referred to Gov. Johnson's contention that if the land law was discriminatory against Japanese there had been discrimination by the Federal Government long before in the naturalization laws, which prohibited Japanese subjects from becoming citizens of this country.

The Federal Administration is hopeful that the situation may be relieved, at least temporarily, by a referendum in California. This would allow time for the Government to enter into negotiations with Japan with a view to adjusting the differences.

STIR RACE SPIRIT IN JAPAN.

Publicists Talk of Overthrowing the "White Man's Clique."

TOKIO, May 15.—So as not to embarrass diplomatic negotiations the Government continues to discourage public meetings and demonstrations, and last night called off a reunion arranged by the American-Japanese Society.

Publicists, however, continue to discuss the California Land bill. They insist that the California difficulty merely is one proof that the time has arrived to fix the relations between the white and colored races of the world. M. Tokutomi, editor of Kokumin, says "the white men's clique must be overthrown in the interest of Japan, and in the interest of humanity."

Other writers express themselves in a similar strain, asserting that the Japanese are in danger of exclusion from all countries, chiefly through racial prejudice on the part of the white people. The question, it is argued, can only be solved by destroying the white man's misconception of the inferiority of the colored races. This reflects the more conservative opinion in Japan.

I. W. W. MEN URGE BARBERS TO STRIFE

MORE SHOPS ARE RAIDED

Reserves Called Out Twice in the Bronx—Less Violence in Manhattan—Jerseymen Hold Off.

Three hundred striking barbers and their sympathizers marched through Mulberry Street late last night, scuffling noisily past the police station, on the steps of which Capt. Kinsler and Lieut. Ward were standing. As they rounded into Grand Street they opened hostilities against a barber shop at 394, and the two officers, with a small company of bluecoats to back them up, swept around the corner and charged the crowd

There was immediate confusion. Imprecations made the street noisy, the strikers scattered in every direction and then from groups of them came showers of stones and other missiles. The police were the targets. Several stones struck Capt. Kinsler, and other policemen were hit. A final stone crashed through the window of the barber shop and then the crowd fled in disorder.

At Eighth Street and Avenue A a fragment of the crowd tried to start a new demonstration, and of these men Patrolman Gross of the Fifth Street station captured one, Thomas Lotrudo, a 17-year-old barber whom he suspected of leadership.

Violence was no more marked a feature of the day than were the signs of growing strife between the representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the Industrial Workers of the World. Both organizations seek to influence the strikes, and the I. W. W. leaders have not hesitated to call journeymen barbers from their chairs even where they were affiliated with the A. F. of L.

A meeting called for to-day in the rooms of the State Board of Arbitration has been opened to both organizations and to the International Journeymen Barbers' Union. General Organizer Frayne of the Federation said last evening that if the I. W. W. representatives held aloof from the meeting and refused to confer in the proposed effort to have some definite agreement on the demands to be presented, then the Federation would take it upon itself to deal directly with the employers and on the basis of that dealing, to send back to work the A. F. of L. men whom the I. W. W. leaders have ordered out.

Ettor Harangues Strikers.

A strong I. W. W. flavor was lent to the day's disorders by the presence of Joseph J. Ettor, one of those tried for murder as a result of the violence in the Lawrence mill strikes. From a meeting at 106 Forsyth Street, which Ettor addressed, 500 strikers were sent out to call men from the shops in Harlem and the Bronx.

The shop of Adam Balz in East Fourteenth Street, which was stormed on Tuesday by the strikers, was visited by them again yesterday, and as before the barbers at work there were cold to their arguments. Their coldness was rewarded by a stone hurled into the shop. It came dangerously near to striking the head of the manicurist, and in the uproar that followed she was escorted to safety by a small guard of bluecoats. The rush on the place was not turned back until the police used their clubs, but out of the confusion only one man was arrested.

Two more strikers were arrested during the afternoon in a shop in the basement of a Sixth Avenue department store. The mere fact that the journeymen at work there were quite satisfied with the hours schedule did not appeal to the strikers as a good reason for their sticking to their posts, and they became so insistent that the store detective arrested them. One of them—Edward Scheppe of 275 Third Avenue—said he was a union official, but this did not help him any. According to the store detective, the men threatened to have the store invaded by a crowd of barbers waiting in the street outside.

George Zormbaum, who has a shop at 725 Cortland Avenue, the Bronx, and his two assistants were shaving customers a few minutes after 8 o'clock last night when a crowd of striking journeymen and sympathizers came down the street and halted in front of the place. A delegation was sent inside with instructions to corral the proprietor's workers. Zormbaum refused to listen to the demands of the intruders, and his men refused to join the ranks on the sidewalk.

Strengthened by several of the strikers the delegation proceeded to smash the head of the boss barber and about everything else in sight. Some one sent in a call to the Morrisania Police Station for the reserves. Patrolman Frey of the same station arrived ahead of Sergt. Giblin and a dozen other officers. He waded through the crowd and at the door of the place arrested three men whom he thought to be the ringleaders. Sergt. Giblin helped him to escort the trio to the station, where they gave the names of Anthony Bolgorano of 293 East One Hundred and Fifty-first Street, Emilie Ronnao of 3,043 Third Avenue, and Charles Koenig of 237 East One Hundred and Twenty-first Street. They were held on charges of disorderly conduct, intimidation, and causing a crowd to collect.

About twenty minutes before the attack on Zormbaum's shop the reserves under Sergt. Giblin dispersed a mob of strikers from in front of a shop at 810 Cortland Avenue after several of the crowd threatened the proprietor with bodily harm and signified an intention to dismantle the interior of the place if the employed journeymen refused to quit work.

Magistrate Blames Agitators.

In sentencing two of the strikers to thirty days each in the workhouse last night Magistrate Kernochan, in the Men's Night Court, took occasion to denounce labor agitators. Speaking of the men at the bar before him the Magistrate said:

"I feel sorry for these poor, ignorant men, urged on by agitators, in most cases the ones responsible for the disorder. I once had a man by the name of Tresca before me, but I could not make out a case against him. He is one of these agitators."

Then turning to the lawyer representing the defendants, the court said:

"I want you to tell the friends of these men to go about their strike peacefully. I will not stand for disorder. I will give more than thirty days in the workhouse if the rioting and disorder do not stop."

The newly organized Boss Barbers' Association, Local 2, which boasts of a membership of 15,000 employing barbers in Manhattan, offered a concession as to hours yesterday, but the concession does not come up to the schedule desired by the strikers, so far as they have definitely formulated demands. The great difficulty that has been experienced so far in dealing with the strike is that the strikers are not organized thoroughly and have no definitely accredited leaders with whom the boss barbers can deal. They have incurred the hostility of the International Union of Journeymen Barbers of America by making no discrimination in favor of the shops where union men are employed. President Boschang of the union has been raising his voice in protest against the window-smashing campaign, and the members of the union resent the tactics employed in the fight thus far.

Violence in Williamsburg.

Williamsburg contributed its share of violence to the strike yesterday. There were several small riots there and one serious disturbance at Broadway and Marcy Avenue. Half a dozen strikers entered the shop of Charles Schlich, at 296 Broadway, and demanded that Valentine Drescher, who was at work, join their ranks. Drescher refused, saying he was part owner of the business. While he was being attacked one of the strikers hurled a large stone through one of the plate glass windows.

After wrecking the shop the strikers ran along Broadway to Havemeyer Street, where Policeman Dubois endeavored to stop them. They knocked the policeman down and, turning, ran in the direction of South Ninth Street. Half a dozen policemen stationed on the Brooklyn plaza of the Williamsburg Bridge took up the chase and caught three of the strikers, who were held on charges of malicious mischief and felonious assault.

of the Industrial Workers of the World to prison. In his speech to the jury Henry Marelli, leading counsel for the strike leaders, accused the police of framing up the charge against Quinlan.

The court proceedings leading up to the conviction of Quinlan ended at 3 o'clock. The defense called six witnesses, all of whom swore that Quinlan did not speak at any meeting on the day named in the indictment, and rested its case at 11:30 A. M. The State then called Chief of Police Bimson and two other witnesses in rebuttal, after which Mr. Marelli summed up for Quinlan.

About 5 o'clock Quinlan was seen coming through the City Hall square.

"Is it true?" he asked, as he pointed to the headlines in one of the Paterson newspapers announcing his conviction. "I did not believe such a verdict possible. Nobody is more surprised than I am and I cannot understand it. But I shall stay right here and take my medicine, no matter how big a dose they give me. My lawyers have a writ of error ready, and the appeal will be taken without delay. I was impressed with the fair charge of Judge Klenert, but I disagreed with his rulings. The jury was prejudiced against me because I had advised the strikers not to pay their rent. This is all I want to say now."

Quinlan was quickly surrounded by strikers, who patted him on the shoulder and whispered encouraging words into his ears. Shortly afterward he departed for his home. Haywood, who is living in New York, was not in Paterson to-day.

Mr. Marelli said that he did not believe a Passaic County jury would believe the police in preference to the workers. He referred to the Paterson police as "the wonders of two continents," and "the marvels of the twentieth century" when it came to remembering things. Mr. Marelli also asked the jury to remember that the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant of the Church of the Ascension in New York and George Gordon Battle, the New York lawyer, had journeyed to this city to give Quinlan a certificate of good character. He denied that Quinlan ever used the language cited in the indictment, and then added:

"Remember also that Woodrow Wilson sometimes uses harsh language when he is fighting the New Jersey bosses."

In his summing up Prosecutor Dunn likened Quinlan and other leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World to the McNamaras and the Molly McGuires of Pennsylvania.

In his charge to the jury, which was brief, Judge Klenert said that an issue of fact had been raised in the case, and that it was up to the jury to decide which side was presenting the truth. If it believed Quinlan uttered the words charged, Judge Klenert said the jury was then to decide whether they constituted an offense such as the New Jersey laws defined. If such an offense had been committed the verdict must be guilty.

The jury retired immediately. Six ballots in all were taken. The first three ballots stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal. The next two were eleven for conviction and one for acquittal, and the sixth unanimous for conviction.

Prosecutor Dunn was elated over the verdict. He was proud, he said, that the jury had so promptly decided that Industrial Workers of the World agitators cannot come into Paterson from all parts of the country and incite Paterson laboring people to commit offenses against law and order. Mr. Marelli said he considered the verdict outrageous and that he would lose no time in taking an appeal to the Court of Common Pleas. If he failed there, he said, he would go to the Court of Errors and Appeals, and in the event of a failure in that court to the United States Supreme Court.

To-night every member of the Paterson Police Department is on duty, and strong patrols are working in all the mill settlements affected by the strike.

The next trial will be that of Tresca. It will be set for next week. After Tresca Elizabeth Gurley Flynn will go on trial, then Haywood, and last will come Lessig.

HELD FOR MISUSE OF FLAG.

Silk Weavers Arrested Here While Raising Cash for Strikers.

Two striking silk weavers of Paterson, N. J., were arrested yesterday afternoon at Thirteenth Street and Broadway for using the American Flag as an advertisement to obtain money. The men were Santo Miglionni, 30 years old, of 24 Baxter Street, and Samuel Finklestein of 536 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx. They were arrested by Traffic Policeman Kenneally, and were held for trial in $500 bail by Magistrate Cornell in Jefferson Market Court. Although the men gave New York addresses, they said they were Paterson strikers, and were trying to raise money for the strikers.

The men had a hand organ, about which was wrapped an American flag. Tacked over the flag were placards asking for cash for the strikers. The men had walked down Broadway from Thirty-fourth Street, stopping at every corner, and when arested they had two cigar boxes filled with money. The boxes were sealed up and the money was not counted by the police. Policeman Kenneally asked the strikers for their permit, and when told they did not have one he placed them under arrest.

GET 1,000 POUNDS OF DYNAMITE

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., May 14.—Arthur W. Bishop of this city reported to the police to-night that 1,000 pounds of dynamite had been stolen from his magazine at Ledgemere, in Passaic County, near Morristown. There is a strike of laborers in progress near Ledgemere, and if the explosive was stolen by strikers it is the opinion of the police that it was those strikers and not the silk mill strikers of Paterson who are responsible.

The police have notified all owners of magazines containing dynamite and other high explosives to keep a close watch on their magazines.

STATE CIVIL SERVICE HIT BY THE CITY CLUB

UNDULY LIBERAL AT BEST

Gov. Sulzer's recently appointed Civil Service Commission is charged with countenancing, if not assisting in, the abuse of civil service principles in appointments to State positions, with unwarranted exemptions from civil service examinations and undue raising of ratings of candidates in spite of careful examinations by expert examiners in the report of the Executive Committee of the Civil Service Reform Association presented at the annual meeting of the association at the City Club last night. It was represented that the committee availing itself of an invitation to co-operate with Gov. Sulzer's commission called these abuses to the attention of the Civil Service Commission, but failed to receive "even the courtesy of a reply." It has since sent copies of its correspondence to Gov. Sulzer himself, and received from him a brief reply saying that the Governor would do all in his power to carry out the committee's suggestions, and would take the matter up with his Civil Service Commission.

After tracing the progress in civil service administration in the Federal Government, and stating that the prospects for civil service extension seem to be good under the Administration of President Wilson, who was for two years himself Vice President of the National Civil Service Reform League, the report takes up civil service conditions in New York State. The report reviews the appointment of the Civil Service Commission as one of Gov. Sulzer's first acts, and comments:

"The new President, Jacob L. Neu of Brooklyn, had been conspicuous in politics and at one time was a municipal court Judge. Dr. Meyer Wolff, the other Democratic member, is a physician, active as a Democrat for several years, and a strong supporter of Gov. Sulzer in the campaign. The Republican member, James A. Lavery of Poughkeepsie, has been identified with the work of labor unions and is a newspaper editor in Poughkeepsie. He was a speaker for Mr. Hedges, the Republican candidate, in the campaign of 1912.

"The Commissioners have been unusually diligent in their five months of existence, having held over thirty meetings since Jan. 1. A number of miscellaneous exemptions, about twenty-one in all, have been granted. Many of these, like a file and index clerk in the office of the Governor, a custodian in the office of the County Clerk of Kings County, two Inspectors in the office of the State Hospital Commission, &c., are entirely unjustifiable. The commission has, in fact, displayed a tendency to give too much weight to the outworn plea of 'confidential relations' so frequently and monotonously advanced as grounds for exemption.

"It is a discredit to the civil service law if the rights of other competitors in a civil service examination are to be slighted and disregarded, as in the case of Somerville, the chief clerk in the State Engineer and Surveyar's office, whose average rating was increased on appeal 8 per cent. and whose standing on the list was thereby changed from 16 to 3, admitting of his permanent appointment. Arbitrarily to raise the mark of a personal favorite of a department head in even a non-competitive examination from 58 to 75 after two failures in order to permit his promotion and an increase in his salary of $400, as was done in another case, is so astonishing as to be incomprehensible.

"It is, further, a ground for serious criticism that the so-called 'special-exception' clause of the law has been so liberally resorted to.

"This is the clause which permits the commission to waive the requirement of competition for a particular position in the competitive class where the position is one calling for 'peculiar and exceptional qualifications of a scientific, technical, or educational character' in which the person to be appointed is one of 'high and recognized attainments,' and where competition is shown to be impracticable as a means of obtaining such an appointee. This provision the present commission has in less than four months already exercised in eleven cases, as compared with its application by the New York City commission in only four cases in all of last year in a service many times larger than that under the State commission. The exceptions include such positions as court messenger under the Surrogates of New York County and a special agent in the office of the State Commissioner of Agriculture. In one case the 'person of high and recognized attainments' in 'qualifications of a scientific, technical, or educational character' was a clerk in the Surrogates' office, and the other had been a meat inspector in New York City, a clerk in the New York City Finance Department, and then successively a laborer and special agent in the Department of Agriculture."

In its letter to the Civil Service Commission, which is attached as an appendix to the report, the Committee of the Civil Service Reform Association takes up in detail the cases of undue discrimination referred to, together with others, and adds:

> In acting upon appeals for rerating of papers in examinations we find a number of cases in which you have raised the marks given by your examiners so as to bring the candidate among the first three and permit his appointment; that in so doing you have set aside the judgment of your expert examiners for your own and have (inasmuch as apparently the papers of the other candidates were not coincidently reexamined) done gros injustice to other successful candidates; and in some cases you have given credit for experience gained by persons appointed provisionally without a competitive examination pending the establishment of an eligible list. Procedure of this character tends to raise and fortify a popular opinion that the civil service law is not honestly but is politically administered, and to discourage worthy applicants from entering the examinations.
> In the cases which we have cited we believe that you have exercised undue and unjustifiable liberality.

Everett P. Wheeler, President of the association, was Chairman of the meeting last night. Alderman Henry H. Curran, Chairman of the Police Investigating Committee of the Board of Aldermen, told of the revelations recently before his committee in the matter of appointments to the Police Department without adequate examination as to their character and past record. Frank Gallagher, President of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, read a paper describing the results of practical tests in municipal civil service examinations, which, he said, had furnished better mechanics and workmen in all departments of the city service.

The following officers of the Civil Service Reform Association were elected for the coming year: President—Everett P. Wheeler; Vice Presidents—Charles Collins, David H. Greer, A. Jacobi, William G. Low, Levi P. Morton, Elihu Root, Francis Lynde Stetson, Anson Phelps Stokes, Oscar S. Straus, Horace White; Executive Committee—Henry De Forest Baldwin, George R. Bishop, Roscoe C. E. Brown, Charles C. Burlingham, Edward Cary, George P. Christie, Joseph P. Cotton, Jr., Jonathan C. Day, Horace E. Deming, A. Leo Everett, A. S. Frissell, J. Warren Greene, Henry W. Hardon, Russell H. Loines, Alfred Bishop Mason, Philip J. McCook, John G. Milburn, Ludwig Nissen, Samuel H. Ordway, Carl L. Schurz, Isaac N. Seligman, Nelson S. Spencer, William H. Thomson, and Charles W. Watson.

KERN ATTACKS COURTS.

Surprises Senate by Speech on West Virginia Case.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The Senate listened to-day with surprise while Senator John W. Kern of Indiana, the leader of the majority, said that the recall of Judges and judicial decisions was justified, and eulogized those who voted the Socialist ticket last Fall. Mr. Kern interpreted the heavy vote Col. Roosevelt received in the last election as the general approval of his declaration for the recall of judicial decisions, and gave it as his opinion that socialism and the movement for judicial recall would gain momentum unless certain conditions of to-day were improved.

Mr. Kern's remarks came in the course of a long speech in support of his resolution directing an investigation of the recent coal strike in West Virginia. The proclamation of military government in the Paint Creek section, said Mr. Kern, was an abuse of power, while the authority vested in a military tribunal, which sentenced citizens to the penitentiary while the civil courts were open, was a violation of the Federal Constitution. The sentences of the military commission, he said, had been approved by the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

"Is there any wonder the people in West Virginia believe in the recall of Judges? Not long ago Col. Roosevelt, by his declaration favoring the recall of judicial decisions, made members shudder on both sides of the aisle at both ends of this Capitol. A little later, however, we were more surprised to learn that in the districts where the Colonel had been most severely criticised he got his heaviest vote. The Colonel's declaration was so approved that he got a majority of the Republican votes cast.

"The demand for the recall of Judges and the recall of judicial decisions has grown remarkably in the last five years. Why? Because of decisions like this in behalf of capital. I am not enamored of this doctrine. I have not been enamored of it, but if decisions of this kind continue, if the courts enunciate such opinions as these, striking down laws for the protection of the people, it will not be long before all the people of this country interested in liberty will join forces to overcome such opinions, because they are so subversive of public rights."

Senator Borah said that if men had been tried by court-martial in West Virginia and sent to the penitentiary without regard to their rights of trial under the Constitution and the laws, an investigation should be conducted.

"If such conditions exist," he said, "it is of supreme concern to the people of the United States."

Senator Sutherland of Utah agreed that if a military tribunal sentenced citizens while the civil courts were open for business the Federal Constitution was being violated.

Mr. Root of New York assented in general to this view, but expressed the opinion that Mr. Kern's resolution ought to be revised by a standing committee, so that it might be more effective. Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts echoed Mr. Root's opinion, but as Mr. Kern insisted on action without reference to a committee the debate was prolonged until adjournment.

SUGAR FIGHT IN SENATE.

Letter Read Hinting That Wilson Is a Raw Hand.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The anti-free sugar Democrats, led by Senator Ransdell of Louisiana, assailed the Underwood sugar schedule in the Senate to-day, despite strenuous efforts of Senator Simmons and other Democrats to stop the flow of the attack.

Republicans enjoyed the efforts of the Democratic leaders to prevent the reading of a long letter submitted by Senator Ransdell, written by Lewis C. Rowley of Lansing, Mich., in which free sugar advocates were characterized as "accursed, unpardonable apostates of Democratic faith," and the free sugar schedule as a "boomerang to knock out the Democratic Party."

With Republican votes Senator Ransdell was aided in getting the letter before the Senate as a part of the argument against the proposed sugar tariff. It precipitated a lively discussion between the Louisianian and Senators James, Myers, Simmons, and other Democratic leaders.

Mr. Rowley in his letter said that "there is almost imminent danger that in his almost hilarious enthusiasm for the Democratic ideals the President will try to do too much," and that "the statesman or party leader who in formulating important legislative measures does not take into consideration the psychological effect as well as the ultimate practical results of those measures is a raw hand at the business." He said he did not believe President Wilson was "that kind of an immature leader."

Senator James asked Senator Ransdell if he did not think that the platform of the party gave fair warning to Louisiana. Mr. Ransdell emphatically answered "No," and referred to a statement in the Rowley letter which siad:

> Neither in his campaign for the Democratic nomination nor for his election did Mr. Wilson pledge himself to give the country free sugar. On the contrary, whenever he was asked about his position on the sugar tariff, he distinctly declared that he was against any tariff changes that would injure or destroy any legitimate industry."

Senator Penrose, when Senator Simmons, on behalf of the Finance Committee, tried to get an agreement for a vote on the question of public hearings on the Underwood bill, emphatically denied that he had any idea of conducting a filibuster on the issue. He had asked for public hearings, he said, because he conscientiously believed that they should be held.

Consideration of the matter again went over until to-morrow, when the Democrats will endeavor to bring the reference of the bill and the Republican public hearing amendment to a vote.

the contract with Dr. Friedmann, who has thus far received only $50,000 of the contract price. It is provided that he shall receive the next payment of $75,000 after he has instructed the physicians in the West End Avenue house in the use of the vaccine.

Articles of incorporation of the company were filed in Albany yesterday under the name of the Friedmann Institute of New York. It is described as an institution for medical, bacteriological and chemical research, with a capital of $150,000. The incorporators are William Abramson, Max Tahl and Howard A. Scholle of 11 East Seventy-sixth Street. Mr. Elsner said that the institute would be a building in which four or five physicians would have offices. Each physician would have his own records.

A meeting to protest against the location of the institute at its present address has been called for 8 o'clock to-night by residents in the neighborhood of West End Avenue and 103d Street, who will assemble at the Hotel Marseille, Broadway and 103d Street. Ex-Corporation Counsel William B. Ellison, who lives on the northeast corner of West End Avenue and 103d Street, said last night several neighbors had spoken to him about the meeting and that he had promised to attend. He said he had been told that many children living in the vicinity would be in danger of contamination from tubercular patients going to and from the institute.

Dr. Sturm sent a letter yesterday to Gov. Pothier of Rhode Island, in which he said:

> No doubt you have been informed through the newspapers and otherwise of the present state of affairs between Dr. F. F. Friedmann and myself. It has occurred to me that patients innoculated for the first time within the boundary of your State may be anxious about their further treatments from Dr. F. F. Friedmann, and I hereby authorize you to assure such patients that at any time that Dr. Friedmann shall fail to fulfill the promises given to these patients, I shall be glad to offer to you my services in full. I stand ready to give the second and further injections to all patients that have received their first injections. I do not wish to monopolize the Friedmann vaccine without the boundaries of your State, as I consider such a monopoly unethical, but shall be ready to arrange for clinics of instruction to all reputable physicians within your jurisdiction.

A large safe capable of holding many million turtle cultures was moved into the West End institute yesterday. The carpenters and decorators expect to finish their work there within three or four days.

DAVID DOWS ASKS FOR A JURY TRIAL

Would Like General Sessions to Deal with the Case of Assault on Reporter Johnston.

SUBMITS APOLOGY HE MADE

And Pleads Again That Assault Was "a Practical Joke"—Lawyer's Version of Riding of the Circus Mule.

James R. Ely, counsel for David Dows of 121 East Seventieth Street, awaiting trial on a charge of assaulting Alva Johnston, a reporter for THE NEW YORK TIMES, on the occasion of an invited visit to Mr. Dows's house, submitted a brief to Judge Edward Swann in General Sessions yesterday asking that his client's case be transferred from Special Sessions to General Sessions in order that he might have a trial by jury. The arguments on the brief will be heard to-day, and Assistant District Attorney James A. Delehanty will argue against the transfer of the case.

The assault for which Mr. Dows is to be tried followed his attempt to ride a trick mule at the circus in Madison Square Garden on the night of March 22. When the report of Mr. Dows's feat reached THE TIMES office Mr. Johnston was assigned to interview Mr. Dows and called him on the telephone. Mr. Dows said he would not discuss the matter over the telephone and asked Mr. Johnston to visit him. Mr. Johnston went to the defendant's home in Seventieth Street. Immediately after he had entered the door a blanket was thrown over his head and he was carried out into the back yard and the door was locked after him. The fence of the back yard was lined with high spikes, and Mr. Johnston's attempts to escape aroused the neighbors. Police Capt. Henry of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station expressed wonder at the time that Mr. Johnston had not been killed, as many persons took him for a burglar.

Dows was later arrested on the complaint of Mr. Johnston and was held in $100 bail for trial in Special Sessions by Magistrate Murphy. When his case was called it was postponed until May 15, and Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith was assigned to prosecute it.

In his brief yesterday Mr. Ely inclosed some clippings from THE TIMES and an affidavit from Mr. Dows, as well as one from himself. A letter of apology written to Mr. Johnston by the defendant was also contained in the brief. In his papers the lawyer for Mr. Dows says:

"The charge is purely a technical one, which at its worst is based only on a practical joke, having no serious consequences."

He also says Mr. Dows never invited Mr. Johnston to his home, but in his affidavit Mr. Ely says: "Mr. Dows said, 'Any one who wishes to speak about this matter must see me in person,' and Mr. Johnston said that he would be up within ten or fifteen minutes." Mr. Dows also gives these reasons why the case should not be tried in Special Sessions:

First, that THE TIMES is the complainant against him; second, that THE TIMES hired William Travers Jerome to prosecute him; third, that the case was only a joke; fourth, that the newspapers distorted the facts; fifth, that it takes more time to try a case in Special Sessions than in General Sessions; sixth, that the Magistrate said the case was a technical one, and, seventh, that a civil suit for damages will follow the prosecution.

Mr. Dows enlarges on all of these points and explains them. In his affidavit Mr. Ely mentions the same facts and in explaining the incident at Madison Square Garden says:

"Owing to his delicate constitution, fears for his health were entertained in his early youth, and the said Dows was kept in the country and in the open air for a considerable period of each year. He then, to develop his constitution and to occupy himself, took up riding to a very considerable extent, and became an eager and enthusiastic horseman and a skillful and experienced rider. That in his early days it was a delight to him to master an animal difficult to control, and he still preserves his interest, and occasionally enjoys attempting to ride an unbroken or trick animal. That on the evening of March 22 the said Dows went to Madison Square Garden and during the course of the performance a request was made for volunteers to ride a trick mule, whereupon, on the spur of the moment the said Dows volunteered and succeeded in remaining on the said animal until it threw itself down.

Mr. Dows's letter of apology, included in Mr. Ely's brief, was written a week after the alleged assault, and after proceedings had been begun. It follows:

> New York, March 30, 1913.
> Mr. Alvah Johnson, New York Times.
> Dear Sir: I desire to express my sincere regret at the occurrences which took place on Sunday morning last. In this connection permit me to say that the fact that you were a reporter on THE NEW YORK TIMES was entirely fortuitous, and my action, which grew out of a spirit of fun, was not directed against you as an individual or against THE TIMES. The facts are, that at intervals of about five or ten minutes each, from the time that I returned home Saturday night until about midnight, I had been called up by reporters on various newspapers, being aroused again and again just as I was getting to sleep. Finally, THE TIMES called up, and I said I could not give an interview on the telephone, that if an interview is desired the person seeking it would have to come to my house.
> I did not believe any one would call at such an hour of the night. I went to bed again, and shortly thereafter was aroused by the ringing of the front door bell. I then thought that as the reporters had been having fun with me all night I might on my side have a little fun with one of them. In that spirit I played what was meant to be merely a practical joke, and from the remark you made when you left I thought you took it as such. I had no intention of hurting your feelings or doing anything either offensive or objectionable to THE NEW YORK TIMES or one of its employes. If I did wound your feelings I apologize for it. Yours very truly,
> DAVID DOWS.

Mr. Dows's case was to come to trial to-day, but it is believed that the argument on his brief will cause the trial to be adjourned to a later date.

LAUER BOOKS BRING $2,010.

First Edition of Shelley's "Revolt of Islam" Sold for $25.

The sale of the library of Judge Edgar J. Lauer of New York was ended at the Anderson Company's auction rooms yesterday. The total was $2,010. W. P. Brown of Dobbs Ferry paid $32.50 for a set of William H. Prescott's works, including several first English editions. J. B. Foley gave $25 for a first edition of "The Revolt of Islam," by Percy B. Shelley, London, 1818, with the scarce leaf of Errata. Henry Malkan obtained for only $17.75 a copy of the scarce first edition of Sir Walter Scott's "Waverley; or, 'Tis Sixty Years Hence," Edinburgh, 1814. It contains the book plates and autograph signature of Francis Lord de Dunstanville. The book, however, is defective; the half-title and imprint page to volume I. are missing, the covers are loose and a few margins are stained.

ADVERTISING MEN DINE.

"Cut Price" Selling Assailed at Feast of National Association.

The Association of National Advertising Managers held its dinner at the Hotel Astor last night with more than 200 members present from all parts of the country. Among the guests were the advertising heads of many newspapers and managers, to whom an appeal was made for support in a campaign to obtain for those manufacturers who have built up a reputation for their commodities the right to fix the retail prices of their goods so that they cannot be sold at cut prices.

ALL WARSHIP PLANS STOLEN LAST MARCH

No Clue Yet Found to the Perpetrator—Some Officials Insist Plans Are Mislaid.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Officials of the Navy Department admitted to-day that in spite of statements made yesterday of their inability to determine when the second set of electric wiring plans of the superdreadnought Pennsylvania had been stolen from the Bureau of Steam Engineering, they had been aware that this duplicate set disappeared between Saturday night, March 22, and Monday morning, March 24.

The set of plans first stolen was abstracted from the drafting room of the Bureau of Steam Engineering some time between 7 o'clock on the evening of March 4 and 9 o'clock on the morning of March 5. In admitting yesterday that the first set of plans had been taken on March 4 or 5, the Naval officials declared that they had no idea when the second set was stolen. To-day they acknowledged that the date of the second theft had been definitely fixed.

There were reports in Washington last Sunday that eighteen of William J. Burns's detectives had been in Washington for a week, under the charge of Detective O'Donnell, but had left the city the previous Saturday. Rumors at that time were that these detectives had been shadowing a man prominent in national affairs.

Inquiries made on Sunday night by members of THE TIMES Washington staff resulted in the information that the Burns men were in Washington on a civil case and were not preparing evidence for a criminal prosecution. In view of the fact that operatives of the Burns Agency were employed in the effort to ascertain who was responsible for the thefts from the Navy Department, it is supposed that the operatives reported to have left town last Saturday were those sent here at the request of the Naval authorities. Eleven of the detectives were said to have been quartered at a small hotel on Pennsylvania Avenue.

There was general surprise to-day when the date of the second theft became know that greater caution had not been taken to safeguard the drafting room from pilferers. When the second set of plans was taken, rigid orders were issued to keep all doors locked after the close of the business day. All passes to rooms in the bureau were canceled.

Secretary Daniels said to-day that so far as he knew not a single clew as to the theft had been discovered. Officials in the department were insistent that the plans were merely mislaid and will be found sooner or later. Nevertheless, detectives of the Burns Agency are still engaged on the case.

It is a theory of some people in the Navy Department that the principal who was responsible for the theft was not employed in the building, but had made use of the services of a dishonest employe with the object of selling the plans to some naval power which would regard them as valuable.

It was said to-day that the plans taken the first time did not prove to be those wanted. They were not the fire control plans, it was hinted, but showed the conduits for electric lighting and telephones not connected with the fire control system, embracing the woven steel masts and the turrets.

Failing in getting what was wanted the first time, the second theft was committed to get the real object of the thief's desire, which was the fire control plans and this time he was successful.

A serious phase of the occurrence discussed to-day at the department was the responsibility of officers in charge of the drafting room and the design of the plans. For a much slighter offense on board ship a junior officer, it was explained, could be subject to severe discipline and probably forced to face trial by court-martial.

But the duties of officers of the higher grade in a semi-civilian capacity in the department might not be regarded as calling for disciplinary measures. Secretary Daniels said, however, that there would be a military court of inquiry if the facts should show the necessity for it.

LAWYER BURGER BLAMELESS

Exonerated of Any Impropriety in the Schoen Divorce Case.

Supreme Court Justice Guy exonerated yesterday Benjamin W. Burger, a lawyer of 25 Broad Street, from any connection with the alleged collusion in the divorce suit of Martin Schoen against Sophie Schoen. When the case was called for trial last week Marcel Levy, who had been appointed guardian in the suit for Mrs. Schoen, who is only 19 years old, said that he had reason to believe there was collusion in the attempt to obtain a divorce. Thereupon Justice Guy said he would send the papers in the case to the District Attorney with a request that action be taken if evidence of guilt should be disclosed.

After calling the calendar of undefended divorce suits yesterday Justice Guy said he had investigated the charges against the plaintiff's lawyer, Benjamin W. Burger, and that he found them to be without foundation. Levy also, he said, had acted with perfect propriety. The trial was then continued and the husband got a decree of divorce.

DISPUTE AMERICAN LABOR EFFICIENCY

British Employers Defend Their Workmen Against Redfield's Criticism.

RAISE POINT OF QUALITY

If Americans' Output Is Greater, Says One, Their Work Is Not So Good.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 14.—The assertion that the efficiency of the British workman is far below that of the American, which was made in the report issued by the American Secretary of Commerce, is disputed on all hands by British employers.

The manager of one of the largest tinplate manufacturing firms in Great Britain said:

"I should like to know on what basis the American figures were obtained. I do not believe the difference is anything like so great in the tinplate trade as the Americans allege. The men in the British tinplate mills work continuously in shifts of eight hours and are very skillful. In fact, a great number of workers in American tinplate mills are Welshmen who were trained in British mills, but the American mills are all doubly manned, and that makes for increased production. If the American's output is greater, his work is not so good. British tin goods are of superior finish. Our exports to the United States are increasing, notwithstanding the keenest competition and the tariff."

B. Hunter of the firm of Swan, Hunter & Richardson, Ltd., builders of the Mauretania, said:

"It is not correct to say that American shipbuilding is cheaper than the English, or the wage bills lower. Although at the present moment the difference in the cost of British and American built ships is smaller than usual, the price is still higher in the United States than here. American workmen certainly work longer hours."

Harold Cliff, Secretary of the Oldham Master Cotton Spinners' Association, said:

"It is inconceivable that, as the American report alleges, it would take 255 skilled Lancashire operatives against 47 Americans to create $100,000 increase in the value of raw material." Bolton spinners and manufacturers asserted that, whatever Americans said, British cotton workers were more efficient than American. British ironmasters describe as "bluff" the predictions of President Farrell of the Steel Trust concerning the competition of Indian pigiron with the American product.

SUFFRAGIST BOMB FOR A MAGISTRATE

BURN HOUSE, FIRE CHURCH

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, May 15.—The suffragettes' bomb campaign took a new and even more sensational turn yesterday when a bomb was delivered by post to the Bow Street Police Court. It was addressed to H. Curtis Bennett, the Magistrate who is hearing the charge of conspiracy against the militant leaders.

The parcel did not reach the Magistrate. It was intercepted by an official who considered its appearance suspicious. It was found to contain a can three parts full of gunpowder. A nail was driven through the lid and to the end of the nail a percussion-cap was tightly fitted.

While it is not probable that the bomb would have exploded if it had been handled by Mr. Bennett, the police express surprise that it did not explode in the Post Office when the postmark was stamped on it. They say that had it done so the effects would have been disastrous.

Two packages, containing inflammable and explosive matter, including, it is stated, nitro-glycerine, were found yesterday morning in a compartment of a train on the London and South Western Railway.

The day's suffragette activities also included two fires, one at a house near Folkestone, where $5,000 damage was done, the other at the historic parish church of Penn, Buckinghamshire, associated with the founder of Pennsylvania. The organ of the church was practically destroyed. The church itself was not damaged. In an old Bible was the message, "Suffragettes cause incendiarism for votes." Three women have been detained on suspicion.

At the further hearing yesterday at Bow Street of the conspiracy charge against the militant leaders it was stated that 565 letter-box outrages, involving damage to 8,445 postal packets, had been committed in the London area between Jan. 27 and April 14.

It is officially announced that there is no intention to suppress The Suffragette. It is open to anybody to publish it providing that it contains no incitement to crime.

Large House Burned.

LONDON, May 14.—A militant suffragette "arson squad" last night destroyed a large untenanted residence, The Highlands, at Sandgate-on-Sea, near Folkestone. Postcards addressed to the "Dishonorable Prime Minister" and to the "Dishonorable Reginald McKenna, Home Secretary," were left lying about on the premises. There was also a postcard bearing the words, "We hope this is not a poor widow's house."

The business-like bomb addressed to Magistrate Bennett, which was delivered by a letter carrier at the Bow Street Police Court to-day, was marked "immediate," but, disliking the look of it, a cautious court officer took it outside and plunged it in a pail of water.

The suffragette bombs found to-day in one of the passenger cars of a local train running between Kingston-on-Thames and London on the South Western Railway made the third outrage of this kind on the same line within two months. On the arrival at Waterloo of the Kingston train, which was crowded with passengers on their way to business, the conductor noticed in one of the compartments three parcels which aroused suspicion. On investigation two of them were found to contain tin canisters filled with explosives and combustibles, and wrapped in suffragette placards. No explosion occurred. The bombs were handed over to the police.

Schoolboys are taking a hand in helping the suffragettes in their reign of terror. Several "bombs" found yesterday and to-day, which, on examination proved to be dummies, have been traced to boys. The latest "bomb" to be found was picked up this afternoon near the Church House in Dean's Yard, Westminster Abbey. The discovery of the object created a sensation until the police proved its harmlessness.

The Home Office has issued a statement explaining that the Government's attitude with respect to The Suffragette has been misunderstood. The suppression of the paper has not been ordered, and it is open to the Women's Social and Political Union or to anybody else to publish it without incurring the risk of prosecution, provided that no incitement to crime is printed.

The militants declare that the statement of the Home Office is a complete turndown for Reginald McKenna, the Home Secretary, who, they assert, is afraid to tackle the Labor Party, which has undertaken as a matter of principle to back the publication of the militants' organ.

Proceedings at Bow Street.

Striking evidence as to the extensive operations of the suffragettes engaged in the militant campaign and of the bad effect on the women's cause of the outrages committed by them was given at to-day's resumed hearing at the Bow Street Police Court of the charges against the suffragette leaders. Those who occupied the prisoners' inclosure were Harriet Rebecca Kerr, Agnes Lake, Rachel Barrett, Mrs. Beatrice Saunders, Annie Kenney, Laura Lennox, and the analytical chemist Clayton. The case against "Gen." Mrs. Flora Drummond was postponed until July owing to her illness.

Testimony was given by letter carriers and Post Office officials regarding the great damage done to the mails by chemicals and other fluids poured into the public letter boxes.

The former business manager of The Suffragette gave evidence as to the responsibility of the various prisoners for the different departments of that newspaper. The witness explained that his services were dispensed with by the militants because Mrs. Pankhurst thought it was better that only women should conduct the paper.

The witness's evidence as to the loss of circulation by The Suffragette after militant acts had been committed was somewhat surprising. He said that at first 30,000 copies had been printed, but the sales were only 17,000. The circulation then dropped to 7,500, but 3,000 copies were circulated in other ways. Just before last Christmas he told Mrs. Pankhurst that this falling off was due to the letter box raids, but the suffragette leader shrugged her shoulders and said that could not be possible, because when the women were most militant they were most successful.

Archibald Bodkin, counsel for the Treasury, attempted to elicit from the chartered accountant who had audited the books of the Women's Social and Political Union what had become of the so-called "secret service fund" of $1,250,000, of which, The Suffragette announced, $900,000 had been raised. The accountant, however, was unable to throw any light on the subject, which he said had not come within his ken. The women seated in the prisoners' inclosure smiled broadly at Mr. Bodkin's futile efforts to get on the track of their funds.

The accountant while on the witness stand produced the salary book of the Women's Social and Political Union, from which, it appeared, the salaries of the leaders of the militant movement were not princely. Annie Kenney received $21 weekly, Mrs. Drummond and Harriet Rebecca Kerr $17.50, Mrs. Beatrice Saunders and Rachel Barrett $15, and Laura Lennox $10. Christabel Pankhurst, who is living in Paris, drew, according to the books, $875 in the last four months.

Receiver for Pethick Lawrence.

A receiving order was made in the Bankruptcy Court to-day against Frederick Pethick Lawrence, a prominent and wealthy suffragist, who recently severed his connection with the militant sufragette society. The order was made on the application of the Director of Public Prosecutions because of Mr. Lawrence's refusal to pay the costs of the prosecution of himself and his wife and Mrs. Pankhurst when they were brought up at the Old Bailey Sessions on a charge of conspiracy in May last year. The outstanding amount is $3,040. The court appointed an official receiver to take charge of Mr. Lawrence's affairs, and thus, although he is a wealthy man, he will have to place his business affairs in the hands of this official until the Government's claim has been settled.

The application was heard privately. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence and few of their friends were present, but otherwise the public were excluded from the court in order to prevent a demonstration. A crowd of women, however, collected outside the entrance to the court, which was guarded by a strong force of police.

Mr. Lawrence, on leaving the court, remarked:

"I am now a financial cipher, but I am out for a fight in the public interest against a wholly unjust law, which gives the Executive the power to strike a blow at any man who sides with a revolt by charging him with the costs of his prosecution."

In addition to Hugh A. Franklin, a nephew of Postmaster General Samuel, who was due to report to the prison authorities on May 12 under the terms of his license but failed to do so, the police are seeking four women suffragists who ought to have returned to Holloway Jail to-day under the recently passed "Cat and Mouse" act.

No attempt has been made to rearrest Mrs. Pankhurst, who is believed to be too ill to return to prison.

The suffragette agitation is throwing such heavy work upon the police all over the country that the question of employing some sort of help for them is being discussed.

HASTINGS, May 14.—A joint demonstration of the Tax Resisters' League and militant suffragettes, held here to-day as a protest against the sale of the belongings of those who refused to pay taxes, was broken up by a mob. The women were roughly handled and half smothered with soot. Their banners were smashed.

The police finally succeeded in getting the women into a blacksmith's shop, where they held the mob at bay until the arrival of reinforcements. The women were then escorted to a railway station.

STRAWBRIDGE AS "M. F. H."

American Sportsman Will Run the Cottesmore Hunt Conservatively.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 14.—R. E. Strawbridge sailed on the Olympic to-day. He recently became the master of the Cottesmore Hounds in Leicestershire, one of the oldest hunts in England, and has taken a lease of Knarsington Hall for a period of years. He has been there for the past few months, preparing for the coming season, and will return in August for cub-hunting.

Mr. Strawbridge told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that he had no intention of making innovations; that the Cottesmore was one of the few hunts which had not become cosmopolitanized and would continue to be run on the lines of the old English hunt.

Others aboard the Olympic are Commodore F. G. Bourne and family and Gen. William Ames.

WANTS BISHOP'S PALACE.

Somebody, Said to be American, Offers to Buy Salisbury Building.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, May 15.—The Bishop of Salisbury, speaking at a meeting at Marlborough yesterday to discuss the financial needs of the diocese, said:

"I had a letter recently from a firm of agents offering to purchase the Bishop's Palace at Salisbury for a wealthy client. My reply was that if he were prepared to include the Cathedral as a little extra I might possibly consider it."

Covent Garden Sold Out in Hour for Night of His First Appearance.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 14.—The date of Caruso's first appearance at Covent Garden was not announced till this morning, but, despite the fact that prices are double the ordinary rates, practically the whole house was booked within an hour, a record for Covent Garden.

Caruso will receive £500 ($2,500) a performance.

Funeral of Mrs. John Ford.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 14.—The first part of the funeral service for Mrs. John Ford was held at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, at noon to-day. The service, which was private, was conducted by Canon Edgar Sheppard, Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal. The principal mourners were John Ford and Walter Burns. Mr. and Mrs. F. Cavendish-Bentinck, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur James, Ogden Mills, Lord and Lady Granard, Mrs. John Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harcourt, Capt. Richard Ford, and Mrs. Robert Crawshay were also present.

London's Chief Detective Out.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 14.—The resignation of Sir Merville Macnaghten, Assistant Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, is announced.

As the head of the criminal investigation department he has been London's chief detective and the master mind in unraveling many mysterious crimes.

TO TREAT CANCER BY STARVING CELLS

That Is, High-Tension Electrical Treatment with or Without the Use of the Knife.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, May 14.—Dr. Keating Hart, a French cancer specialist, well known to American scientists through his lectures at the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital last year, has laid before the Academy of Medicine an entirely new theory of the causes of cancer, the main features of which are: First, that the disease is not heriditary; second, that it is local at the beginning and consequently curable.

Recalling the two hypotheses now dividing medical men into two camps—one that malignant tumors are caused by a parasite, the other that a cancer is simply composed of normal cells transformed in one way or another—Dr. Keating Hart asserts that the former is irrational in the present condition of science, because a cancerous cell acts quite differently from an infected one—just like a cell with exaggerated vitality. He points out that it is sufficient for these cells to be divided to make them incapable of reproducing the disease, while in every other infectious malady no amount of crushing is sufficient to prevent further inoculation.

He also brings evidence to show the very close connection between the characteristics of ordinary cells and those of cancerous tissue, and to demonstrate that the sole deep difference between them is determined by the amount of nourishment they receive and their speed of reproduction. He says that after a long series of researches and the most careful collection of data he has discovered that the development of cancer is in direct proportion to the amount of sugar the organism has at its disposition. In support of this statement he reminded his hearers that cancer was specially severe among diabetic patients.

On the other hand, he directed attention to the fact that cancer always developes around the parts of the body which were constantly more or less inflamed and just where the blood vessels were dilated and the heat was greatest. Here, he declared, the cells were exposed to a double forcing action; namely, nutrition, because of the extra quantity of blood brought to them, and heating, for the same reason.

The new treatment of cancer which he proposes, by which he asserts he is able to save from certain death a large number of patients abandoned by the rest of the Faculty, is both general and local. The general treatment consists in the reduction of food to a minimum in order to starve the overgrown cells as fast as possible. The local treatment consists, first, of the usual surgical operation, where this is possible, followed by the application of what is known as "fulguration," the directing of a stream of high-tension electric sparks against the affected part. In this way, he says, more than thrice the number of lasting cures can be effected than are possible through the use of the surgeon's knife alone. In inoperable cases, however, electric heating currents are used, combined with rays, the healthy skin being protected from destruction by the application of bags of ice.

Dr. Keating Hart's address, which was received with the greatest interest by the Academy, was followed by further evidence in support of the same theory by Dr. Guelpa, also recognized as an authority in this branch of pathology, who gave the particulars of two cases in which he cured serious cancers in diabetic patients by severe fasting and purging.

The statements of the two scientists are considered among medical men here of the highest importance to the progress of science, and the results of the further series of experiments and observations which they intend to carry out together are eagerly awaited.

KILLED ON GERMAN WARSHIP

Four Sailors Dead and Three Hurt by Explosion on Torpedo Boat.

HELGOLAND, May 14.—Four German bluejackets were killed and three others seriously injured to-day by the explosion of a high-pressure cylinder in the engine room of Torpedo Boat "S. 148" while the vessel was taking part in manoeuvres near here.

The two torpedo boat flotillas returned to Helgoland with their flags flying at half-mast and landed the injured for treatment at the Naval Hospital.

FATAL COLLISION IN AIR.

Monoplane and Biplane Crash—One Man Dead and Three Hurt.

JOHANNISTHAL, May 14.—Another collision in the air occurred here to-day. A biplane piloted by Capt. Zucker and carrying a pupil named Dietrich as a passenger came into collision with a monoplane at an altitude of sixty feet. Zucker was instantly killed, Dietrich was badly injured, and the two men in the monoplane were slightly injured.

German Warships to Visit Our Ports

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 14.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed that the German protected cruisers Vineta and Hertha will visit Atlantic harbors of the United States next August.

FLEET PROVES OUR POWER.

London Paper's Comment on Coming Visit of Our Warships.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, May 15.—The Standard, commneting editorially on the proposed visit to the Mediterranean of the American fleet, which it describes as a "mighty flotilla," says:

"Europe will have brought home to it a fact which it is too often disposed to ignore. In their comparisons of the relative strength of maritime forces the statesmen and publicists of the Old World sometimes forget to direct their gaze beyond the Atlantic.

"They will be reminded that the United States is still the second naval power of the globe. It chooses to hold aloof from the various alliances, understandings, and rivalries of the European system, but if it pleased it could throw its weight into the scale with decisive effect.

"There is no reason to suppose that it has any immediate intention of departing from its traditional policy, but it is not without significance that this remarkable illustration of American potentialities is to be given in that quarter of the world which is at present undergoing reconstruction and political transition.

"It is at least a very forcible hint that when American diplomacy cares to assert itself it can do so with the only kind of backing that our modern diplomatists appear to recognize."

ALMA-TADEMA SALE.

Treasures Collected by the Artist to be Dispersed by Auction.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 14.—The artistic treasures of the late Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema, R. A., are to be sold by auction.

The artist did not confine himself to any particular branch of art as a collector, but bought anything he fancied in his wanderings at home and abroad.

The sale, which will take place in the beautiful studio of the painter's London residence, will begin on June 9 and last six days.

BIG WINDOW FOR ST. JOHN'S.

60-Foot "Light of the World" Completed for New York Cathedral.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 14.—The Whitefriars glassworks in London have just completed a painted window of imposing dimensions for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York.

The window, which is 60 feet high, is now exhibited in London. It is intended to typify the "Light of the World." In the centre right is the Son of Man, as described in Revelation, standing with upraised hand. The great figure of Christ is 10½ feet in height and will be clearly visible at a distance of 500 feet.

The mosaic method of setting colored glass has been employed, particular importance being attached to the setting of every piece of glass, in order that its value may be fully developed.

NEW SOURCE OF GASOLINE.

Doherty Tells Londoners It Can Be Made from Illuminating Gas.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 14.—A gasoline famine is imminent, but it can be relieved by the recovery of benzol from ordinary illuminating gas, according to Mr. Doherty, a New York gas expert. He made these assertions at a dinner given by Lord Montagu of Beaulieu at the Savoy Hotel to-night.

According to Mr. Doherty 12,000,000 gallons of benzol annually could be obtained from the gas of London alone.

CHINESE LOAN NEXT WEEK.

$37,083,400 to be Offered in London Without Underwriting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, May 15.—The Daily Telegraph understands that arrangements for the Chinese five-power loan of $125,000,000 have been completed, and that the bonds will probably be offered about the middle of next week. The amount offered in London will be $37,083,400. A similar sum will be placed in Paris, while Germany will take $30,000,000. The balance will be divided between St. Petersburg and Brussels.

Although the final decision has not been reached, there is reason to believe that the loan, which carries interest at the rate of 5 per cent., will be offered to the public at 90 without the assistance of underwriters.

WRECK MYSTERY UNSOLVED

Fear That Vessel May Be the Kenilworth Castle Continues.

LONDON, May 14.—The identity of the steamer reported to be ashore at Cape Blanco, Africa, is still a mystery.

In spite of the assurances of the officials of the Union-Castle Company that the stranded vessel cannot be the Kenilworth Castle, the underwriters consider that this possibility is not excluded, and they are showing considerable anxiety.

Cape Blanco, where the British steamer Astraea saw a wreck in the haze on May 10, is a desolate point where nobody ever lands. There is no means of communication for hundreds of miles, and, therefore, it is not likely that definite news will be received for days.

CHINA GIVES UP MONGOLIA.

Secret Agreement with Russia Said to Have Been Signed.

LONDON, Thursday, May 15. — A secret agreement between Russia and China was signed recently, according to the Peking correspondent of The Daily Telegraph. Under it China concedes complete autonomy to Outer Mongolia, whose frontier has been delimitated.

This agreement, which, the correspondent says, is certain to create a storm throughout China when it becomes known, saves Kobdo and Uliassutai, besides all the Kirghiz country and extreme northwestern Mongolia.

Autonomous Mongolia will measure more than half a million square miles. No such surrender has been chronicled since 1898 when the Port Arthur and Kiao-Chow coups were recognized by treaty.

SUGGESTS PEACE DREIBUND.

Lord Norton Says England, America and Germany Could Prevent War.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, May 15.—Lord Norton, in a letter to The Morning Post, apropos of the Anglo-American peace centenary, urges the co-operation of England, the United States, and Germany for the preservation of international peace.

After pointing out that the three nation are of one blood and lineage, Lord Norton says:

"The bloated armaments at the present time are the curse of the world. Peace cannot be insured without some armaments to enforce arbitration, but England, the United States, and Germany, with far less bloated armaments, could examine all international disputes and arbitrate so as to avert all appeals to force.

"Surely next year there is a golden opportunity for the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes to be hauled up on one mast and to offer to include the Eagle of Germany in the cause of lasting arbitration for the peace of the whole world.

"International quarrels there must ever be, but England, the United States, and Germany can, if they will, say war shall be no more. A heavy responsibility rests on the statesmen of the three nations to find out a way."

CUBA'S PART IN DEDICATION.

Vote to Send White and Black Soldiers to Maine Celebration.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 14.—The House to-day voted $5,000 for Cuba's participation in the Maine Monument exercises in New York. An amendment, which was passed by a vote of 33 to 29 provides that the company of soldiers to be sent shall include both whites and blacks. The bill also provides for the appointment of three Cuban Commissioners. The entire representation will sail for New York on the cruiser Cuba.

Speaker Lanuza announced that he would send the bill to the Senate immediately.

PRINCE TO MARRY IN PARIS.

Officials in Italy Refused to Grant Favor to Karageorgevitch.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, May 15.—A telegram to The Daily Express from Rome says:

"It is reported from Florence that Prince Arsène Karageorgevitch (brother of the King of Servia) experienced the greatest difficulty in arranging to marry Mrs. Huger Pratt, the rich American widow to whom he recently became engaged.

"He approached the Mayor and asked that, in view of his position, the usual formalities incidental to a marriage in Italy should be accelerated, if not altogether dispensed with. This request was refused. The Prince then asked the Russian and American Ambassadors to approach the Government. They also refused to help him.

POWERS' FORCE IN SCUTARI.

International Detachment Under English Officer Enters City.

CETTINJE, May 14.—An international naval force, commanded by Vice Admiral Cecil Burney of the British navy, to-day took possession of the fortress of Scutari.

The international force was escorted into the city by a Montenegrin guard of honor.

VIENNA, May 14.—The international force that is to occupy Scutari until the new Albanian Government has been established was landed at the port of San Giovanni di Medua this morning.

It was enthusiastically received by the Albanians.

The Austrian and Hungarian Ministers at a joint meeting to-day decided to dismiss the reservists only very gradually. About one-third will be dismissed, chiefly from the northern frontiers. Very few will be taken from Galicia and the southern frontiers until peace is actually concluded and the dispute between Bulgaria and Servia is arranged.

New Mexican Consul Here.

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—Ricardo Huerta has been appointed Consul at New York. He will succeed Enrique Martinez Sobral.

KEENAN ANNEXATION LEADER

Pittsburgher is Said to be the Head of the Isle of Pines Movement.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 14.—The Cuban commission, which was sent to the Isle of Pines, reported to the Government to-day. It says that many of the assertions made by Americans in their petition to the United States Senate were not founded upon facts. Americans, the Commissioners say, form only one-fourth of the population of the island, although the vast majority of real estate holdings are in the hands of Americans.

The report says that the leader of the annexation movement is Thomas J. Keenan of Pittsburgh. It will be forwarded to the State Department.

ANOTHER FRENCH SCANDAL.

Senators and Deputies Accused of Aiding Gambling Houses.

PARIS, May 14.—The amendment to the Anti-Gambling bill introduced by Deputy Jacques Piou was rejected by the Chamber of Deputies to-day by a vote of 331 to 220.

The Piou amendment sought to revoke all gambling licenses granted under the law of 1907. It first came up in the Chamber last Friday, when the Chamber adopted a resolution in favor of its further consideration.

The acceptance of the amendment would have involved the closing of many clubs and Summer resort casinos.

Deputy Vicomte Gustave de Kerguezec, who at a previous session of the Chamber exposed clandestine gambling in Paris and the manner in which wealthy visitors are fleeced by professional gamblers, made another statement to-night which caused a great commotion.

On the authority of the special gambling Police Commissioner he declared that many Deputies and Senators were addicted to gambling in public as well as in private houses. The police, therefore, found much difficulty in establishing a breach of the laws because of the protecting influence of these politicians over the gambling places. Invariably the gamblers knew the day and hour when a raid might be expected, and the police on their arrival could find no one.

Mapping Out a Career

¶ Careers are of three kinds—plain, checkered, and remarkable.

¶ The first is ordinary, the second is reprehensible, the third is a consummation devoutly to be wished.

¶ And to whichever classification you belong or aspire, Saks clothes will materially assist you in attaining it.

¶ If you are a plain man, a solid, substantial, conservative, backbone-of-his-country individual, we have models and fabrics attuned to your personality.

¶ If you are a reprehensible man, fond of turning night into day and all that sort of thing, we have radical models and cloths that will contribute to an undiminished gaiety of soul!

¶ If you are a remarkable man, in your own opinion or in other people's (which are one and the same thing), we can show you garments of such distinctive character that they will lure even your contemplative soul from the cloistered aisles of introspection.

WILL ATTACK GRAFT IN POLICE UNIFORMS

BURDEN ON PATROLMEN

District Attorney Looking for $10,000 Murtha "Loyalty" Fund—To Try Duffy on May 27.

Pending the trials of the half dozen or more policemen whose bribery and extortion cases have not yet been disposed of, District Attorney Whitman will pursue another line of graft investigation directed at the Police Department. This investigation will concern solely the procuring of uniforms and other equipment for the 10,500-odd members of the police force. Mr. Whitman has received intimations that several dollars in the past have been tacked to the price of each police uniform in order to keep a few high police officials in luxury.

The investigation will lean directly toward Police Headquarters, in the first instance. Mr. Whitman hopes by this shift in the graft hunt to reach the man or men who won temporary safety by the recalcitrant stand of the four ex-Inspectors, now on Blackwell's Island. If the District Attorney runs into another stone wall he will still have the bribery charges against the ex-Inspectors to fall back on as incentives to indictments of the suspected higher police officials.

The minimum cost for uniforms and equipment of every first-year patrolman is $120. Thereafter the annual expenses are less, but whenever a suit or overcoat becomes shabby, according to the District Attorney's information, a royalty is paid into the coffer of a police official. The evil of the present system, is is said, lies in the enhanced cost of manufacture. It is between the manufacturers' agents and the agents of the suspected police officials, it is said, that the patrolmen are robbed of the opportunity of getting cheaper uniforms.

Hunt for Murtha "Fund."

Reports of a large fund to buy the silence of ex-Inspector Murtha, one of the four police officials who were convicted for conspiring to keep Sipp, the informer, out of the jurisdiction of the local courts, have reached the District Attorney's office. One of the reports mentioned $10,000 as the amount of the alleged "loyalty" fund.

All in all, no explanation of Murtha's eleventh-hour change of heart appears half so plausible to the District Attorney as does the silence fund explanation. As in the cases of the alleged funds for Patrolmen Hartigan and Robinson, however, there is little prospect that the necessary corroboration for the report can be found.

There is no doubt in Mr. Whitman's mind that Murtha was the poorest of the four ex-Inspectors who were sent to the Island for a year's imprisonment. Murtha's only "rich" assignment throughout his whole career was the assignment to the Harlem district. But he had been in Harlem only three months when Commissioner Waldo transferred him. When Murtha became involved in the conspiracy net he was the first to realize that the case against him, because of his limited stay in the Harlem district, was not over strong. On March 19, consequently, he went to the home of District Attorney Whitman to ask for terms. Mr. Whitman, it is understood, told him that he would have to deliver a man higher up, and Murtha went back to his home in Flatbush to think the matter over.

Murtha never came back to Mr. Whitman's home to conclude the bargaining. Something had changed his mind.

$10,000 Saved for Grafters.

It was recalled yesterday that the police system had been spared paying the $10,000 silence fund to ex-Patrolman Fox because of Fox's confession. A fourth of this fund was offered to Fox in cold cash, but was refused. Mr. Whitman's investigators are trying to find out from trust companies and banks whether an equal amount was transferred to the account of some kin or friend of Murtha's on or about March 20.

Assistant District Attorney John Kirkland Clark moved yesterday for the trial of Sergt. Peter J. Duffy, alleged collector for ex-Inspector Sweeney, and the trial was set for May 27. It will thus follow immediately on the heels of the Stilwell trial. Justice Seabury ordered a special panel of seventy-five for the Duffy trial.

Duffy has been indicted six times for bribery, but will be tried on the indictment alleging that he took $30 from Julius Roth, a gambler of West 117th Street, on or about Sept. 3, 1912. This $30, the State will try to show, was the regular monthly levy on Roth's place.

Roth will appear against Duffy at the trial. Ashley Shea, the confessed gambler and bribe collector, will also be a witness.

McGIRR NOW A CAPTAIN.

First Policeman to Rise to That Rank from a Doorman.

Commissioner Waldo yesterday promoted Lieut. Patrick H. McGirr, for many years assigned to the Arsenal Police Station in Central Park, to the rank of Captaincy, and assigned him to the Alexander Avenue Station. McGirr is the only Captain in the Police Department who rose to that place from the rank of doorman. He thought he would never be able to become a Captain because ex-Commissioner Theodore Roosevelt once reduced him from Sergeant to patrolman for failing to make certain complaints.

The voluntary retirement of Capt. William Hogan, in command of the Adams Street Station, was announced yesterday. Capt. Hogan became a member of the department in 1880. He will receive a life pension equal to half his salary. Capt. Frank J. Morris of the Twenty-second Street Station takes Capt. Hogan's place in Brooklyn, and Capt. John Barnes of the Alexander Avenue Station was transferred to the Twenty-second Street Station.

DORA GILBERT CONVICTED.

Rosenthal's First Wife Found Guilty of Keeping Disorderly Resort.

Dora Gilbert, the first wife of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, who was murdered in front of the Hotel Metropole last July, was convicted yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions of keeping a disorderly resort in West Twenty-seventh Street. On the witness stand she asserted that she was being hounded by the police and that they had been after her ever since the conviction of Lieut. Becker for the murder of Rosenthal.

The evidence against Mrs. Gilbert was obtained by Detectives Sczmisky and Hendsman, who said that they were working under the direction of Third Deputy Police Commissioner Newberger. They obtained the evidence, they testified, on April 3, and said that a raid followed the next day, in which Mrs. Gilbert was arrested.

In her own defense Mrs. Gilbert said that she kept a boarding house, and that one of the floors of her house was rented to a college fraternity. Her lawyer, Charles G. F. Wahle, asserted that the raid and arrest were a "frame-up" on the part of the police. The conviction was not unanimous, Justice Zeller dissenting from Justices McInerney and Herrman. Justice McInerney said that he did not believe that the police at this time would be guilty of such a foolhardy thing as "framing up" any one.

STILWELL TRIAL NEXT WEEK

Announced That It Will Begin on Wednesday, May 21.

Justice Seabury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court granted yesterday Assistant District Attorney Nott's motion asking that State Senator Stephen J. Stilwell of the Bronx, indicted for bribery, be tried next Wednesday.

Stilwell was indicted for demanding $3,500 from George H. Kendall, President of the New York Bank Note Company, who was interested in a bill backed by Senator Stilwell. Senator James D. McClelland, Stilwell's counsel, agreed to the date set for the trial, and Stilwell was brought to the bail department, where his bond of $5,000 was signed by Patrick and Emma Butler, who offered property at 3,301 Olinville Avenue, the Bronx. This bond was refused Tuesday owing to the fact that the will giving the property to the Butlers was not presented. This technicality was complied with yesterday.

MAY INDICT TWO FOR TAXI GRAFT

GRIMM FACES GRAND JURY

Comes Away Saying That He Will No Longer Favor Private Stands—Ready Now to Report.

At least two indictments are expected as a result of the taxicab graft investigation now being pursued by the District Attorney and the Grand Jury. Late yesterday afternoon Assistant District Attorney Du Vivier struck a trail which, he said, would lead him directly to the spot where money was passed to provide favors for the taxicab interests.

Earlier in the day the Grand Jury heard for two hours the testimony of Alderman Henry F. Grimm, Chairman of the committee of the Board of Aldermen which had charge of the framing of an ordinance relative to taxicab rates and stands and which delayed making any report for fifteen months. Under examination by Mr. Du Vivier he told a story which caused the Assistant District Attorney to wink one eye when asked later if a Grand Jury investigation had been justified. Before going into the jury room Alderman Grimm had signed a waiver of immunity.

Grimm was asked what his relations were with the Yellow Taxicab Company, and admitted, it is said, that he had been on very agreeable terms with officials of this company for the last year and a half. He denied any wrongdoing, however, and said that he had never received money or any other consideration from the Yellow or any other taxicab company in return for delaying Aldermanic legislation.

The admission of his intimacy with officials of the Yellow Taxicab Company, which is the company that is specifically under the fire of Mr. Du Vivier just at present, it was said resulted in a flow of questions as to where and when and under what circumstances he had conferred with these officials. It developed that there had been meetings in an uptown hotel. He could not tell just how many, but there had been one meeting only about two weeks ago, at which Harry R. Schwartz, Vice President and Acting Manager of the Yellow Taxicab Company, and Bert Hull, a clerk of the Board of Aldermen, were among those present. The meetings were not in any sense secret, the Alderman said.

In a talk with reporters Alderman Grimm later in the day admitted that he had changed his mind as to the kind of taxicab legislation needed by the city.

"There will not be two reports," he said, "for I will agree with whatever the other members of the committee think is right. I am willing to recede from my position in favor of private hackstands, in order that there may be no further disagreement."

Discussing his appearance before the Grand Jurors, Alderman Grimm said:

"I told them everything they wanted to know, and I think I convinced them that there was nothing wrong about my actions. I am ready to submit a committee report to the Board of Aldermen. The report will go in next Tuesday."

"Will it advocate the rescinding of private stand licenses?" he was asked.

"I think so," replied Mr. Grimm.

Waiting for Alderman Grimm in Mr. Du Vivier's office were his associates of the "majority" group in the Taxicab Committee, Daniel Coleman, Frank Cunningham, and John McCann. All had signed immunity waivers, but none had been called to testify. They stood ready to tell everything they knew, they said, and would swear that no influence had tended to delay the committee's report. Alderman Cunningham was particularly anxious to appear before the Grand Jury.

"I have been on this committee only two months," he said. "I became a member when Alderman John J. Meagher resigned, and I never received notice to attend a single meeting. I dropped in, accidently, at the last meeting of the committee, and that was my first sitting. So I certainly could not be held responsible for the delay."

All three denied that they had received passes for free taxi rides. Their names do not appear on the "100 per cent. free" list of the Yellow Taxicab Company.

One new name, that of a former Police Inspector, was added yesterday to the list of those known to have free passes. This Inspector was demoted to a Captaincy, and was transferred recently from the upper east side to a far-off station in Brooklyn.

Bert Hull will be called as a witness to-day to tell what he knows about conversations between Aldermen and officials of the Yellow Taxicab Company. Mr. Hull, as clerk of the board, enjoys the confidence of most of the Aldermen. Another witness will be Joe Vendig, well known in the bookmaking days of horse racing as "Circular Joe." It was said yesterday that Vendig was one of the confidential agents of the Yellow Taxicab Company. He sat outside of the Grand Jury room yesterday while Alderman Grimm was testifying. Subpoenas were served yesterday on officials of other taxicab companies.

GETS SUMMONS FOR STARTER.

Knickerbocker Guest Says He Had to Take Hotel Cab.

Edgar P. Lawson, a manufacturer of machinery at 70 Duane Street, who lives at Riverside Drive and Eighty-fifth Street, complained to Magistrate Cornell in Jefferson Market Court yesterday against the starter of the Universal Taximeter Cab Company, which has the stand privilege in front of the Hotel Knickerbocker. Mr. Lawson charged the starter with attempting to prevent him from using the vehicle of an independent cabman, and with abusive language. The Magistrate issued a summons, and the complainant served it personally on the starter, whose name he did not know. The summons directed the starter to appear at 10 o'clock to-day and answer the charge of disorderly conduct.

According to his complaint Mr. Lawson went to the hotel two weeks ago in his own automobile to keep a business engagement with a representative of the New York Edison Company. He sent his car home intending to return in a taxicab, Mr. Lawson said. When he left the hotel, carrying some papers in a leather bag, the starter forcibly took the bag from his hand, put it in one of the Universal cars and tried to induce him to follow.

"When I told the starter that I would not ride in the hotel cab," Mr. Lawson said, "the starter retorted:

"'You'll go in this or none at all.'

"After I had called an independent cabman the starter used abusive language," said Mr. Lawson. "I had to call the doorman of the hotel to recover my bag. The same trouble happened to me on a previous occasion, but I was accompanied by a young woman at that time and made no protest to avoid a scene. I wrote a complaint to Police Commissioner Waldo, but, hearing nothing from it, I have since been trying to have the man punished. Finally, after much trouble and loss of time, I was directed to Deputy Police Commissioner Dillon, who promptly took the matter up in a businesslike way and sent Sergt. Robinson with me to the court to procure the summons. The whole matter has been the cause of great annoyance to me, and I would rather have paid my lawyer $250 to attend to it, but it seemed to me that it was a matter that should not be ignored."

Mr. Regan, proprietor of the Hotel Knickerbocker, was out of town last night. His representatives said they knew nothing of the trouble with Mr. Lawson. The Universal Taximeter Cab Company had no report of the trouble, it was said there.

The corporation will arrange contests, provide public amusement resorts, and manage fields for holding of the games. The principal office is in Manhattan, and the Directors are Hicks A. Weatherbee, Richard R. Sinclair, and George E. Ellis of Manhattan; Philip Huetwohl of Brooklyn, and Oscar J. Heig of Woodhaven.

WANTS SIRE PUNISHED.

In Contempt, Lawyer Says, for Leaving Supplementary Proceedings.

Supreme Court Justice Pendleton reserved decision yesterday on the application of Attorney Hugh G. Miller to have Clarence D. Sire, a former client, punished for contempt of court. Miller sued Sire for $3,000 fees, and was examining him in supplementary proceedings, he said, when Sire left the room. J. Sidney Bernstein, counsel for Sire, said that there was no contempt of court in Sire's behavior, because he had appeared voluntarily to be examined, without having been regularly subpoenaed.

Miller insisted that Sire had conceded the regularity of the service by appearing. Bernstein said that the reason Sire left was that he disputed the accuracy of the stenographer's transcript of some of his testimony. Miller said he represented Sire in proceedings to break the will of his father, Benjamin Sire, the theatrical manager, and got him $100,000. Under the will which was overthrown, Miller said, the entire estate went to Albert Sire, another brother.

NO GUILT ON EITHER SIDE.

So a Jury Refuses to Award a Divorce to the Alletzhaussers.

Mrs. Catharine Alletzhausser and her husband, George Alletzhausser, a wealthy resident of Woodhaven, who sued each other for divorce before Justice Van Siclen in the Queens County Supreme Court, were yesterday found by a jury to be guiltless of the charges of infidelity they made against each other. As a consequence neither is entitled to an absolute divorce.

The Alletzhaussers were married in 1884 and have one son and several grandchildren. They separated in 1885, and one of the accusations made against Mrs. Alletzhausser by her husband dated back to that time. Mrs. Alletzhausser is now living at 154 West 100th Street, Manhattan. Her husband will be compelled to continue the payment to her of $1,200 a year alimony awarded to her by order of the court when she obtained a separation from him some years ago.

EASTERN ROADS ASK NEW RATE HEARING

Tell Commerce Commission They Must Increase Their Freight Charges.

CANNOTBORROWOTHERWISE

Assert That Wage Increase, Legislation, and Traffic Improvements Compel the Raise.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Formal application was to-day made to the Inter-State Commerce Commission by the Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Erie, and New York Central Lines for a reopening of the advanced rate cases of 1910. This appeal was made by counsel for the four roads in their own behalf and in favor of all other inter-State carriers in what is known as official classification territory who desire and propose to increase all freight rates, class and commodity, on the basis of 5 per cent., with reasonable minima per 100 pounds and per ton. These new rates would apply to all inter-State shipments in the territory north of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad system and east of the Mississippi River.

In making their appeal for a rehearing, so as to enable the commission to determine whether the proposed 5 per cent. increase in Eastern freight rates is justified, the railroads assert their preparedness to expend vast sums for improvements, demanded by existing and future transportation conditions, and say that the money needed for these improvements must be largely provided through the issue of new securities, and that this capital cannot be obtained under existing transportation rates except on terms which would be prohibitive.

In their petition for a rehearing, which the commission has taken under advisement, the railroads recited in brief the efforts of the Eastern lines three years ago to obtain permission of the commission to increase their freight rates. The commission held then that the carriers had not satisfactorily established their need of increased revenues and refused permission to advance rates. At that time, however, it "indicated a willingness to reconsider its conclusions in the light of future developments in the operations of the carriers."

The petition submitted to-day declares that the carriers "are prepared to show that the cost of conducting the business of the carriers has been and is being steadily increased by increases in capital charges, increases in wages, increases in taxes, increased burdens imposed by legislative enactment, elimination of grade crossings, and in various other respects, and that existing rates are insufficient to afford just and reasonable compensation and return to the carriers and are unreasonably low in view of the value of the service afforded thereunder."

Finally the carriers to-day asked that if the necessity for a general advance in freight rates should be established on a rehearing the commission should determine that the proposed increase was justified without subjecting the carriers to the large expense and delay involved in preparing and filing new tariffs in advance of any determination by the commission of the matters presented by to-day's application. It would cost about $250,000 to print and file the 5,000 tariffs that are involved in the proposed increase.

The commission promised to take up the subject at an early date, but gave no assurance that, even if the case were reopened, it would be able to conduct the necessary public hearings before the Summer recess.

RAILROAD REVENUE RISES.

Eastern Roads Made $27,000,000 More—Western Roads Prosper.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The net operating income of all the large steam railway companies of the United States during the first eight months of the current fiscal year aggregates $591,456,331. This was what was left after deducting operating expenses for rail operations, accrued taxes, and total expenses for outside operations, according to figures made public to-day by the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

The figure includes the returns from all steam railways whose total annual operating revenues exceeded $1,000,000 from July 1, 1912, to aMrch 1, 1913. As compared with the first eight months of the previous year the showing for the railroads of the country is given as follows:

Passenger revenue.	461,128,375	438,328,477

The net revenue of the Eastern railroads during the eight months which ended March 1 was $277,599,272, as compared with $250,624,846. The ratio of the net operating revenue to the total operating revenue during the period was 30.43, as compared with 30.54, the ratio of the same period which closed March 1, 1912.

The total operating revenues of the Eastern roads during the eight months ending with February, 1913, aggregated $912,384,656, compared with $820,647,538 in the corresponding period of the previous year. The operating income of the Eastern roads in the same period was $243,242,570, as compared with $217,570,436.

The Western roads were more prosperous than the Eastern roads. Their net operating revenue for the eight months which ended March 1 was $304,702,445, compared with $256,899,598 the previous year. Their ratio of net operating revenue to total operating revenue was 35.74 per cent., compared with a ratio of 33.90 the year before, the current ratio being 5.3 per cent. higher than that of the Eastern roads.

The total net revenue of some of the principal roads from their rail and outside operations is given for the period from July 1, 1912, to March 1, 1913, as follows:

REACH PIER AGREEMENT.

Garrison Authorizes Chelsea Extension Pending New Construction.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The pending plan for the improvement of New York harbor was discussed at a conference to-day held by Secretary of War Garrison, John Purroy Mitchel, President of the New York Board of Aldermen and member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment; R. A. C. Smith, Dock Commissioner of New York, and P. A. S. Franklin, Vice President of the International Mercantile Marine. The purpose was to arrange for the time of making a further temporary extension of the Chelsea piers.

The plans for the new pier at Forty-sixth Street were shown to Secretary Garrison and assurances were given that on May 22 the Dock Commission and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment would vote formally to appropriate the funds necessary for the construction of the new pier, which, it is estimated, will cost more than a million dollars.

Secretary Garrison expressed his gratification and said that as soon as practicable after the money had been appropriated for the new pier he would sign a permit for the twenty-five-foot extension of the Chelsea piers, where the White Star steamships dock. Mr. Mitchel said he desired that the project should be started before he retired from the city service, as he took great pride in his connection with the matter. Mr. Mitchel desires to enter upon the duties of Collector of the Port of New York on June 2.

The new permit will be for three years. It will contain a clause making the consent of the Federal Government to the extension revocable if for any cause the work on the new pier be not prosecuted with reasonable diligence. Probably provision will be made for a six months' notice from the Government before revoking the permit. Secretary Garrison declared plainly his purpose to "hold a club over" the project to insure the completion of the work.

Mr. Mitchel had a short interview with President Wilson, whom he thanked for having appointed him Collector of Customs. It was said afterward that they talked mainly about plans for economy and efficiency in Governmental affairs. Answering questions when he was leaving the White House, Mr. Mitchel said he intended to take an active part in Gov. Sulzer's campaign for direct primaries. He declined to discuss the New York Mayoralty situation.

SENATORS FOR SUFFRAGE.

Committee Favors Submitting Constitutional Amendment to States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14. — The suffragists won a tactical victory to-day when the Senate Committee on Woman Suffrage ordered a favorable report on the Chamberlain resolution submitting to the States a Constitutional amendment giving women throughout the country equal suffrage rights with men. There is little likelihood that the resolution will be considered by either house at this session. If it came to a vote it would be overwhelmingly rejected, but the suffragists say that the committee's report marks the beginning on which future fights for the ballot can be made.

To Amend Senate Quorum Rule.

WASHINGTON, May 14. — Senator Williams gave notice to-day that at the next session he would attempt to amend the Senate rules so that Senators present but paired or not voting could be counted in disclosing a quorum. They cannot be counted now, and a point of "no quorum" has been a favorite strategic movement in many important situations.

WARNED BY REDFIELD ON TARIFF REPRISAL

Employing Lithographers Are Told That Wage Cuts Will Be Investigated.

READS PUBLISHED THREAT

Says Public Has the Right to Demand Efficiency and Proper Treatment of Working People.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14. — Secretary Redfield, speaking before the National Association of Employing Lithographers this evening, stated plainly that the investigation which his department is to conduct into the effect of the new tariff law on wages in the pottery industry will be extended to all industries in which wages were cut following the enactment of the Underwood bill.

Mr. Redfield read from a circular sent out by the lithographers in which they said the reduction of tariff on their articles of manufacture would be followed by reduction of wages and idleness for many of their workmen. Mr. Redfield told them plainly that such a course would be likely to lead to an investigation.

Mr. Redfield said he would not regard the American manufacturer as worsted in competition with the world until the efficiency of American mills was raised to the highest possible standard.

"If I grasp the public mind at all clearly," he said, "it holds unfavorable views toward reduction of wages except under the direst necessity. As, therefore, the reduction of wages has direct social effects and as the public has the right to efficiency in the factory service, the department has undertaken to find out whether the facts do or do not justify the threatened reduction.

"Observe that in saying the 'facts' one does not merely mean the facts as they are, but also the facts as they ought to be. Operating with bad equipment, with unscientific treatment of material, with antiquated methods, in poor locations, with insufficient capital and generally ineffective management will not be esteemed a satisfactory reason for reducing wages."

No "Trust Busting" Spirit.

The Government's investigation, the Secretary assured his hearers, would not be carried on in a "trust busting" spirit, but rather with the idea of aiding any industry that had dropped into a rut. He said few persons realized how efficient was the investigation machinery of the Department of Commerce. He described ramifications of the Bureau of Standards, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, the Bureau of Corporations, and the Bureau of Labor Statistics. He added that the Department of Labor, which would work in harmony in any such investigation, also had many agencies to set in motion.

"The Department of Commerce exists," said the Secretary, "for the purpose of promoting American industry and commerce at home and abroad. It intends to do its work as well as it can with the force and funds provided. As the head of that department, I feel that while its scope in aiding commerce is broad and has many phases, one of these phases, which is important, is that of turning light upon inefficiencies wherever they can be found.

"I have spoken frankly, gentlemen, on this particular line because I have received a circular issued under the auspices of your own association from which I take these words, referring to the reduction in the tariff on the goods in which you are interested as producers:

"'This means workmen thrown out of jobs. It means that wages must go down in order to compete. It may mean longer hours than forty-eight hours a week.'

"You have been yourselves, you see, as frank as I, and your statement was made first. If in the final result the words I have quoted are put into effect by you in a substantial degree, it may become the duty of the Department of Commerce to inquire into your business methods."

Mr. Redfield said that public sentiment had revolted against the old-time idea that an employer's business was his own, to do with as he wished, without regard to the welfare of his workmen or recognition of the public need.

"Perhaps the first among these," he said, "is the duty owed to the operatives in the business. It is not too much to say that public opinion demands that operatives shall receive a living wage and, so far as possible, continuous employment; that they be freed from arbitrary reductions in the daily wage or of the piecework rate. The public conscience demands that they work under healthy conditions, with ample light, without overspeeding, and with the same provisions for their safety at their work that the employer would desire for himself were he so employed. Furthermore, public opinion is becoming sensitive on the subject of overfatigue and recognizes that the demand for reasonable working hours has a sound physiological basis.

"The greatest interest in our manufactures is that of the people, without whose purchases the factories would close. They have more at stake than any one else, and they are beginning to have very clear ideas respecting their interest in our factories and how to look after it. It is chiefly they who refuse to admit any longer that the head of a great business concern can do as he will with what he is pleased to call his property. It is they who insist on the treatment of the operatives as men and women with minds and souls, and not as machines, and it is they who are insisting now in no uncertain way that the factory does not fulfill its proper function unless it supplies at a reasonable price and of proper quality the goods they desire to buy."

Public Demands Efficiency.

Secretary Redfield attributed to inefficiency on the part of manufacturers the smallness of profit and the necessity for retrenchment in operating cost at the expense of their employes. He insisted that the consumer of the present day had a right to expect efficiency in management, and added that the public would resent any lack of it.

"The definite wrath against monopoly," he said, "the flood tide of opinion against special privilege, the stern demand for efficiency as a duty which our industries owe to the public—these are all parts of the awakened American manhood.

"The gospel of self-respect and of American manhood is making its way," said the Secretary, "and the day of industrial fear is passing. It is my hope, so far as I can, to aid and not to hinder American industry. I believe that for it a day of freedom has just begun and that we are shaking off the shackles of a real industrial slavery to enter upon the arena of free competition, strong, athletic, and vigorous, in which our business will be stronger and safer and in which we shall be happier than before.

"As a last word it is important that we, as business men, should know that business opinion and public opinion are two different things. If they are in accord it is well for business. If they are not in accord it is ill for business, for business depends for its peace and prosperity upon the sustaining power of public opinion. In the relations of which I have tried with courtesy and candor to allude, the purpose of the Department of Commerce will be, as in all these relations it ought to be, to bring the power of public opinion to the support of legitimate business, and business owes it to itself and to the Nation to drink in the spirit of growth.

"In hard case is he that 'stands pat,' for the world will go by him and leave him standing. Blessed is he that moves with the movement of progressive thought, for to him shall come the reward of living."

A wild chase from basement to tower in search of a cravat or a glove, a barbaric shoving and pushing through masses of bargain hunters, and when the goal is finally reached, most indifferent service — this, thinks the average man, is what buying in the Men's Furnishing Department of a large store means.

Yes, he knows the prices at the retailer's store are higher—but!

What a Man Finds When Shopping at Macy's.

Macy's realizes that the time of the average man is not his own and that every moment must find "something accomplished —something won." We appreciate, moreover, man's instinctive dislike for crowds and useless wandering.

With these things in mind, we located our Men's Furnishing Department directly at the 35th Street entrance, where the busy man can slip in to or from business or at odd moments, finding everything so conveniently arranged and displayed that selecting and completing the purchase need take only a few moments. Prompt service, the excellence and variety of man's every need in furnishings, the convenience of location, the attractive display and arrangement make shopping in Macy's Men's Furnishing Department a pure joy rather than the "nuisance" shopping ordinarily becomes.

CONVENTION BILL VETOED BY SULZER

Governor Disapproves Proposal for Special Election on Constitution, Denounced as Tammany Scheme.

TIME TOO SHORT, HE SAYS

Holds That People Must Study Issues and That Convention in 1915 Will Meet Party Pledge.

Special to The New York Times..

ALBANY, May 14.—The McClelland bill, providing for a special State election June 3 to decide whether there shall be a Constitutional Convention next April, which has been denounced as a Tammany plan to confuse the issue in the municipal election next Fall, was vetoed to-night by Gov. Sulzer.

The measure was denounced by the Republicans and Progressives on the ground that it was a measure to make fusion difficult in New York City next Fall. It was also opposed by the suffragists, who told the Governor it would force upon them at once a new campaign for suffrage among the candidates for Constitutional Convention delegates who would be chosen next Fall if the McClelland bill should be enacted.

The Governor apparently took no notice of the political significance of the bill. He said the Democratic Party pledge would be kept if provision were made for a Constitutional Convention in April, 1915. He said, in a memorandum, that the time in which to prepare for a State election on June 3 was too short, and he expressed the belief that the expense, estimated at $1,000,000, was unnecessary.

"The State Constitutional issues," the Governor said, "should be clearly stated and fully discussed by the people before the selection of their delegates to this Constitutional Convention, and, for the purpose of such discussion and consideration of these vital matters, I feel convinced that the majority of the taxpayers agree with me that the time between now and the election cannot be considered sufficient.

"In my judgment it is highly important that before the selection of their delegates to a new Constitutional Convention the citizens clearly understand and comprehend the fundamental changes they desire their representatives to make in the organic law of the State."

At the hearing before the Governor on the bill the only opponents were William H. Hotchkiss, former Chairman of the State Committee of the Progressive Party, and Joe E. Hammitt, Secretary of the Citizens' Union. The Governor's action on the bill, Mr. Hotchkiss said, would be the "acid test" of the Sulzer Administration.

FOLEY BILL DRAWS CROWD.

Special to The New York Times..

ALBANY, May 14.—Three special trains, two from New York and one from Buffalo, brought to Albany to-day 1,000 employers of labor, who expressed their approval of the Foley-Walker Workmen's Compensation bill, which is now before Gov. Sulzer for action. In opposition to the employers were representatives of the State Federation of Labor and trades councils, representing 500,000 workmen, all of whom, it was said, were against the bill.

The opposition to the bill was an attack upon the casualty insurance companies, the labor representatives asserting that the Foley-Walker bill had been drafted in their interests. The bill provides a choice of four methods of furnishing security for the payment of a compensation fund. One is by an agreement to pay employes directly; another is by insuring the risk in insurance companies formed for that purpose; the third provides for the formation of mutual insurance companies, and the last makes provision for a State-supervised fund.

Daniel Harris, President of the State Federation of Labor, read a circular sent out by the casualty companies to show that the insurance companies and not the manufacturers were interested in the bill. Ex-Judge John T. MacDonough of Albany called attention to what he believed to be fatal defects in the bill. He said that no appropriation had been made to carry out its provisions.

"This bill is a fraud on the simple workers of the State," he said. "It was conceived in greed, if not in graft. Such a vicious measure should not receive the approval of the Governor."

Ex-Judge Alton B. Parker, speaking for the bill, congratulated the Governor on his opportunity to put into force "one of the greatest reforms in the history of the country."

Otto M. Eidlitz read this letter from Mayor Gaynor of New York indorsing the bill:

> Dear Mr. Hoey: I carefully studied the bill which Senator Foley sent to me from Albany, and I am wholly in favor of it. I wish it also contained a provision for pensioning old age. Sincerely yours,
> W. J. GAYNOR.
> To James Hoey, New York City.

William H. Hotchkiss, former State Superintendent of Insurance and one of the organizers of the Progressive Party in this State, spoke in favor of the Foley-Walker bill, and attacked the Murtaugh-Jackson bill, urged by the Federation of Labor and defeated by the Legislature.

"I am opposed to State Socialism," Mr. Hotchkiss said. "The main issue is this: The Murtaugh-Jackson bill is Socialism. It provides for State regulated insurance, and the next thing would be a State insurance fund. There are three great influences against Socialism. One is the Catholic Church, another is the Federation of Labor, and the third is my party. It has been said that Progressivism is the antidote of Socialism. Yet the Federation of Labor stands for a Socialistic bill, and the legislative committee of my party also stands for it. I am in the Progressive Party when it is right; but I part with it when it is wrong."

Mulraney to Die Next Monday.

ALBANY, May 14.—"Happy Jack" Mulraney, convicted of the murder of Patrick McBreen, known as "Paddy the Priest," a New York saloon keeper, in October, 1911, will be executed at Sing Sing Prison next Monday. Gov. Sulzer announced to-day that he would not interfere. Mulraney was to have been executed March 17 last, but obtained a respite of sixty days to present new evidence looking to a retrial. The case, however, broke down.

SIGNS ROCKEFELLER BILL.

Special to The New York Times..

ALBANY, May 14.—Gov. Sulzer signed to-day Senator Foley's bill incorporating the Rockefeller Foundation. A measure seeking similar powers from Congress failed to pass that body.

The incorporators of the Foundation are John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Frederick T. Gates, Harry Pratt Judson, Simon Flexner, Starr J. Murphy, Jerome D. Greene, Wickliffe Rose, and Charles O. Heydt, "together with such persons as they may associate themselves with and their successors."

The object of the Foundation is stated to be "receiving and maintaining a fund or funds and applying the income thereof to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

In the accomplishment of that object the Foundation may use research and publications, establish and maintain charitable, benevolent, religious, missionary, and public educational activities through agencies already established and otherwise.

The Foundation may also accept gifts and hold property without limitation to amount, except as the Legislature may hereafter impose. No officer, member, or employe of the corporation is permitted to receive any pecuniary profit from the operations of the corporation except reasonable compensation for services.

CENTURY OPERA FORMED.

Its objects are to encourage and cultivate a taste for music, literature and the arts; to erect, maintain, purchase or occupy buildings for these purposes, and to give in New York and other cities operatic and dramatic performances, concerts and other entertainments. The capital is $300,000, divided into $100 shares. The principal office is in New York, and the business is to begin with $30,000.

The Directors, each of whom subscribes to one share of stock, are Harry Payne Whitney, Clarence H. Mackay, Edward Kellogg Baird, Charles P. Blaney, William C. Cornwell, Edmund L. Baylies, Maurice J. Dix, Edward R. Finch, Otto H. Kahn, Alvin W. Krech, Thomas W. Lamont, Philip M. Lydig, Paul M. Warburg, Herman J. Witte, and Henry Rogers Winthrop, all of New York City.

MAYOR PUTS VETO ON FIVE CITY BILLS

Approves Only the One Enabling the Police Commissioner to Appoint Deputies.

VETOES THE FIRE BILLS

Which He Denounces as Attempts to Fleece the City — No Action Yet on Wagner's Morals Bill.

Mayor Gaynor acted yesterday upon six legislative bills which had been sent to him from Albany. He vetoed five and approved the one which amends the charter to provide for extra Deputy Commissioners of Police. Three of the bills provided for increasing the rank and pay of civilian employes in the Fire Department, and these the Mayor most severely condemned. He sent this memorandum with his approvel of the Police bill:

> I am glad to accept this bill for the city. I deem it of the highest importance. Heretofore the complaints against the police force had to be largely investigated by members of the force itself. This bill enables the Commissioner to appoint Deputy Police Commissioners instead of appointing Inspectors. In that way we will have a force of Deputies large enough to investigate all complaints against members of the department, and to keep up a complete supervision over the department.
> While I freely acknowledge that the Police Department has been steadily improving for several years, and do not wish to complain against the department, nevertheless the complaints against the department ought to be investigated from the outside, and to be able to do so will enable the department to be purged of all grafters and dishonest methods in a much quicker time than that work could be done under present conditions of police control.

Regarding the bill to increase the rank and pay of telegraph operators in the Fire Department, the Mayor said:

> This bill is typical of others passed this year with regard to the Fire Department. It takes thirty-four telegraph operators, now being paid from $1,100 to $1,500 a year, and advances them to the rank and pay of Lieutenants of the uniformed force of the Fire Department. The pay of such Lieutenants is $2,100. It is difficult to understand how the Legislature would do such a thing as this. The city is willing to pay full wages or compensation to telegraph operators, and all others whom it employs, but it does not propose to be fleeced in this way. Why should telegraph operators be Lieutenants at all? And, next, why should they be paid $2,100 a year when no such salaries are being paid to telegraph operators anywhere? I do not accept this and similar bills for the city.

Of the bill to transfer the clerk of the Pension and Relief Fund of the Fire Department to the rank and title of Deputy Chief, the Mayor had this to say:

> This bill takes a clerk of the Fire Department, who serves as Secretary of the Relief Fund at $3,000 a year, and makes him a Deputy Chief of the Fire Department at $4,200 a year. Of course, I cannot accept it any more than the bill which transfers the nineteen Assistant Fire Marshals to the uniformed force, and a list of similar bills with regard to the Fire Department. The wonder is that such a bill could get through the Legislature.

Another bill sought to transfer to the uniformed force of the Fire Department foremen of laborers, hostlers and ship carpenters. Of this the Mayor said:

> This bill takes all the foremen of laborers of the Fire Department, who now receive $1,200 a year; all the hostlers of the department, who also now receive $1,200 a year, and all the ship carpenters of the department, who now receive $4.50 a day, and makes them Lieutenants of the uniformed force at $2,100 a year. The passage of a bill like this is greatly to be deplored. The city cannot be fleeced in this way.

Still another bill provided for a rehearing of the charges by which Saul J. Rosenthal was dismissed from the Fire Department. This is the Mayor's comment on it:

> This bill recites that Saul J. Rosenthal was dismissed from the Fire Department without due notice or a sufficient hearing, and therefore empowers the Commissioner to give him another hearing. This statement of the bill is false. He was tried on due notice. He was convicted of demanding passes from places of amusement. He even went so far as to write such passes on the stationery of the Fire Department. A man with no more moral sense than that is not fit to hold office under any government. I withhold my consent.

This is the Mayor's comment on the bill to regulate and license public dance halls and ballrooms:

> This bill compels the granting of a license to every dance hall proprietor who shows that he has complied with the building and fire laws, no matter how many other such places there may be in his vicinity; that his license can only be revoked after a trial, and that the revocation can be reviewed by the courts on certiorari. I withhold my consent from it. I do not see how such a bill passed. The Mayor caused a bill to be sent to Albany for some decent regulation of the dance halls of the city, and to require them to close at 1 o'clock every night. That bill does not seem to have been treated with decent consideration even. But the objectionable bill before me was passed without any trouble whatever.

The Mayor did not take any action on the Wagner bill for the appointment of a "morals police."

Sulzer Entertains Shevlin.

ALBANY, May 14.—James Shevlin of Brooklyn was a guest of Gov. Sulzer at luncheon to-day. Friends of the Executive say he may ask Mr. Shevlin to contest the leadership of John H. McCooey of Kings County. Mr. Shevlin has promised to aid the Governor in his direct primary campaign.

Kerrigan Efficiency Secretary.

ALBANY, May 14.—Charles F. Kerrigan of Brooklyn has been appointed Secretary of the State Department of Efficiency and Economy by Commissioner John H. Delaney at a salary of $4,000. Mr. Kerrigan has been the Albany correspondent of The Brooklyn Eagle for three years.

Catch Elopers on a Freight.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., May 14.—A runaway couple, Maurice Keith, aged 30, and Josephine Fairbee, aged 27, en route from Cumberland, Md., to Parkersburg, West Va., where they intended to be married, were taken from a freight train in the railroad yard at West Homestead yesterday and sentenced to serve five days in the county jail. Keith told the police he had taken the woman to his home in Maryland, and that his parents liked her. He ran short of funds, he said, but did not want to tell his parents, and the couple decided to reach Parkersburg on a freight train.

Indestructo Line Marks the Progressive Merchant

It Stands for Quality and Protection to You.

The popularity of the Indestructo trunk cannot be questioned. No matter where you travel, you will find the complete Indestructo line displayed in the best store of every city.

Does this immediate acceptance by the most expert merchandisers of the country mean anything to you?

It should mean that you are buying not only Indestructo quality and the Indestructo guarantee, but you are buying the wise judgment of the merchant in whose store you make your purchase.

Talk to the man who will sell you an Indestructo trunk and you will find that he feels better equipped than his competitor who still confines his baggage lines to the old style square-cornered box.

It is not necessary for you to hunt to find the Indestructo dealer in your city. Pick out the best and most progressive merchant and there you will find an Indestructo trunk waiting for you.

Whether you travel little or much—you should have an Indestructo trunk. It will repay you many times over in sincere travel wear.

Do not wait until the old trunk goes to pieces and leaves you baggageless.

Investigate now the trunk that protects you against loss.

WEARIES OF WAITING A COMSTOCK ARREST

THE CROWDS ANNOYED HIM

Picture Left a Week Longer Than Usual, but Nothing Happened—Mr. Ortiz Muses Upon Art Censorship.

Paul Chabas's "September Morning" has been taken from the window of Braun & Co.'s shop in Forty-sixth Street just off Fifth Avenue. It was not withdrawn because of Anthony Comstock's outburst. In point of fact, the French painter's picture of the undraped young woman, who stands shrinking and reluctant in the cool of a pool at dawn, was favored with an extra week in the shop window for no other reason than that it had incurred the displeasure of the elderly suppressor of vice.

M. Ortiz, who manages the shop, says he suspects that Mr. Comstock thundered against "September Morning" just to attract attention to himself. His thunder had the effect of drawing thousands to the shop window. They came in such droves that the path to the interior of the store was blocked to profitable customers, and that is one of the reasons why the picture was taken from view. M. Ortiz tells all about it in this letter to THE TIMES, received last evening:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have taken out of our window the print of Paul Chabas's "September Morning," because it has been there two weeks; that is, one week longer than any picture has ever been in our window. I feel that this little incident has given Mr. Comstock enough notoriety, and I am sure that, since his first visit to our galleries during my temporary absence on last Friday, he has had ample time to take further steps in the matter, if he ever intended to take any. But I do not believe that he was serious. Any person who can take exception to Chabas's lovely, sweet, child-like little maid, and who would, most likely, rule as improper even Michael Angelo's "David," should not be and is not taken seriously.

At any rate, I have given Mr. Comstock five days in which to pay me a second visit and to arrest me if he so chose. I have even neglected other important business in order to remain in my office constantly so as not to miss a chance of making his acquaintance, but he has not come, and I am quite certain that if I were to keep "September Morning" in our window for a whole year he would never come again. He must have quickly realized that he had made a most ridiculous "faux-pas" in trying to insinuate that we could ever publish or exhibit a picture not highly artistic, proper, and refined.

It has been hinted to me that Mr. Comstock grasped this opportunity to secure for himself a little publicity. If it be true, he has certainly achieved his aim. I think that the little girl in "September Morning," my firm, and myself have already done him far too much honor by giving his name a chance to be printed in connection with ours.

Furthermore, the unusual congregation of curious people who have gathered daily in front of our window, as well as the numberless inquiries made in person, have rendered it difficult for our regular clientele to gain access to our galleries, and we have been unable to pay any attention to the ordinary course of our business. I can, therefore, wait no longer for Mr. Comstock's visit. If he wishes to further attract attention by pretending to dictate terms to a reputable firm he shall have plenty of opportunities, for whenever we feel like exhibiting in our window a picture which we deem a fine work of art we shall do so, whether it be a nude or not. I am certain that at all times, as in the case of "September Morning," Mr. Comstock would be the only person to take exception to any picture we might exhibit. The American public would not, and it speaks very well for the American public.

Even if Mr. Comstock's mistaken activity has transformed our premises into somewhat of a public thoroughfare during these last few days, he ought to be thanked for having furnished the people of New York with an opportunity to show that they are well capable of appreciating good art, and, as a propagator of good art only, I almost feel that I ought to thank Mr. Comstock myself.

PHILIPPE ORTIZ,
Manager Braun & Co.

New York, May 14, 1913.

After Mr. Comstock's visit to the shop M. Ortiz asserted that he would keep the picture on display if he had to spend the value of his entire stock contesting the point.

FINED FOR CONTEMPT.

Lawyer Wait Held to be Insolent Before a Rcferee.

Supreme Court Justice Platzek announced yesterday that he had fined John C. Wait, a lawyer of 38 Park Row, $250 for contempt of court. Wait was a witness before Adam Wiener as referee in proceedings to dissolve the partnership of himself and George H. D. Foster, now of 2 Rector Street. Justice Platzek observed:

"The record of the hearings before the referee submitted to me convincingly establishes that the conduct of the defendant was intentionally abusive and insolent and his language inexcusably insulting and abusive."

Wait's explanation was that he was suffering from boils on his neck and was irritable at the time of the hearing. The actions of others at the hearings, he said, were ungentlemanly and increased his own irritation.

SHERIDAN GAINS TIME.

A Week to Show His Bribe from Knickerbocker Co. Was Trap He Laid

Chief Magistrate McAdoo, holding court yesterday in his office at 300 Mulberry Street, decided to give Joseph A. Sheridan, an independent ice dealer, accused of soliciting a bribe from the Knickerbocker Ice Company, another week in which to submit evidence that the $1,000 in marked bills found in his possession on April 26 was given him by the Knickerbock Ice Company's officials for some other purpose than that of bribery.

When the case was called on adjournment from May 8, Sheridan was represented by a lawyer whom he had employed the day before. The lawyer pleaded that Sheridan had not had time to get witnesses who knew of plans to accept a bribe and then expose those who offered it to him. Chief Magistrate McAdo, after learning from the ice company's lawyers that its witnesses had all been heard, said that he had about made up his mind to hold Sheridan for the Grand Jury on the case as made out.

"But there is one interesting point," said he, "and that is the exact naure of the conversation between Sheridan and Joseph Hirsch, a liveryman, of 540 West Forty-fourth Street, to whom he turned over the money paid him by the Knickerbocker Ice Company's Superintendent in an office where dictographs were installed.

"I am puzzled at Sheridan's actions with the money. Did he ask Hirsch to bank it for him, or merely to keep it for him till the next morning? If Hirsch was merely to keep the money it is possible Sheridan meant to turn it over to the District Attorney, whereas if he asked Hirsch to put it in the bank that indicated, seemingly, an intention to keep it. I want Mr. Sheridan to have a full opportunity to bring witnesses to show in any way, if such witnesses exist, that he expected to be bribed or that he thought of laying a trap to show up efforts to bribe him.

"I must say, however, that the dictograph detailed long conversations which in themselves were incriminating and seemed to leave nothing to the imagination as to whether or not Sheridan solicited a bribe. I will postpone the case for another week with a warning that the point of whether or not Sheridan was setting a trap for the ice company is the only one on which, for the purposes of a preliminary examination, I care to hear testimony."

The St. Louis Star Is Sold.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—Announcement was made to-day by Nathan Frank that he had sold The St. Louis Daily Star to Fred Warren and Fred Veon. Mr. Warren, who will continue as editorial director, came from New York last September. Edward S. Lewis of St. Louis has been elected President of the publishing company.

COUNT CONFIRMS WITTPENN VICTORY

FAGAN GETS 12,342 VOTES

Former Republican Mayor Leads by 984 Votes — Government Changes on June 17.

The forces of Mayor Otto Wittpenn of Jersey City won a victory in the elimination election on Tuesday for Commissioners of Jersey City. The returns were not received in full until last night. They showed that the voters had chosen all five of the men in the Wittpenn bracket, in addition to five others out of ninety-one candidates. This would indicate that Mayor Wittpenn, though out of office when the five Commissioners of Jersey City, who are to be chosen on June 10 from the ten selected will be able to control the city and probably elect three of the five Commissioners.

One of the Commissioners will probably be Mark M. Fagan, former Republican Mayor of Jersey City, whose personal popularity yesterday made him the high man among the ten candidates elected at the primaries, with 12,342 votes, as against 8,394 votes for the second man, A. Harry Moore, a Wittpenn Democrat, President of the Christian Endeavor Society, and at present City Collector. The third man was Frank Hague, Democrat, leader of the anti-Wittpenn forces, and a member of the Street and Water Board, who polled 8,116 votes. Another anti-Wittpenn man, James J. Ferris, a contractor, ran fourth, with 6,074 votes.

City Clerk John H. Morris of the Wittpenn bracket was fifth, with 5,863 votes. City Treasurer Carl A. Schumann, also a Wittpenn man, came next with 5,416 votes. Former Police Judge Joseph F. Farmer, a Wittpenn candidate, was seventh with 5,279 votes; Charles P. Olwell, Assemblyman and a Wittpenn follower, stood eighth with 4,741 votes. Thomas J. Stewart, Republican and Prohibitionist, who owns a carpet cleaning and storage plant and had never before entered politics, ran ninth with 4,520 votes, and George S. Brensinger, former Assemblyman and an anti-Wittpenn candidate, ran tenth with 4,177 votes.

Assemblyman Walter L. McDermott, an anti-Wittpenn man, who until a week ago was considered the strongest of all the candidates for Commissioner until his attack on President Wilson in connection with the Jury Reform bill favored by the President turned the popular tide against him, ran eleventh, and thus just outside the race, with 3,781 votes.

The total vote cast was 31,657 for the city, a figure within 3,500 of the number cast in the election for President last Fall, and thus testifying to the enormous popular interest taken in the elimination contest. The fact that of this number Mark M. Fagan polled about 40 per cent. of the total cast for the ninety-one candidates was regarded as significant by politicians last night.

The election carried into the race for Commissionerships next month all five of the Wittpenn candidates, Schumann, Moore, Morris, Olwell, and Farmer; three of the five anti-Wittpen candidates, Hague, Ferris, and Brensinger, leaving out Walter McDermott and John Edelstein, the other two, and two Republicans, Fagan and Stewart.

Of the ten candidates elected at the primaries five will be elected as Commissioners on June 10. All the officers of the present city departments will go out on June 17, when the Commissioners take office.

PICCADILLY
LITTLE CIGARS

Over 4½ MILLION Sold Within the Week

In Greater New York Alone!

There is a new Little Cigar on the map in Greater New York—all over the map—breaking all sales records in the history of Little Cigar Manufacture!

The reason for this unprecedented success of PICCADILLY can be summed up in one sentence—PICCADILLY is absolutely the first Little Cigar that is worthy, in the fullest sense, the name "Little Cigar."

In the last few days Greater New York smokers have discovered that the only difference between PICCADILLY and the best Havana cigars is in the size and the price! PICCADILLY has the same flavor—the same qualities of mildness and sweetness—the same aroma—as first-class Havana cigars.

Because—in making this new Little Cigar we abandoned all the old leaf formulas and adapted the method of blending the best cigars made in Havana. We are using the finest selected Havana tobacco and employing the very best experts in the manufacture of PICCADILLY.

We realize that all the advertising in the world will not induce you to buy your second box of PICCADILLY, if the first PICCADILLY Cigar you smoke does not make good everything we claim for it. But we are entirely confident that every man who tries PICCADILLY will know that he has found the sweetest, mildest and best Little Cigar that has ever been produced,—and he will stick to PICCADILLY.

OUR PUBLIC MEN IN LORD MAYORAL EYES

BUT ALL SO APPROACHABLE

Sir William Sails To-day Back to the "Wretches" Who Are Suffragetting—Fears a Lynching.

Sir William Treloar, ex-Lord Mayor of London, sails back to England on the Baltic to-day, after a whirlwind sightseeing and dining tour here, lasting a fortnight, and none of America's institutions surprised him so much as our big men, as he phrased it, and their easy approachability. Sir William was caught taking 5 o'clock tea all by himself yesterday afternoon at the Waldorf, and cheerfully gave the interviewer carte blanche in asking questions.

"I was very much surprised at the ease of seeing your big men," he began. "Why, Speaker Clark even left the chair and put in a substitute and came down to have a chat with me. A humorous episode marked our visit to Admiral Dewey. Before going to see the Admiral we stopped at a library, and when we came out and got into our automobile we missed our chauffeur. After a long search we found him reclining in the shade of some trees. As I got out of the machine on reaching Admiral Dewey's house I shook my fist at the chauffeur and said:

"'I don't want you to hide this time. We have very little time.'

"When I entered the house the Admiral wanted to know why I had shaken my fist at the chauffeur, and when I told him he laughed heartily. He had seen the episode from his window.

Much Impressed With Wilson.

"President Wilson impressed me as being a very strong man, a big man, but I thought he was a bit worried over the Japanese question, although he did not allude to it. When I told him I was going back on the Baltic, on the same boat as Mr. Page, the new Ambassador to Great Britain, President Wilson laughed and said:

"'You'll be able to give him his final instructions.' The President did not say that he would take them, though. I saw many others of your big men, too. I met Gen. Wood, a very fine man—really an officer and a gentleman, as we say, a very fine chap.

"Mayor Gaynor? Yes, I met him at the Pilgrim luncheon. He struck me as being a very quiet, mouselike sort; I can't quite make him out. As for Mr. Bryan, he impressed me as a man of great power, a strong man. I differ with him a bit, though, on the subject of grape juice. I am not a great drinker, but I like a little something with my meals occasionally.

"Our suffragettes are such miserable wretches," the ex-Lord Mayor of London said when asked about the status of votes for women in England. "I saw your suffragists on parade, and I thought they were very pleasant creatures, behaving very properly, but our suffragettes are wretches. I call a woman or a man a wretch who'll put a bomb in your house and perhaps kill your children.

"Mark my words. I think before very long the long-suffering British public will probably take things into their own hands and there'll be a terrible catastrophe. Some of those wild women will be killed. I fully expect that there will be a lynching in London unless the militants mend their ways. Because, you know, when a mob once gets started, there's no stopping it. The police so far have protected the women and fought off the mob, but the mob is getting uglier and uglier. Yes, I believe someone will be lynched."

TYPHOID FROM LABORATORY

Student of Sanitary Engineering, Infected in Experiment, Dies.

James Harrison Rogers, 21 years old, son of George H. Rogers, who for a number of years has been engineer for the town of East Chester, died yesterday in the Lawrence Hospital at Bronxville from typhoid fever.

Mr. Rogers was a student in civil and sanitary engineering at the New York University and was to have graduated next month. While experimenting in the laboratory of the college with germs he became infected. It is believed that one of the germs was on his hand and that when he rubbed his mouth the germ entered his system. At first the young man thought he was suffering with malaria, but it proved to be typhoid.

Wilson's First Trust Victory.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 14.—The first prosecution directed by the present Administration for violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law has been won by the Government. The case was that of the Hunter Milling Company of Wellington, Kan., the Blackwell Mill and Elevator Company of Blackwell, Okla., and Frank Foltz of the Blackwell Company, charged with having conspired in restraint of trade. Evidence showed that when the two elevator companies were in a price-cutting war Foltz made a trip to Wellington, and thereafter it was impossible for Blackwell merchants to get any of the Hunter products. A verdict against the defendants was returned in the Federal Court. Judge J. H. Cotteral will pass sentence May 24.

Work Begun on Queens Subway.

Work was begun on the construction of the Corona and Astoria extension of the dual subway system in Long Island City. On June 7, at the rapid transit celebration in Queens, a bronze tablet will be unveiled to commemorate the date. The E. E. Smith Contracting Company, which has the job on the Corona line, and Cooper & Evans, who are building the Astoria elevated road, have already made good progress.

MUST PAY WIFE'S BILLS.

Dressmakers Recover $4,197 from Bishop, Who is Being Sued.

A jury in the Supreme Court returned to Justice Newburger yesterday a verdict of $4,197 against James Cunningham Bishop, the banker, in favor of Jessie Farquharson and Margaret Wheelock, dressmakers. The verdict represented the value, with interest, of dresses supplied to Mrs. Abigail Hancock Bishop, who is suing her husband for divorce.

Bishop was the only witness in his own defense. He said he supplied Mrs. Bishop with more than enough money for her personal expenses and had forbidden her to run charge accounts. He also testified that he had told Farquharson & Wheelock over the telephone that he would not be responsible for his wife's bills.

Mrs. Bishop was a witness for the plaintiffs. She was accompanied in court by Miss Inez Milholland, her private counsel; Arthur Johns, a member of the staff of Louis Posner, her lawyer in her divorce suit against her husband, and by James W. Osborne, who represents her in libel actions against newspapers. She testified that because of the death of her mother she needed a mourning-outfit, and that her husband had told her to get one and charge it to him.

Under examination by Daniel P. Hays, counsel for the dressmakers, Mr. Bishop admitted that in 1911, when the dresses were purchased, he had an income of $111,000 a year, o fwhich $90,000 was from the banking firm of Redmond & Co., $16,000 from a trust fund left to him by his father, and the rest from personal securities. Mr. Bishop showed annoyance on his cross-examination, particularly in the tone in which he answered that one of the checks he had drawn was to meet interest on one of his wife's loans, which he characterized as "pawnbroking."

BRITAIN AWES GUATEMALA.

Cruiser's Presence Causes Agreement to Pay Bond Interest.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The arrival of the British cruiser Aeolus off Puerto Barrios, Guatemala, brought quick action on Great Britain's demand for an adjustment of pending claims of British subjects who hold Guatemalan bonds. According to a telegram received by the Guatemalan Legation here, an agreement for settling the matter was signed at Guatemala City this morning by the British Minister and a representative of the Guatemalan Government.

The British Government recently served notice on Guatemala that arrangements for paying the long-deferred interest on the bonds must be made by May 10. The notice was in the nature of an ultimatum. Antonio Batres Jauregui, who was sent here as a special envoy of Guatemala, and Joaquin Mendez, the Guatemalan Minister in Washington, visited the State Department and appealed for help from this Government. They were told that the United States was not inclined to uphold Latin-American nations which did not pay their just debts. Secretary Bryan was absent in California at the time, and the appeal was not heeded until his return. Last Wednesday he telegraphed instructions to the American Embassy in London to request the British Government to defer action. What attention Great Britain paid to this request is not known, but last Saturday the Aeolus sailed from Kingston, Jamaica, for Puerto Barrios.

The bonds in question were issued in 1895. The payment of interest to the British bondholders was guaranteed by the allotment of $1 of each $1.50 of the Guatemalan coffee export tax collected. Payments under this arrangement were regular until 1898. Since then the British Government, acting for the bondholders, has not been able to obtain any satisfaction from Guatemala. Under the agreement signed to-day the arrangement for the payment of interest is renewed.

Mr. Jauregui is in New York endeavoring to arrange for floating a Guatemalan bond issue of $30,000,000, out of which Guatemala promises to pay the $10,000,000 principal due the British bondholders and to adjust other foreign indebtedness.

TWO IRONWORKERS KILLED.

In obedience to an unwritten law of the iron workers, 450 men representing all branches of the craft, including riggers, runners, bolters and derrick riders, quit work at noon yesterday on the new Adams Express Company's Building at 61 Broadway, after two of their number had fallen from girders at the seventeenth floor to their death. The two dead men were members of a gang of four riggers who had been assigned to construct the "outrigging" on the seventeenth floor upon which the iron workers stand while guiding the dangling, derrick-swung girders into place.

One of the four men went below to obtain some tools and another, Thomas Hoey, was working with his back turned to his two companions. Suddenly he heard a shriek and turned in time to see the bodies of his associates hurtling through the air. Both bodies struck a scaffolding at the thirteenth floor, to which the brick work had been carried, with such force as to imperil the lives of a half dozen bricklayers. Then they caromed off and landed upon the roof of the five-story building at 65 Broadway, 200 feet below, which is occupied by the American Express Company.

Daniel Sullivan, 45 years old, of 47 Carmine Street, one of the dead men, was killed instantly, every bone in his body having been broken by the fall. John King, 46 years old, of 1230 Park Avenue, was picked up much mangled and died soon after his removal to the Hudson Street Hospital. Both dead men were married.

Hebrew Veterans to Celebrate.

The Hebrew Union Veterans' Association and the Hebrew Veterans of the War with Spain will hold joint memorial services in commemoration of the dead Jewish soldiers and sailors, who served in the wars of the Republic, at Temple Israel, 120th Street and Lenox Avenue, on next Sunday evening. Military guests are asked to appear in uniform.

FIGHTS NEW INQUIRY BY A HANUS AGENT

Stern Says Data Dr. Bachmann Obtains Will Be Useless to School Board.

TO STUDY TEACHERS' PAY

Commissioners Asked to Grant $5,290 for an Investigation as to Allowances for Next Year.

Dr. Frank P. Bachmann, one of the Hanus School Inquiry Committee, was severely criticised by Commissioner Abraham Stern at a meeting yesterday of the Board of Education in a debate over the adoption of a resolution of the Committee on Finance requesting the Board of Estimate to authorize the expenditure of $5,290 for the payment of services in preparing data on which an allowance in next year's budget for teachers' salaries on increased registration would be asked.

Vice President John Greene, Chairman of the Committee on Finance, explained that it was purposed to employ Dr. Bachmann, clerks and tabulators for the amount named. Dr. Bachmann was to be employed for ninety-three days at $20 a day, or a total of $1,860. The rest of the $5,290 was to be paid to his aids. Mr. Greene said it would tend to establish harmony between the Boards of Education and of Estimate. The question of allowance for increased registry had been the subject of much dispute between these boards. The employment of one of its own committee experts to supply data probably would convince the Board of Estimate that the Board of Education wished to co-operate with it in this matter.

Commissioner Barrett opposed the adoption of the resolution. The board, he said, had a competent auditing bureau of its own which could do this work. Therefore, why call upon outsiders? He was willing, he said, to receive suggestions from without, but he did not want to employ the persons making the suggestions.

"There is hardly in any other department," said Mr. Stern, "such an exhibition of effrontery as shown in the letter of Dr. Bachmann begging that he himself be appointed to this position. It casts a serious doubt upon his whole report. It would seem that he is carrying out the advice of Prof. McMurry that a motive is the first thing to be sought for. I am in favor of the resolution if for no other reason than to show these people the sincerity of this school inquiry. I believe that the Bachmann data will prove absolutely useless, but it is worth the money to put this expert on record and to show, as to this man anyhow, who he is."

Mr. Greene said that the suggestion did not come from Dr. Bachmann, but from the Board of Education's auditor, Henry R. M. Cook. He argued that the resolution ought to be adopted.

Gen. Wingate said that the question was of importance and ought to be settled, but the work ought not to be done by an interested party. Commissioner Martin said he was opposed to the expenditure of money "to call a bluff," and moved that the matter be laid over. City Superintendent Maxwell said that the plan would involve a lot of extra work of clerks. Mr. Martin's amendment was lost. The committee's resolution was adopted by a vote of 32 ayes to 6 noes.

The board decided to abandon the Nautical School on Oct. 31, 1913, and to transfer the ship Newport with the books, charts, instruments, &c., of the school to the State.

The by-laws were amended to provide that a married woman who has been abandoned for one year by her husband is eligible for appointment as a teacher. Heretofore the abandonment has had to be for three years. It was voted that hereafter the City Superintendent shall report any teacher who has been long absent, and that the appropriate committee of the board may direct the auditor to withhold her pay until it is determined what other proceedings shall be taken. This seems to be aimed at cases like that of Mrs. Katherine C. Edgell of the Erasmus Hall High School.

Leishman Brokers Appeal.

PITTSBURGH, May 14.—An appeal to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court was taken to-day by Raymond, Pynchon & Co., brokers, of London, Paris, and New York, from the decision of Judge MacFarlane of the County Court, who recently held that John G. A. Leishman, Ambassador to Germany, was still a resident of this State. The plaintiffs claim $70,000, as the balance due them on a stock transaction of the Ambassador in New York last November, and had secured a writ of foreign attachment against deposits held by him in local banks. Judge MacFarlane held that Leishman was a resident and dissolved the writ.

You Want Your Car Now, Of Course!

Even automobile "fans," whom no rigor of weather can keep from their place behind the steering wheel, admit that Spring is the glorious, the ideal motoring time of the year.

And so, of course, you want right now the car you've been intending to buy any time these last few months.

To want a thing in a hurry is—usually—not wise. It means you may have to sacrifice quality to gain time.

We have our new Abbott models—smart, powerful, luxurious—ready for your inspection.

And, after you have looked them over critically—the sturdy, workmanlike chassis; the big, powerful, silently-working Continental Motor; the simple yet ingenious starting device; the luxurious bodies with their sweep of graceful, gently curving lines; the perfection of detail with which the interior is worked out, down to the rich, 12-inch thick upholstering—after you have noted all these, compared them with cars selling at anywhere within twice the Abbott price, and then come back here—why, we have the car ready for immediate delivery to you.

Sounds self-assured? Yet it is the result of our almost daily experience. Our most eager buyers as well as our most enthusiastic owners are those who have only bought after critically comparing Abbott merits with those of cars at any 'way above Abbott prices.

So, if only as a basis of comparison, pay us a visit here. You won't be solicited and you won't be urged to buy. But intelligent, well-informed salesmen will point out to you the merits and features of the Abbott line. It'll help you, no matter what car you ultimately decide to buy. And it will certainly help you if you want—what the Abbott can give you—prompt delivery and the best "buy" the automobile field offers this season.

Reo the Fifth

Perhaps nobody doubts that Reo the Fifth is the best-built car in its class.

It is the ideal model of R. E. Olds, after 26 years of car building. It embodies all his well-known precautions. It has
190 drop forgings—
Big margins of safety—
One-rod control—
Set-in electric dash lights.

Reo the Fifth is the only car in its class which thus accords with modern practice. It is the only car in its class built like costly cars—to bring upkeep down to minimum.

30 to 35 horse-power—112-inch wheel base. And the price f. o. b. factory is $1,195, equipped.

No "30" buyer who knows this car as we know it will accept a lesser car. Over 400 now running in New York.

There may be something weird in baseball that was not flashed at the Polo Grounds yesterday, when the Giants and Cubs hooked up in the final game of their series, but 9,000 fans who sat through the feverish struggle are convinced otherwise. For two and one-half hours the weary athletes gave a continuous performance of sand-lot baseball, each team apparently trying to outdo the other in the massacre of the National pastime. The Cubs had the edge in bush-league behavior, and the Giants got the game, 14 to 11. They advanced to third place in the league race.

Twenty-six players, equally divided between the teams, were used in compiling the twenty-five hits which dented various sections of John Murphy's lawn for an equal number of runs. Five pitchers were used in an effort to check the weird displays, and the only one who came through with anything like real box work was Leon Ames, who worked the last three innings for the Giants, after Rube Marquard drew his withdrawal papers. For six innings it seemed that McGraw was bent on letting his lanky southpaw stay and take his medicine, but in the sixth inning a golden opportunity loomed up to win the battle and Rube, despite his two previous hits, was excused. Pinch-Hit Harry McCormick, who batted for Rube, made victory secure, and Ames was delegated to guard the trophy.

Both teams were managed by banished leaders. Johnny Evers, whose enforced vacation expires to-night, occupied the box at the north end of the Chicago bench throughout the game, and John McGraw held down the nearest chair to the New York bench in an adjoining box during the last five innings. There is a strong possibility that McGraw can have the same seat for the next three days. He became too noisy in the third inning when Wilson was called out at third base on Archer's throw to Zimmerman and was ordered to the bench. He continued his conversation there, and was quickly ordered to the clubhouse. John J. made quick work of dressing, and was again in charge of his athletes before many minutes had been wasted.

McGraw was not alone in banishment, as Al Bridwell drew a similar sentence from Klem before the first half inning was completed. The ex-Giant took such pronounced exception to a called second strike that he had no chance to look over the third. He was chased, and Red Corridon had to finish Al's turn at bat. Corridon got the odd strike and the credit for a strike-out. In the seventh inning Klem halted the game until he had delivered a lecture on baseball etiquette at the Chicago bench, and in the next inning he tagged a ten-dollar fine on Otis Clymer, whom he picked as the leader of a noisy outburst from the Cubs' bench.

Rube Marquard and Cheney were the original pitching selections, and both were pounded to the proverbial pulp. Cheney was taken out of the box with none out in the Giants' half of the second inning after he had twice shown himself unable to retain a five-run lead which his mates handed to him in each inning. Jimmy Lavender succeeded Cheney, and he started off by forcing in two runs by walking Shafer and hitting Fletcher. After the Giants had finished with Lavender in the sixth inning Pierce was called upon, and he was not much of an improvement. Marquard, for some strange reason, was allowed to remain and absorb punishment for six innings before he was excused for a pinch hitter.

The Giants gave the crowd plenty to enthuse over by continually coming from behind. The Cubs picked up a five-run lead in the opening chapter, but the Giants almost caught them. The same situation was presented in the second inning and the Giants came back with four runs, making it 8 to 7. From that time until the sixth the lead changed continually. In the sixth, with two out and two on bases, Harry McCormick made victory possible with a sizzling inch hit over second base, tying the score. Shafer's single which followed clinched the game.

SUPERBAS LOSE TO REDS.

With Chance to Go Into First Place, Brooklyn "Muffs" the Opportunity.

Brooklyn missed a splendid opportunity yesterday to jump into the lead in the National League race. Philadelphia went down to defeat and made an opening, but Dahlen's men were found wanting at the crucial moment, and allowed Cincinnati to annex the final game of the series at Ebbets Field by a 6 to 2 score. There is no excuse for the defeat coming from either the players or fans. The Reds for the first time made a real effort, and as a result Brooklyn was outbatted and outfielded.

It was getaway day for Cincinnati, and Manager Joe Tinker kidnapped Gov. J. B. Cox of Ohio on his way from Washington to Columbus and used him as a mascot. The scheme worked well, as Gov. Cox and his party, who occupied a box opposite first base, rooted for Tinker's braves and helped them on to a well-deserved victory. Whether or not it was under the inspiration of the presence of the Chief Executive of their State, the Reds put up a game that so far overshadowed their previous efforts this season on Ebbets Field that it hardly appeared like the same team.

The Brooklyn players foozled several chances to head off the visitors in spite of sensational catches by Fisher, Smith and Wheat. But "one swallow does not make a Summer," and isolated instances of exceptional brilliancy cannot be depended upon to win baseball games. Fisher was brilliant and mediocre in turns. In addition to pulling off a clever catch he made several good stops, but to offset these displays he was guilty of two flagrant violations of the fielding rules, and was charged with two errors. One of these was directly responsible for Cincinnati's first brace of tallies.

Cincinnati's runs came in clusters of two. In the fifth inning the Reds put two notches over on errors by Fisher and Smith, singles by Tinker and Marsans and a sacrifice by Becker. A brace of runs was added in the following inning, when Clark found a vacant space at second, where he placed a single. Benton pulled four wide ones. Both runners advanced a base when Bates sacrificed. Becker's wallop went to short left, scoring Clark. Tinker followed with a single, sending Benton over the plate. Yingling displaced Allen and he retired the side with one ball, which Hoblitzel hit into a double play. Three singles by Benton, Bates and Tinker and a juggled ball by Hummel gave the Reds their other runs.

Long hits gave Brooklyn each run scored. In the third Fisher doubled, went to third on Miller's sacrifice and scored on Allen's sacrifice fly to Marsans. Wheat tripled in the seventh and raced home when Daubert sent a long fly to Marsans. The score:

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, May 24.—In the longest and most exciting game that has been played at League Park this season the Yankees and the Naps battled through fifteen innings this afternoon, darkness putting an end to the struggle with the teams deadlocked at two runs. Brilliant pitching by Fisher was mainly responsible for keeping the Naps in subjection, while the wonderful support accorded to Bill Steen dispelled the disaster which several times threatened the Birmingham boys. Manager Chance and his team left to-night for Chicago, after holding the Naps to one victory in the series of four games—the best record made by any team against the Naps this season.

The last nine innings were played without the presence of Manager Chance on the bench or the coaching lines, but Fisher needed no steadying influence to-day. The big Vermonter has apparently rounded to the form which featured his work as a Yankee two years ago, and when the battle went into extra innings he became more of a puzzle than before. Chance lost an argument with Umpire Tom Connolly in the sixth inning, after that official had called a third strike on Bert Daniels, and he was ordered off the field. It was the first exile the Peerless Leader has suffered since his advent into the American League.

Both of New York's runs were earned while one of the Cleveland tallies was made possible by a fumble and a wild throw on the part of Hartzell. That the Yankees did not win the game in the regulation period, with Fisher in the hero rôle, was due to a nap by Midkiff at second base in the eighth inning. The Yankee third baseman opened this inning with a double and Stump was sent up to sacrifice. O'Niel called for a waste ball and he shot it down to Chapman so fast that Midkiff was caught flat-footed off the base. A minute later Fisher followed with a single which would have sent Midkiff home. Laring work of the Yankees on the paths was costly to the visitors. O'Niel nipped four of the Chance men at second, and three more were put out at third base at critical moments. One of the latter trio was Birdie Cree, who fell victim to the old hidden ball trick, worked by Olson. Two more Yanks were snuffed out at the plate.

The Naps had a fine chance to win the game in the fifteenth inning, just before the lamplighter arrived. Olson was on second as the result of an error by Stump and a sacrifice, and Fisher passed Joe Jackson purposely to take a chance with Ryan, who is filling Manager Birmingham's place in centre field. The move did not turn out properly, as Lajoie, out of the game with a sore hand, was sent up to bat for Ryan. Larry hit to Stump, who fumbled, and thereby lost a chance for a double play, but Olson took too daring a chance to score. He turned third base at full speed, but Stump recovered the fumbled ball in time to get him at the plate.

Each team sent a run across in the second inning. With one out in the Yankees' half Chase hit to right field for a double and Sweeney followed with a single over short. Graney's perfect throw to O'Neil had Hal beaten by several feet, but Chase made a clever fall-away slide, which fooled O'Niel, and was safe. Midkiff then hit into a double play.

The Naps tied up the game in their half. With one out Hartzell fumbled Jackson's grounder and then threw over Chase's head, allowing Jackson to reach second base. On Ryan's long fly to Cree Jackson moved up to third and he scored on Graney's double to right field.

Steen held the Yankees hitless from the second until the sixth inning, when Stump opened with a single. Fisher and Daniels fanned and Lelivelt, who had succeeded Wolter in the third inning, tripled to centre, scoring Stump. Lelivelt tried to make a home run on the hit, but was nailed at the plate when Chapman relayed Graney's throw.

In the seventh the Naps got their second run, the last of the game, on a pass to Turner and a double by Jackson. After the ninth inning the home team was powerless with Fisher, and the Cleveland defense spoiled several fine openings after the Yanks had hit Steen safely. Steen allowed six hits up to the ninth inning and six in the extra innings.

The fielding of Chapman, who accepted sixteen chances without an error, was the feature of the game.

Protests Cut in Players' Salaries.

David L. Fultz, President of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, addressed a letter yesterday to the National Commission at Cincinnati, requesting the Commission to abolish the practice of transfering players from one club to another at a reduction in salary. Many such transfers, Mr. Fultz states, are made in the face of contracts calling for a larger salary than the player receives upon being transferred to the second club.

COLLEGE GRADS ON LINKS.

Mabon of Rutgers and Gavin of Yale Win Prizes at Nassau C. C.

Golfers who have long since left their college days behind them, but who are fond of recalling that period in their lives, turned out yesterday to compete in the semi-annual tournament of the University Club over the links of the Nassau Country Club. There were seventy-two starters, one of the largest fields since the competition was first run off.

S. Cliffton Mabon, of Rutgers, and a member of the Ardsley Club, won the gross prize for the thirty-six holes, conditions calling for a double round of the course.

Michael Gavin, 2d, of Yale, won the net prize with 88-87-40-135, with Frank Lyman, of Harvard, second with 84-90-32-142. John Reid, Jr., of Yale, and E. H. Hart, another Eli alumnus, tied for the net prize in the afternoon with 80 each. They played nine holes to settle it, but were all even at that point and decided on another time. The handicaps and net scores follow:

Yale Shuts Out Pr'nceton at Golf.

Yale made a clean sweep in a team match against Princeton at Apawamis yesterday, the final count being 6 points to 0. George Stanley, the Yale Captain, played No. 1 for his team, and was opposed to John N. Stearns 3d, who was runnerup in the last intercollegiate championship. Stanley got around in 75, entirely too fast for Stearns. The results:

WESLEYAN SHUTS OUT COLUMBIA, 2-0

Two timely hits gave the Wesleyan baseball team a victory over the Columbia nine yesterday afternoon on South Field by the score of 2 to 0. Numerous chances were afforded the Blue and White aggregation to prevent the shutout, but they fell down in the pinches and failed to connect for the needed hits. Both pitchers received good support and fast infield playing made the game interesting.

The first inning afforded the Wesleyan contingent the lead that they held throughout the game. Persons drew the only pass Smith gave, and went around to third when Roseff made a wild throw to try to stop him stealing second. A wallop by Martin scored him. Columbia then went to work to bring in the necessary tallies, but such opportunities as three men on bases in the seventh inning failed to materialize.

In the opening of the ninth, with one down, Durling connected for two bases and was promptly scored when Markthaler singled. A double play, Watt to Friedrich to Kiendl, ended the period. Columbia's last hopes were dashed when Haaren hit into a double play and Roseff flied to Stanley. The score:

Yale Wins Sensational Game.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 14.—Yale fought eleven innings of fiercely contested baseball to-day before downing Dartmouth 5 to 4. It was Yale's fourteenth straight victory, easily the best record in Yale's baseball history. "Long John" Reilly, Yale's third baseman, won the lion's share of the victory, reaching first base six times in as many trips to the plate, registering five singles and winning the game by his hit in the eleventh inning, scoring Schofield. Reilly's two-bagger in the first drove home one run. Two of Reilly's stops and throws to first base were marvels. Riddell and Capt. Blossom played spectacular ball, Riddell driving home two of Yale's runs and scoring two himself. Two of Blossom's assists were on seemingly impossible chances. Wanamaker's all-around play featured for Dartmouth. His home run in the sixth tied the score and his single in the fifth netted another run. His backstopping and catches of fouls were sensational. Harvard Shuts Out Syracuse.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 14.—Harvard shut out Syracuse University 3 to 0 this afternoon mainly because of the gilt-edge pitching of left-hander Frye, who heretofore had not been doing very good work. Frye allowed the visitors only one hit, Agnew making two bases in the fourth inning on a left field fly that Alsop badly misjudged. Harvard got one run in the first inning when Alsop was hit, went to third on catcher Farber's overthrow, and home on Wingate's hit. In the fifth Harvard got two runs on a pass to Tomes, Young's sacrifice, another wild throw to a base by Farber, and singles by Frye and Wingate. The score:

Tigers Get Revenge on Williams.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 14.—Princeton retrieved a record of defeats at the hands of Williams College in baseball that numbered five years when the Tigers swamped the New England nine to-day by an 8 to 3 score. Weird fielding on the part of Ainslie, Williams' second baseman, gave Princeton a lead of four runs in the first inning, and after that the Tigers rubbed in their revenge with hard hitting, clever base running, and championship fielding. Army Wins from Lehigh.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 14.—West Point won from Lehigh to-day in a game which favored the Army until the ninth inning, when the cadets' infield went to pieces, and errors by Sadler and Lee, coupled with two hits, gave the visitors two runs. AHEARN DEFEATS McCOY.

Welterweight Tourney at St. Nicholas Rink Fails to Draw.

Two welterweight boxing contests of ten rounds each failed to attract the followers of the game last night at St. Nicholas Rink. The poor attendance may have discouraged the pugilists, as the results were far from satisfactory. The contest between Al McCoy of Brooklyn and Young Ahearn, the dancing master, which was billed as the feature, failed to please the patrons of the club, and at the end of the bout the boxers were greeted with hisses. It was not, however, the willingness of the pair that operated against the men, but the difference in their style made it a difficult matter to make a satisfactory bout. Ahearn maintained the mastery over McCoy throughout. He jabbed his opponent time and again without a return, and at no time during the contest did he fail to hold the winning hand. McCoy tried to mix matters, but Ahearn was too clever and easily avoided the wild swings aimed at him. McCoy tried hard enough, but his knowledge of the game is limited, and as a result he was the receiver general.

In the first ten-round bout Young Hickey of Harlem outpointed Young McCartney of Philadelphia. There was plenty of fast milling, although neither boxer showed any science. The pair indulged in considerable infighting, with Hickey devoting his attention to the head and the Quaker playing for the body. The Harlem boxer secured a lead in the early rounds and held it throughout, punching his opponent badly. McCartney got home a number of heavy blows, but lost by a good margin.

Marston Wins Schoolboys' Golf.

In a well-played match Max R. Marston of the Pingry School defeated W. T. Badham of Lawrenceville, 5 up and 4 to play, in the thirty-six-hole final round of the Eastern interscholastic golf championship over the links of the Plainfield Country Club yesterday. This makes Marston's triumph complete, as on the first day he won the medal in the qualifying round with a score of 77.

Australians Not in Good Form Yet.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The members of the Australian lawn tennis team, who are preparing at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club for the approaching Davis Cup matches, played the fastest tennis they have yet displayed here in their practice games to-day. Several sets of singles, as well as a number of sets of doubles, were played. While the visitors do not appear to have entirely rounded into form and appeared unsteady at times, many exhibitions of brilliant playing took place during the practice.

Boston Releases Outfielder Kirke.

BOSTON, May 14.—Jay Kirk, the Boston outfielder, has been sold to Toledo. Briscoe Lord, the new outfielder secured by Boston from Baltimore, will be in uniform to-morrow.

AMERICAN TENNIS TEAM SELECTED

McLoughlin, Williams, Little, and Hackett Will Play Australians for Davis Cup.

After a series of matches, the International Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association yesterday decided upon the team to represent the United States in the first round of the Davis Cup ties against Australia on the West Side Tennis Club courts next month. The quartet selected comprises Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco and R. Norris Williams of Harvard in the singles, and Raymond D. Little and Harold H. Hackett, both of New York, in the doubles.

In making the selection the committee, consisting of Robert D. Wrenn, Chairman; Henry W. Slocum, and George F. Adee considered several players of National prominence. The selection of McLoughlin and Williams for the singles was announced several weeks ago, but the fact that Little and Hackett had been defeated successively by T. R. Pell and Gustave F. Touchard and N. W. Niles and A. S. Dabney made the doubles selection a difficult problem.

The qualifications of the three foremost teams were carefully considered. It was felt that Little and Hackett were not in proper condition, and consequently off their game, but as there is plenty of time for practice before the match the committee believed that the latter pair would show material improvement. In addition, both Little and Hackett have had experience in Davis Cup matches, and this is expected to prove of value to them in the coming competition.

McLoughlin played with M. H. Long in 1909 and with Beals C. Wright in 1912 in the doubles against Australia, and represented the United States in singles in 1909 and 1911. He is considered one of the most expert tennis players in the country and occupies the premier position in the National rating.

Although Williams has had no international experience, he is rated second only to McLoughlin and was the runnerup to that player in the National amateur championship last year. Williams was born of American parents in Geneva, Switzerland, and has achieved National prominence in the last two years only.

Little is the veteran of the four players. He was a member of the United States Davis Cup teams in 1900, 1906, 1908, and 1911. He competed in the singles in 1906 and in the doubles in the other three years. He is rated eighth in the singles and with Touchard third in the doubles.

As an internationalist Hackett has had a brilliant career. He was bracketed with Alexander in the Davis Cup matches in 1908 and with Little in 1909. The former was against Australia and the latter in competition with Little. Hackett and Alexander won the National doubles at Newport in 1905, 1906, and 1907. Hackett did not play singles last year, but was placed second in the rating list with Walter Merrill Hall.

The practice matches will begin at once. McLoughlin is expected in New York Sunday and Williams is due about the same date. With the arrival of these players a schedule of matches will be arranged by the International Selection Committee.

R. D. Wrenn cabled the official news of the selection of the team to the English Lawn Tennis Association and issued the following official statement:

"In accordance with the regulations governing the Davis Cup matches, which provide that teams must be nominated twenty-one days before each tie is played, the International Committee of the U. S. N. L. T. A. has nominated the following men to play in the preliminary matches against Australasia on June 6, 7, and 9: Maurice E. McLoughlin, R. Norris Williams, Harold H. Hackett, Raymond D. Little.

"It is not necessary to state which of these players shall compete in singles or doubles until twenty-four hours before the matches are played. The committee, therefore, defers its decision on that point.

"INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE,
"U. S. N. L. T. A."

Princeton Wins at Tennis.

Princeton had a hard time in defeating Columbia's lawn tennis team in a spirited dual match on the South Field courts yesterday afternoon by a score of 7 to 2. Matteson of Columbia was the only man on the home team to win his match in the singles and when the doubles began the score stood 5 to 1 in favor of the Princetonians. The matches in singles, however, were harder fought than the score indicates. The scores:

Singles—W. H. Mace, Princeton, defeated J. A. Coffin, Columbia, 6—4, 4—6, 6—0; W. S. Kuhn, Princeton, defeated H. Adler, Columbia, 3—6, 6—1, 6—3; S. E. Farr, Princeton, defeated L. A. GOOD BOUTS AT N. Y. A. C.

Intercity Boxing Contests Produce Hard Battles and Bad Decisions.

Barney Snyder of Boston, the National champion 108-pound boxer of America, was beaten last night in the intercity series at the New York Athletic Club, which called out competitors from New England, Philadelphia, and this city. Leo Kahn, of the Pennant Athletic Club, who was the runner up to Snyder in the titular bouts at the weight in Boston recently, was the victor, after an extra round had been ordered by the referee, the judges failing to find for Kahn, who appeared to have an easy lead in points.

The judges came in for adverse criticism in nearly every other bout decided. The house was in an uproar when the judges found for Joe Rosenwald of Philadelphia in the 125-pound class against Fred Jackson of this city.

115-Pound Class.—First Bout—P. Kline, Glencoe A. C., New York, defeated Joe Walsh, New West Side A. C., New York. Three rounds. Judges' decision. Second Bout—Patsy Green, Boston, defeated I. Maas, Glencoe A. C., New York. Three rounds. Judges' decision. Final Bout—P. Kline, Glencoe A. C., New York, defeated Patsy Green, Boston. Three rounds. Judges' decision.

Special Weight Class—Tom Cox, (169,) New York, defeated John Ryan, (153,) Philadelphia. Four rounds. Judges' decision.

THE CANADIAN BUDGET AND TARIFF.

The Canadian budget speech by Finance Minister WHITE has several points of exceptional interest to the United States this year. Possibly the most striking point is the fact that, although there are important tariff changes, they became effective upon the day that the speech was made. There is no prolonged period of trade discouragement due rather to doubt what the changes will be than to the nature of the changes themselves. The Canadian system allows the bill to become effective law the day the proposal is made by the responsible Ministry. Thus the Canadian tariff revision, which was proposed months after ours and without the preliminary months of campaigning, becomes law before ours. We do not even yet know what the Senate will do with the House's proposals. This is one of the things that we do not do better than our neighbors.

The chief changes in the Canadian tariff are those necessitated by the agreement for reciprocity between the Dominion and the British West Indies. Sugar is the most important article both in the Canadian tariff revision and in ours. We are competitive buyers of West Indian sugar when the conditions are equal, and we are competitive sellers of goods to the West Indies under the same conditions of equality. It would be more correct to say that we are preferred buyers and sellers, so much shorter is the distance of export and import for us, and so much better are the communications between the United States and the West Indies. Our sugar schedule, therefore, should be considered in connection with the Canadian schedule both as regards our purchases of sugar and as enabling our imports of sugar to be paid for with exports of what the West Indies can buy better here than in the Dominion.

The previous privilege of importing raw sugar into Canada under preferential rates is abolished, partly because the refiners absorbed the preference to their advantage instead of the stimulation of trade, and because for that reason the West Indies insisted upon a preference for their product exclusively. The rate upon sugar above No. 16 in color and above 88 degrees polariscope test is 72 cents under the new preference and 93 cents for the intermediate and general schedules. Sugar not above No. 16 and not above 75 degrees is dutiable at 25 cents under the preference and 31¼ cents for the intermediate and general schedules. In all cases there are additional duties for the grades not specified in this brief abstract. Under the old tariff the preference was 31 cents for 96 degrees, which is now diminished to 16¾ cents. The difference as between the raw and refined under the new tariff is 42⅓ cents under the preference and 50 1-6 cents under the general tariff. It is estimated that the West Indians get a reduction of $600,000 in duties, and that the differential is arranged in a manner to preserve that loss of duty in cheapness to the consumers. The debate was highly technical, but the Minister declared that his intention was to leave the trade conditions unaltered except as regarding the reduction granted to encourage the confinement of trade with the West Indies both ways to Canada.

It is too plain for remark that the Canadian bid for the West Indian trade is futile when compared with our proposed provision for free sugar in three years. It is not even satisfactory in the present to all the proposed beneficiaries. Jamaica stood aloof from the negotiations altogether, and some colonies which adhered are openly expressing their dissatisfaction with the most that Canada could offer. The intention of the Canadians to keep their market for themselves is in our own most disapproved manner, and throws a revealing light upon their pretense of disloyalty in the movement for reciprocity with the United States. Canadian loyalty does not extend to preserving the British preference when it is to Canada's advantage to remove it. Without a qualm they give to the West Indians an exclusive preference at the expense of British refiners. We now are plainly bidding for the same trade, and it remains to be seen whether we shall be charged with seeking to annex the West Indies as we were with seeking to annex the Dominion. The truth in both cases is the same. We are seeking to annex whatever trade can be had honestly, and the question of territorial annexation is being left to itself. The Minister was challenged as to future changes in the Dominion's policy to meet our pending revision, and he cautiously replied that he was unable to say until he knew what our changes were to be. It is clear that the point is of importance and is worth more consideration than yet has been given it in our deliberations.

PROVISION FOR A "SANE FOURTH."

The $50,000 which Mayor GAYNOR's committee says is needed to make the Fourth of July "safe and sane" should be granted by the Board of Aldermen. A renewal of the old aimless and dangerous celebration of the day cannot be prevented without something to take its place that is informed with the true spirit of patriotism.

The city last year by means of processions, games and sports, and illuminations expressed to tens of thousands of its inhabitants, many of them foreigners, the true meaning of Independence Day. Every dollar spent publicly and privately to this end was well invested. The injuries and losses of life were fewer, the din was reduced to a minimum, and in the public displays the National character of the holiday was emphasized. A city of five millions can well afford the expenditure of two mills per inhabitant to help make the day what it should be.

THE JERSEY CITY PRIMARY.

Approval of the reforms urged upon the voters of New Jersey by President WILSON is as just a test of good citizenship in that State as could well be had just now, and by that criterion it may be said that good citizenship triumphed in the primary election held on Tuesday for the nomination of the candidates who are to be voted for next month for members of the Commission which is to govern Jersey City. Mayor WITTPENN has been a supporter of the Wilson policies in New Jersey, and six of the ten candidates designated are set down as Wittpenn men. It is assumed, therefore, that the Mayor will be in control of the new Commission, that is, a majority of its members will have been taken from the ranks of his followers.

There are two notable facts about the voting. One is the size of the vote. There were 31,657 ballots cast, which is only 3,500 less than the Presidential vote last November. Plainly, the voters of Jersey City are interested in the coming change in the form of their Government. The other notable thing is that, although there were no party designations on the primary ballot, the followers of Mayor WITTPENN somehow managed to pick out the candidates of their or his party. This may indicate a high degree of intelligence and acquaintance with men and politics in the city, or it may be the evidence of antecedent instruction. Anyhow, it is a result that must be called gratifying when, as in this case, it puts the reform candidates at the top of the poll. Reformers and friends of the commission form of government, however, should not blind themselves to the fact that it gives proof, also, of the efficacy of party organization. A well-trained and coherent party, say like Tammany in this city, might easily find ways to adapt the commission plan to its own peculiar habits and needs.

"HYSTERIA" AND THE POLICE.

Alderman CURRAN rather brusquely, but quite justly, describes the Police bill now before the Mayor:

> This bill would establish an irresponsible band of amateur sleuths. It is the most pernicious piece of legislation ever devised by the residents of Schoharie and Skaneateles to embarrass the administration of police affairs in New York City.

Mr. BRUERE, Director of the Bureau of Municipal Research, with equal justice and no greater consideration for the feelings of its authors, remarks that "the bill bears some marks of hysteria." In addition to these judgments by men of unusual experience there is the conclusive fact that four of the seven organizations which, under the bill, are to name the members of the "Board of Public Welfare," are strongly opposed to the measure. In these conditions it is not easy to see how Mayor GAYNOR can approve the bill. It is even less easy to see how Gov. SULZER, with his earnest attachment to the principle of home rule for cities and his desire to establish sound administration throughout the State, can sign the bill should the Mayor return it to him.

There is one feature of the bill that has been exposed and condemned in the hearing before the Mayor, which would have far-reaching consequences. The bill practically repeals the civil service law as applied to all the appointees of the board. This is an open disregard of the provision of the Constitution which requires competitive tests, where practicable, as in this case they unquestionably would be. It exposes the board to the logical suspicion of making appointments for political or personal motives. It is an intimation that the civil service tests are valueless when experience shows in every branch of the Government that they have great value. It invites every head of an office in the city or in the State to seek evasion of the law. And it opens the way to all sorts of defects and faults in the new force, which especially needs to be closely guarded if it is not to make bad matters infinitely worse.

It looks as if the Governor would shortly have a very serious task before him. We trust that he will see his way clear to save the city from a wild experiment which at best can give only temporary benefit, which must do great immediate harm, and is fraught with much future peril to the cause of sound administration.

NO AUGEAN STABLES.

This city's "clean-up week" reveals conditions of accumulated filth and rubbish that are bad enough, but in no way resembling the state of things in Cuba when Dr. McMILLAN, now aiding Commissioner LEDERLE and Commissioner EDWARDS, helped Col. GORGAS in the campaign for better sanitation on the island wrested from Spain. Many of the Cuban towns could be detected from afar by the odors they exhaled.

But there were certain immediate advantages of administration in the clean-up of Cuba that may not obtain in this democratic city. The streets of Havana were made "clean as the floors of your own home" by a military intervention, and the Platt amendment binds the Cuban nation to keep itself in a sanitary condition. Here, in place of the quick operation of military law, we must bring into play the slower, if ultimately surer, forces of civic education and enlightenment. Public-spirited organizations are co-operating by means of public lectures and by distribution of printed circulars, explaining the need of keeping each house and neighborhood clean. They are asking that goods in the retail shops be handled in a more sanitary way, and that foods be properly covered. They are teaching the masses the dangers of the spitting nuisance. They are invoking a public sentiment such as that prevailing in Continental cities against the throwing of refuse in the streets and parks.

It is to be hoped that this work of quickening the conscience of the community will not stop, that the annual Spring clean-up will have marked merely the beginning of a permanent campaign for civic cleanliness.

IMPEDIMENTS TO TARIFF LEGISLATION.

There can be little doubt that the well-meaning authors of the Tariff bill are astonished at the opposition to matters included in it which have nothing to do with the rates of duty. Some of this opposition is on the ground of obscurity on points which seem to the authors to be clear, or which may be made clear by the interpretation of the Treasury when it draws up the regulations for the guidance of officials under the law. But other points are made on principle and will not disappear so easily. The administrative features of the bill are objected to upon substantial grounds and have no relation to the rates of duty. The income tax is related to the rates of duty, but it is a new departure of the most contentious sort, despite the referendum which authorized it. When the constitutional amendment was before them the voters were told that the tax would be an emergency measure, but now, while the Treasury is collecting a surplus, the voters are told that it is a permanent tax variable only in its rate.

The administrative clauses are most objectionable to merchants, but the income tax elicits the most vociferous popular objections which are destined to grow rather than to relax as shearing time approaches. Nor is it from the wealthy that the loudest wail will come. They can pay and will know how to shift their investments so as to make the tax bear as lightly as may be. It will be the smaller income taxpayers and near-taxpayers who will groan most loudly.

These considerations are urgent in proportion as the tariff schedules have difficulties of their own. The demand in the Senate for hearings, which is manifestly only an obstructive move, shows that the upper house is preparing for the bargain it is accustomed to make with the House whose exclusive function it is to originate the revenue bills. This is not a good year for such dickering, nevertheless there is cause for regret that the tariff on which the country's mandate is unmistakable is so closely associated with so much matter for which no mandate can be claimed. The people did not vote for the administrative clause, and they did not vote for this sort of an income tax. But those clauses are a dead weight for the Tariff bill to carry.

THE FUTURE OF THE BALKANS.

The occupation of Scutari by an international force, which began yesterday, may be regarded as the first important step by Europe toward taking under its control the final settlement, so far as possible, of the future of the Balkan Peninsula. It is a sign of the assent of Austria to the general plan of the European concert and equally of the practical harmony into which Russia has been brought with the other Powers. Two tasks now await the Powers. One to arrange the more or less conflicting claims of the members of the Balkan alliance to the territory that has been wrested from Turkey; the other the erection and administration of Albania as a semi-independent State. The former will be the most immediately vexatious; the latter is likely to offer the more lasting difficulties. Whatever may be the heartburnings which the Bulgarians, the Greeks, and the Serbs may feel if they do not get all that they respectively desire, it is practically certain that each Government in the long run will yield to the "advice" which the Powers present, if the Powers be united.

In connection with this state of affairs, the recent utterances of Field Marshal VON DER GOLZ, the military adviser to the Turkish Government for a dozen years after 1883, are interesting. He is of the opinion that the Balkan allies, so soon as they have recovered from the strain of the recent war, will undertake further expansion, and, since there is nothing more to be got from the Turks, they will direct their efforts northward across the southern frontier of Austria, and in this will be aided indirectly by Russia. As there are some seven millions of Serbs in Austria, along the border of the Balkans, the work of the allies would be based on the principle of nationality. This does not afford a very cheerful view of the prospects of lasting peace, since, in the judgment of the Field Marshal, Germany would be bound by interest and honor to come to the help of her ally, Austria.

It does not follow, however, that the expansive tendencies of the Balkan allies must lead to expansion by force. There must remain the alternative of a change of policy in the Austrian Government, and of an attempt at organizing a coalition that will satisfy both the Slavs already in Austrian dominions and those along the southern border. It is believed that a change of this sort is favored by the Crown Prince, who will succeed to the throne on the death of the aged Emperor, as it is by some of the most influential of the Austrian statesmen. If it should be tried in good faith, it would tend powerfully toward peace and progress throughout all Europe. We are persuaded that it will seem more practicable as time passes.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Sales Were Never Compulsory.

An esteemed correspondent whose letter appeared on this page yesterday was betrayed into a curious and somewhat amusing logical mistake by trying to reach a pre-determined conclusion by following the always dangerous path of analogy. His purpose was to maintain the right of the Californians to deprive Japanese or other aliens deemed by them undesirable neighbors of the privilege of owning land, and he asked, in effect, why they shouldn't do so, since nobody complained when Mr. CARNEGIE, after buying more land on Fifth Avenue than he needed for his own use, refused to sell the rest of it to anybody except those near whom life, in his private and personal opinion, would be agreeable.

The trouble with this argument is the imperfection of the analogy—an imperfection so great that one could almost say that the two cases have no points in common. Certainly they are not ruled by the same principles, so far as actions go.

The Californians were and are in need of no new law to enable them to do exactly what Mr. CARNEGIE did—or is said or supposed to have done. That is, they could refuse to sell their land as long as they pleased and for any reason that seemed good to them. Japanese could no more have gone to any Californian land owner than could any millionaire whose morals or manners or complexion offended Mr. CARNEGIE have gone to that eminent philanthropist and demanded that he put a price on his land, reasonable or even unreasonable, and take it when proffered in legal tender. In neither State would any court have countenanced such a demand, and much less would any have exerted the slightest pressure to enforce it.

Mr. CARNEGIE kept his property till a buyer arrived who suited him. There has been nothing to prevent the Californians from doing the same thing, and if the number of them who for one reason or another are opposed to the ownership of land by Japanese were as large and determined as Gov. JOHNSON and his legislative followers assert, the amount of land that would have passed into Japanese hands would have been minute indeed. The Californians, unlike Mr. CARNEGIE, insist on having a law passed that will prohibit the doing by them of something which, according to their own accounts, they are vehemently opposed to doing. The absurdity of this throws suspicion on the whole movement.

A Mistake Far from Unpardonable.

It would be well for those who, like ourselves, see much of beauty and nothing of harm in the much-discussed "Matinée de Septembre" of PAUL CHABAS not to get too much excited over the demand by ANTHONY COMSTOCK that the picture be removed from a shop window.

Mr. COMSTOCK, like other official censors, has occasionally gone further in the search for impropriety than has seemed necessary to people who try to be, and consider themselves, good and decent citizens. His mistakes have been sometimes deeply irritating, sometimes only amusing. One should remember, however, that any fair judge of his work, considered as a whole and extending over many years, must declare its general effect extremely good and highly commendable.

It has been his task to deal with innumerable criminals of the most depraved and despicable sort, and if now and then he has made a little trouble for the innocent, he has been particularly efficient in bringing to justice a multitude of the guilty, and his services as a protector of the young from evil influences give him full right to grateful recognition as a public benefactor.

And Mr. COMSTOCK is by no means the grossly ignorant and utterly unreasonable critic of art and literature that too many declare him to be. Showing more sense than do some who find fierce fault with him, he makes his standard of propriety relative, not absolute. That is, he recognizes the fact that a book or a picture may be all right in one place and all wrong in another—that much depends on the motives of possession. Nobody ever hears of his invading public galleries or private libraries, though he knows perfectly well that he could find in both of them works ancient and modern which he has repeatedly seized, confiscated, and destroyed when they were made the subjects of a conscienceless exploitation, based, not on their good qualities or characteristics, but upon those really or potentially bad.

We do not ourselves see how anybody, young or old, can be hurt by looking at the Chabas picture. Mr. COMSTOCK, however, has earned a right to his own opinion as to that, and even if it be a mistaken opinion, its expression will not appreciably detract from the regard in which he is held by the judicious. He has many and bitter enemies, but the vast majority of them are men whose enmity is an honor, the greater as it is the more bitter.

Co-education Was Not a "Failure."

There came to this office yesterday a letter which, had it arrived a day sooner, would have made it unnecessary for us to explain that co-education had not been a "failure" in the Horace Mann School. For in this letter Dr. SAMUEL TRAIN DUTTON, the Superintendent of Teachers College, says almost exactly what we said and in terms curiously like.

The officers and teachers of the Horace Mann School, he declares, see no element at all of failure in it; on the contrary, they believe that its career as a co-educational institution has been eminently successful, and from the fact that it is filled to its utmost capacity they draw the natural conclusion that its patrons are well satisfied. The determination to change from aggregation to segregation of the sexes has been based solely upon "the possibility of a "better adaptation of means to ends, "and a more thorough recognition of "all that has been learned about the "kinds of education best suited to boys "and girls, respectively.

"And it may be added," says Dr. DUTTON, "that co-education is increas"ing, not only in this country, but in "Europe, which simply means that in "the growth of our great public high "schools more of them are co-educa"tional than otherwise. The Horace "Mann School, being independent in "its government and seeking only to "discover the very best processes of "secondary education, is justified in "experimenting along new lines."

Of course the real friends of and reasonable believers in co-education are willing to abandon it the moment the opposite policy has been shown to be better. Also, of course, they are not yet ready to admit that any plan which carries on its face the purpose of making school utterly different from the life for which it is a preparation obviously promises to be the "best processes" to which Dr. DUTTON refers.

IS DEAFNESS HEREDITARY?

Majority of Cases Said to Arise After Birth.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of Sunday, May 11, there was a statement in regard to one of the charts at the Babies' Welfare Exhibit now in progress at the University Settlement which needs, perhaps, a word of comment. This is the one in reference to deaf and dumb children, in a chart on defective children, which is located in the section on eugenics. While it is highly important that parents should be on their guard against possible deafness in their children, and should take the utmost pains to protect them from the diseases that cause deafness, or see that they are properly treated in the case of such a disease, it very frequently happens that the impression is produced that deafness, and with it dumbness, result from certain adverse traits in the parent, often from a vicious disease. In the preparation of the section on eugenics certain statements had been taken from the Report of the Philadelphia Baby Saving Show of 1912, including one to the effect that there are in this country 89,287 deaf and dumb children whose affection is thus caused—a statement which was also employed at the Child Welfare Exhibit held in New York in 1911. At the settlement, however, attention was directed to this particular item before the chart was put on view, and in consequence it has been expunged. It is not known how the assertion as to this cause of deafness and dumbness originated, but, unfortunately, it has had considerable circulation. As a matter of fact, according to the census of 1900—from which the figures quoted appear to have been taken—there are only 37,426 "deaf and dumb" persons in the United States, and, according to that of 1910, 44,896—at any rate, persons for whom special schools have to be created. Of these, only 33.7 per cent., or almost exactly one-third, are congenitally deaf, that is, were born deaf, the rest becoming so for the most part through some disease of early childhood, as scarlet fever, meningitis, brain fever, catarrh, measles, &c. In respect to those born deaf, constituting less than 15,000 of the total number of the deaf and dumb, no evidence has ever been adduced to indicate what part is ascribable to the causes referred to as vicious; and the probabilities are that this proportion is very small.

Chocolate Drinking Harmful?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reply to the letter of "Three Chocolate Fiends," I wish to say that chocolate is very sustaining and quite nourishing when traveling, but that as a drink it soon thickens the blood and thus makes one a neurotic, which, along with a tendency to myoclonia, is indeed very dangerous. Let them ask a friendly pharmacist for a peep at the dispensatory book.

The Court House Designs.

Among the designs submitted for the new Court House, which were reproduced in last Sunday's TIMES, was one which was credited to Kenneth M. Murchison. Mr. Murchison was associated with Howard Greenley in submitting this design, and Mr. Greenley's name was unintentionally omitted from the credit line beneath the reproductions.

ARE JAPANESE ARYANS?

Prof. Griffis Says Science Has Proved Their Affinity.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Allow me to add a few brief footnotes to your recent editorial entitled "The Japanese Claim Relationship." As early as 1866 Dr. Albert Smith Bickmore, still living in New York City, I believe, visited the Ainu in Yezo, and, as a man of science, declared them to be white men of the Aryan, or Caucasian, race. An American made this discovery, then, over forty years ago.

The conclusion of nearly thirty years of scientific investigation by native Japanese men of science is, in Prof. Koganei's verdict—"The Mikado's realm was once an Ainu realm."

My own opinion, after studying scores of the Ainu on the spot, in Tokio in 1872, and recorded in "The Mikado's Empire," 1876, is: That the Ainu once occupied the whole archipelago of Japan. The oldest names of the mountains and rivers are not Japanese, but Ainu.

Made up of four of the strong races of mankind, Aryan, Semitic, Malay, and Tartar, there was no such thing as a Japanese nation, (people under one general government, law, language, religion, common interests, &c.,) until 1192 A. D.; and the fusion was not complete until much later. Yezo, or the northern islands, was not, until very late, in the Japanese consciousness. These northern islands were virtually unknown with definiteness until the Russian advance and invasion in the eighteenth century. Hence, the Ainu of Yezo remained separate and unincorporated, with their blood unmingled, as on the main island, where the Ainu were, centuries ago, absorbed in the composite Japanese.

Increasing harmony among scholars, archaeologists, ethnologists, critical reading of the Kojiki, or ancient records, 712 A. D., all point to the fact that the basic stock of the Japanese of to-day is Ainu. That is, the Japanese are as much Aryan—whatever that may be—as any other stock, perhaps, on earth.

Leaving diplomacy to settle political questions, let us hold to science. After forty-six years' study of the Japanese, I cannot but conceive of them as a non-Mongolian people.

$3,000,000,000 FOR ROADS.

Senator Bourne's National Highways Plan Declared Inconsistent.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I quite admire the non-committal perfection of the headlines of THE TIMES, which present a "Practical Plan to Spend $3,000,000,000 for Public Roads." Senator Bourne's grand scheme is all of that—"a practical plan to spend three billions of dollars."

But as to practical roads, or a practical system of apportioning or financing them, there may be a variety of opinions. For example, his elaborate table apportions $11,000,000 to the State of Nevada. That State had a population of only 81,875 at the taking of the last census, or about the one-hundredth part of the population of the State of New York, or one-eightieth the population of Illinois. These States have fully that much more goods to transport than Nevada has; yet they are allowed $78,000,000 and $39,000,000, respectively.

The Senator wants the same amount for Idaho. In both Nevada and Idaho he wholly ignores the fact that there are thousands of square miles of utter desert, where no sane human being would need a highway, inasmuch as the only possible reason for traversing it would be in "prospecting," afoot or on horseback. The population is concentrated in little spots.

There are many other inconsistencies. And any road plan which wholly ignores, as this one does, the very existence of the real National "highways" of all modern times, namely, the railroads, is quite likely to be inconsistent as well as futile. There is not a word in the Senator's plan which recognizes the truth that the only modern economic use for wagon roads is neighborhood travel and the transportation of commodities to and from the nearest railroad.

When any producer can place a commodity in a freight car, he has it practically in the market, even if he be in the remotest corner of the land; for every foot of track couples up with every other foot of track, in something like 250,000 miles of railroad.

The chief owner of the great Pillsbury flour mills in Minneapolis once declared that he "could deliver a barrel of flour on the Liverpool docks cheaper than he could at half the homes in Minneapolis." That is, it cost him a thousand times as much to haul it over a local "highway" by wagon to the rim of Minneapolis as it cost per ton per mile loaded into a freight car and, with only one change to be made, in the trip by rail and ship to Liverpool.

To the producer on the farm, as to the consumer in the city, the great question is, "How shall we get goods to and from the freight station?" And no system of road building is either scientific or of economic justification which does not view the wagon road in its proper aspect as being to-day (and for fifty years back) only a secondary auxiliary system, doing perhaps one-hundredth, perhaps one-thousandth, of our total of commodity transportation.

The Basis of Marriage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In discussing "marriage early and late" you appear to belittle by implication the divine faculty of reason, which distinguishes most human beings from the lower animals, and inform us that "the incentive to marriage at which we have been looking askance as 'low' is, in fact, so high that it is not only the best basis of happy marriage, but the one basis on which marriage can be happy."

Is it not just possible that "nature," so revered by the scientific, may have had something to do with implanting in the modern mind the ability to grasp the simple expedient of defeating evils of one sort and another by simply ceasing to create them and their causes? They must be exceedingly blind to the "signs of the times" who cannot see that there is a direct relation between the steady and simultaneous growth of population, peace, and plenty and the later ages at which, and the higher motives for which, men and women marry; between the ever-higher conception of parenthood, of civilization, and of life, and the ever-increasing number of men and women who do not marry at all, but secure the entire weight of their undivided influence to the credit side of the scale for all time to come.

Astor House Reminiscences.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As the Astor House is soon to meet the fate that has removed other noted New York hotels many incidents and circumstances connected with its history are brought to mind. The following is an extract from a letter of Oct. 3, 1854, written by one of the guests to a little child left at home in a distant part of the State. It gives one of the first views in the wonderful series of "moving pictures" framed by the windows of the Astor House during a period embracing more than two generations:

> I am in a nice large room with windows looking right into Broadway, the busiest street in this busy city. There are more omnibuses to be seen than I could count in all day, and carts and carriages of every kind. Beyond the street is a pretty park with a little pond in it, and a fountain which keeps the pond full of water. Beyond the park is another street with cars drawn by horses, besides omnibuses and other wagons.

SUFFRAGISTS' CLOTHES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Reading Mrs. Dodge's statement about suffragist paraders one gets a threefold impression: first, that suffragists are primarily responsible for the prevailing styles in dress, which Mrs. Dodge considers indecent; next, that suffragists in a body are arising and protesting against the duty of nursing their own infants, and, thirdly, that the suffrage disturbance is wholly "a question of sex or a distortion of the sex question."

In the procession, which Mrs. Dodge watched with such acrimonious disapproval, I saw only self-respecting women dressed in the fashion of the day. The clothes of these marching women were, it is quite true, essentially up to date. There was a time when suffragists were supposed to be antediluvian or at least ante-bellum frumps, or at best aggressively mannish in their attire. At that period the reproach of the suffragist was that nobody who stood for woman's rights could by any chance represent the charm and beauty of women, and it is interesting—and delicately consoling—to observe how completely defunct is that ancient argument against votes for women. Besides, some of us have been congratulating ourselves that the age of breath-shortening "basques," humpy bustles, awkward and enormous hoops, skirts trailing in the dust and tight lacing is an age that is dead—that these old crimes against health and beauty have happily passed away, never to be revived in their awfulness. But to Mrs. Dodge these present styles are worse than all those of the past!

I think Mrs. Dodge will have great difficulty in separating the sheep from the goats, the antis from the suffragists. Many of us buy our frocks at department stores, and special suffrage regalia is not, alas, a specialty of these stores. True, they have had a few suffrage hats for sale of late years, but I think even Mrs. Dodge will hesitate to decry these headcoverings as immodest or devastatingly sex appealing.

Again, Mrs. Dodge quotes Olive Schreiner as saying that the feeding bottle for the baby is a labor-saving device. Just how this quite practical saying can be metamorphosed into a bomb to fling into the suffrage camp puzzles me. Doubtless a good many modern babies, after having nursed for a period in the good old way, use for a time the convenient bottle. And if a baby, of say nine months, uses a bottle before he or she learns to drink milk from a cup is the bottle not a wholly legitimate labor-saving device? But of course what Mrs. Dodge and her quotation suggest is the idea that Olive Schreiner and suffragists generally would do away with mothers nursing their own babies—in order, presumably, to have time to vote! Personally I have never known a suffragist, married or unmarried, who confessed to this interesting idea. I could name a dozen mothers, quite off-hand, whose healthy babies have one and all been nursed in the usual and ideal fashion, yet who are so sadly modernized that they believe it possible for the same woman both to vote and to have eminently satisfactory infants.

Mrs. Dodge says that "nobody who studies this question can get away from the essential fact that a woman is a woman and a man a man." Personally I would not contest this discovery of the President of the Anti Suffrage Association for the world. But when she goes on to remark that "it is the height of folly to say that woman, who has been taught by the uncounted ages that her strongest hold on man is because of her sex, can throw off or disregard the knowledge that her sex appeal is the strongest weapon she has" then I am appalled at the extreme illogic of the lady!

We should not really be alarmed at the word of one syllable which shocks so many excellent people, the word sex. For after all no word in the language is more important, cleaner or stronger or more suggestive of racial progress. And all over the world interest in and respect for this matter of sex is so splendid and so potent a factor in modern life that associating the idea of sex with politics or parades need not damn them irretrievably. After all this is a world of men and women, and the happy truth is that we cannot get along without each other, and we do not want to, even when we temporarily disagree about political matters.

Drinking Fountains Scarce.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of the hardest things to get in New York for a pedestrian, whether on pleasure or business bent, is a free drink of water. In walking around the city one has to search far and wide for a public drinking fountain. Many a nickel the Beer Trust gets because of the lack of public drinking places.

When occasionally a public drinking fountain is to be found, there are neither cups nor the kind of a faucet one (except the small boy) can obtain a drink from.

I would respectfully recommend to the city authorities in charge of such matters the erection of more and better public sanitary drinking fountains.

THE CALL TO THE COLORS.

By ROBERT UNDERWOOD JOHNSON.

I.

On the blood-watered soil of the Balkans
A Bulgar lies clenched with a Turk,
And the task of the cannon and rifle
Will be finished by fist and by dirk.
And the last word of hate ere the rattle
Of death bids their enmity cease—
Is it call to the banners of battle
Or a call to the colors of Peace?

II.

In the purlieus of sin-befogged cities,
Slow food of neglect and of pest,
How many a mother lies dying,
With to-morrow's pale scourge at her breast!
And the bread-cry that serves for the prattle
Of orphans—(oh, when shall it cease?)—
Does it call to the banners of battle,
Or call to the colors of Peace?

III.

I hear from my window this morning
The shout of a soldiering boy;
And a note in his proud pleasure wounds me
With the grief that is presaged by joy.
I hear not the drum's noisy rattle
For the groan of one hero's release:
Is it call to the banners of battle,
Or a call to the colors of Peace?

IV.

O ye of the God-given voices,
My poets, of whom I am proud,
Who sing of the true and the real
When illusions are dazzling the crowd;
Go, turn men from wolves and from cattle,
Till Love be the one Golden Fleece,
Oh, call us no more unto battle,
But call to the colors of Peace!

END OF ARMED RULE FAR OFF, SAYS ABBOTT

HE ANSWERS PEACE SOCIETY

Criticises Annulment of Russian Treaty and California's Alien Land Legislation.

MOHONK LAKE, May 14.—Three hundred delegates to the nineteenth annual Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration heard Dr. Lyman Abbott of New York, presiding as Chairman of the opening session to-day, assert that disarmament was as yet a dream; that "the blow of the fist, the gleam of the sword, the bark of the cannon will continue until some other power greater than that of armed man is found to protect innocence from injustice."

Dr. Abbott also took occasion to criticise the United States for annulling the treaty with Russia, and referred to the recent anti-alien bills passed by the California Legislature as an example of American unwillingness to live up to a distasteful treaty.

Dr. Abbott's address was interpreted as a reply to the American Peace Society, his fellowship in which was severed recently. He said in part:

> Christians have not stood and ought not to stand for peace at any price. They have recognized and they ought to recognize that there are worse things than war, bad as war is. It is quite possible to pay too high a price for peace. Our fathers would have paid too high a price if, in 1776, they had bartered liberty for peace. The generation of the civil war would have paid too high a price if, for the sake of peace, they had allowed the country to be rent in twain and a great slave empire to be founded, extending from the Ohio River to the Gulf of Mexico, and perhaps including Mexico and Central America.
> More progress has been made toward world peace in the fourteen years which have elapsed since the First Hague Conference than was made in all the years which preceded. Why? Because the movement has been one not primarily for international peace, but primarily for international justice. Enduring peace is possible only when it is the fruit of justice.
> There must be developed in the civilized nations a sense of justice strong enough to overcome race, religious, and national prejudices.
> We had a treaty with Russia. We believed that she violated that treaty in refusing to recognize our passports when issued to American citizens of the Jewish faith. We should have proposed to Russia to submit the interpretation of that treaty to The Hague Tribunal. Instead of so doing we, with passionate haste, annulled it.
> We made a treaty with Great Britain in which we agreed that all the vessels of the world should have equal advantages in their use of the Panama Canal. Great Britain thinks we have violated that treaty in exempting coastwise vessels from canal tolls. Some of our ablest lawyers are of the same opinion.
> We made a treaty with Japan granting certain privileges to the Japanese. The State of California, without waiting for consultation with the Japanese people and without consideration for their feelings, has passed an act which to the Japanese seems a violation of the spirit of that treaty, and there is danger that, as the result, the friendly relations between Japan and America will be seriously impaired.
> It cannot be too strongly affirmed that it is worse than useless to make a general arbitration treaty, and then when any conflict arises which arouses popular prejudice and excites popular clamor, disregard our treaty obligations on the ground that it is either not consonant with our interest or with our honor to submit the question to a foreign tribunal.
> America is one of the rightest countries on the globe. Make it also one of the weakest, and it would invite assault. It is the first duty of a Government to protect its people in the enjoyment of life and liberty. If it fails to afford such protection it has no right to exist. America, therefore, must have an army sufficient in size, equipment, and efficiency to protect its citizens from violence at home, and a navy sufficient to protect its coasts and its commerce from attack and to enable it to take its share in the fulfillment of those world obligations which belong to all the civilized nations of the earth.

There is at least one question that cannot be subjected to international arbitration—the Monroe Doctrine—in the opinion of Prof. William R. Shepherd of Columbia University, expressed in a speech to the conference to-day.

"In the present state of public opinion," Mr. Shepherd said, "a question about the application of the doctrine could no more be subjected to international arbitration than could one about the National independence of the United States."

M. Bourassa, a leader of the French-Canadian Nationalist Party, said the evolution of the British Empire was hastening the day when Canada would have to "assume the responsibilities of manhood, either as an independent nation or as a real partner of Great Britain in some new form of federated association."

SULZER WAR BOARD BUSY.

Governor Himself to Campaign Here for Two Nights.

The metropolitan part of Gov. Sulzer's War Board met yesterday afternoon at the headquarters of the Reform Club, 9 South William Street, to make plans for the Governor's direct nominations campaign, which opens in this city on Wednesday, May 28. Gov. Sulzer expects to spend two nights here endeavoring to make converts to his primary views among the representatives of the city in the law-making body.

The meetings planned for May 28 include one at Carnegie Hall, one at Prospect Hall in South Brooklyn, and one at Niblo's Garden in the Bronx. At all three of these rallies Gov. Sulzer will be aided by speakers supplied by the Progressive Party and the Independence League.

Clarence J. Shearn from the Hearst camp and Bainbridge Colby representing the Bull Moose have consented to make speeches for the Governor's bill. Whether Col. Roosevelt will take the stump has not been settled. Gov. Sulzer himself is said to be of the opinion that it is far better that he (Gov. Sulzer) should be the central figure in the Direct Nominations campaign. The Governor looks upon it as his fight.

To second the efforts of the orators, the War Board will soon begin circulating petitions in every Senate and Assembly district in the city and the State, urging the representatives of these respective districts to vote for the Governor's bill at the extraordinary session to open on June 16.

In order that the Governor may be successful, it will be necessary for him to win not less than eighteen votes in the Senate and twenty-nine in the Assembly. Then he would succeed in the fight only if all those who voted for his bill at the regular session should remain in the same frame of mind and fail to be abroad or out of the State on a vacation by the time the law-makers reassemble in June.

Shriners Elect Imperial Potentate.

DALLAS, Texas, May 14.—William W. Irwin of Wheeling, West Va., was elected to-day "Imperial Potentate of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine," over John Boyle of Utica, N. Y. This was the only contest for the higher offices, the officers being moved up consecutively.

FINAL TEST FOR EAST SIDE BABIES

Even Stuss Games Pale Into Insignificance Beside the University Settlement's Contest.

TO AWARD CASH PRIZES.

Photographer Put to It to Obtain Poses for the Records in Tenement House Competition.

For the next few days the interest of east side mothers will be centred in the University Settlement's healthy baby contest, and it is said that even the men have deserted the cigar store stuss games for the more exciting speculation of "picking the winners" in the competition. Yesterday Dr. L. Emmet Holt, under whose direction the contest has been conducted, with his assistant, Dr. Stafford MacLean, chief of the staff of the Babies' Hospital, made a final examination of the fourteen small contestants who had passed through the preliminary and semi-final examinations with the highest ratings to select the winners of the cash prizes in each of the three divisions into which the individual entries were assorted. The judges reserved decision and the winners will not be announced for several days. Here is the rating of the fourteen youngsters who have survived the elimination tests:

	Points.
CLASS A, (1 YEAR TO 2 YEARS OF AGE.)
Willie Forman, 121 Pitt Street	998
Sussman Stavisky, 98 Essex Street	1,000
CLASS B, (6 MONTHS TO 1 YEAR OF AGE.)
Solomon Goodman, 222 Cherry Street	1,000
Mollie Pallas, 164 Allen Street	1,000
James Korn, 378 Bleecker Street	1,000
Benny Schwartzthal, 43 Clinton Street	996
Evelyn Pallor, 400 Grand Street	995
Max Goodman, 117 Norfolk Street	995
Ettie Nathanson, 197 Forsyth Street	995
CLASS C, (1 MONTH TO 6 MONTHS.)
Abe Edelowitz, 165 Eldridge Street	1,000
Francis Moito, 214 Elizabeth Street	1,000
Mortimer Gluckman, 154 E. Houston St	998
Gertie Goffen, 235 Eldridge Street	998
Fannie Goldberg, 163 Stanton Street	996

Most of the sentiment in the contest surrounds dark-eyed Sussman Stavisky in Class A, who is considered a particular triumph for the settlement, as his young mother has been connected with that institution since she attended the kindergarten there twenty-odd years ago. Sussman appears to be fully conscious of his infantile beauty, and gloried yesterday in his importance. Gurgling with delight, he posed willingly for the official photographer who is helping to compile the records of the contest, and protested lustily when his mother removed him from the limelight.

In fact, the photographer was the hardest worked and most patient personage at 184 Eldridge Street yesterday. By cajolery and perseverance he succeeded in obtaining a series of excellent poses of each baby, but it was observed that he wiped his brow with an air of thanskigiving at the conclusion of the ordeal.

Tiny Mollie Pallas won the admiration of all beholders and the adulation of the camera man by assuming a series of natural poses with an air of bored condescension. She did not even protest when turned on her fat little stomach, but immediately settled her dimpled chin in a chubby fist with an evident desire to have the affair over as soon as possible. Mollie is a full-blooded Turkish miss and is the color of a rich cup of coffee.

One of the more obstreperous contestants appeared to be possessed of a well-developed but mistaken sense of humor. This individual imp would assume a beatific expression until the psychological moment that the shutter of the camera clicked. Just as the plate was exposed he would screw his face into an agonized expression and utter a yowl of protest. Five plates were ruined on this urchin, and as soon as he had balked the photographer he would burst into a gurgle of delight as though to say: "Fooled you that time—try it again!"

On the whole, though, the babies conducted themselves like the prize infants which they all aspired to be.

LUNA PARK SHOWS OPEN.

"Fire and Sword" Chief Scenic Attraction for This Season.

Fred Thompson's Luna Park opened its tenth season at Coney Island last night with a blaze of lights, a crowd of several thousand persons, and a parade headed by a brass band. The feature spectacle afterward was a scenic piece called "Fire and Sword." It was presented on a stage 360 feet long, five times the length of the New York Hippodrome stage.

There was depicted a small Mediterranean town with its quaint houses and temples. The time of the spectacle was supposed to be just after a foreign army had retreated to distant hills and the town was righting itself after a long siege. Suddenly the crack of a gun is heard from the hill country and the scene is ended in the charge of 100 horsemen down into the village.

Besides "Fire and Sword" there is "Crazy Town," a village, the entrance of which is through an archway of huge children's building blocks. Inside are several Mother Goose shows. This is principally for the children. Then there are diving girls, many side shows, and several scenic railways.

Two Plays at Columbia.

The Graduate Dramatic Association of Columbia University will present at the Brinckerhoff Theatre in Barnard College, Broadway and 120th Street, to-night two one-act plays, "The Open Door," by Alfred Sutro, and "A Good Woman," by Arnold Bennett. The organization is composed of graduates of Columbia University, who have taken a prominent part in the undergraduate theatrical productions of Columbia and Barnard for several years back. Among those to appear are the Misses Eva E. von Baur and Mary Nammack and Walter E. Kelley, T. Hayden Hamilton, and Edgar A. Ulmann.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The English actors of "The Whip" well entertain a large party of American friends with a farewell midnight tea on the stage of the Manhattan Opera House Saturday night after the final performance of the play, which occurs that evening.

John Lund, the original conductor for "Mlle. Modiste," has been engaged to conduct for Fritzi Scheff during her engagement in the piece, which opens at the Globe Theatre on May 26.

Cohan & Harris's production of "6 Washington Square," by Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes, will have its initial performance at Hartford to-night with a company headed by Lilly Cahill, Taylor Holmes, and Frederick Truesdell.

Among the latest volunteers for the Progressive Party civic service benefit at the Century Theatre Friday afternoon are Julius Tannen, Eva Fallon, Harrison Burbank, Harold H. Forde, and Mme. E. Vercerl.

FOUR NEW ACADEMICIANS.

Calder, Garber, Thorne, and Bellows Receive Election.

At the annual meeting of the National Academy of Design, held yesterday afternoon, four new Academicians were elected. They were Alexander S. Calder, Daniel Garber, William M. Thorne, and George Wesley Bellows.

Mr. Calder is a sculptor, and is 43 years old. He was a pupil in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and afterward studied under Chapu and Falguière in Paris. In 1905 he was Curator of Sculpture in the Pennsylvania Museum.

Daniel Garber, painter, is 33 years old, and studied art at the Cincinnati Art Academy and the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, where he won the first Toppan prize in 1902.

William M. Thorne, painter, is 49 years old, and was a pupil of Constant, Lefebre, and Laurens in Paris. He received the medal of the National Academy of Design in 1888, honorable mention at the Paris Salon of 1891, and a bronze medal at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo in 1901.

George Wesley Bellows is 31 years old, and was a pupil of Robert Henri. He is represented in the collections of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia; the Toledo (Ohio) Museum of Art, the Savannah (Ga.) Museum of Art, the Columbus (Ohio) Art Association, and the National Arts Club, New York.

These officers were chosen for the next term:

President, John W. Alexander; Vice President, Herbert Adams; Corresponding Secretary, Harry W. Watrous; Recording Secretary, Charles C. Curran, and Treasurer, Francis B. Jones.

SOCIAL NOTES.

The wedding of Miss Anna F. Robinson and Arthur W. Butler, a son of the late William Allan Butler, will take place on June 17 in St. George's Chapel. The wedding and reception will be very small, the latter being held at the residence of Dr. Beverley Robinson and Mrs. Robinson, 42 West Thirty-seventh Street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Massena Benjamin (Miss Charlotte Prime) may be congratulated upon the birth of a daughter, their fifth child, last week. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin are at their country home at Garrisons, N. Y.

Sir Edward and Lady Walker and Miss Dorothy Walker of Toronto, Canada, are sailing to-day on the Baltic.

Mrs. Austin L. Sands has rented the Rooney cottage on Rhode Island Avenue, at Newport, for the Summer.

Mrs. James R. McKee of 49 West Seventy-second Street has gone to Chicago to spend several weeks. She will be the guest part of the time of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Harrison.

Mrs. Henry Villard has rented her Dobbs Ferry estate, Thorwood, to Benjamin N. Duke.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. Colford, who spent the Winter at the Vanderbilt, left there yesterday for their Newport home.

The Harvard Club will give a tea on Friday from 5 until 6 in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Choate and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choate.

Mrs. J. W. Denver, widow of Gen. J. W. Denver, who founded the City of Denver, Col., and her daughter, Mrs. K. Denver Williams, are the guests of Col. Charles N. Lindley and Mrs. Lindley at Lakewood, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. James I. Bruyn are being congratualted upon the birth of a son on May 6 at their home, Bruynswick, Larchmont Gardens. The child has been named after its father.

BALL FOR MERCY HOSPITAL.

Funds Will Aid New Institution at Hempstead.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., May 14.—Cards of invitation have been issued for a fancy dress ball to be held on the evening of June 4 at the Garden City Hotel for the benefit of the Mercy Hospital. The Hempstead Sanitarium on the Christian Hood Road is the nucleus of this institution, which, it is generally understood, has been bought by the Catholic Church and is to be turned into a hospital at a cost of $18,000. It is said that cancer and tubercular cases are to be treated especially. The nursing corps is to be made up of a French order of nuns who, besides the work in the hospital, will organize a district nursing association at the service of local physicians throughout the vicinity. Cards of admission are $5 each.

Lawn Fete for Children's Home.

A lawn fête will be given by Mrs. Robert C. Black and Mrs. John Hanway at the Esplanade, Pelham Manor, N. Y., on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, May 24, for the benefit of the Pelham Summer Home for Children. If the weather should be inclement the fête will be held in the Manor Club House. There will be attractive booths on the lawn, where flowers, candy and fancy articles are to be sold, and many other attractions have been arranged, including an art exhibit, baby show, Dutch tea room and Indian encampment.

Son to Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Gardiner.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Gardiner may be congratulated upon the birth of a son. They will open Hessian Hill, their country home on the Hudson, about the 1st of June.

BOOKMEN WANT LIBRARY BUSINESS

No Sense, They Say, in Hostility Between Sellers and Local Librarians—New Methods.

DISCUSS THE CHEAP NOVEL

Some Think It Undesirable, but It Has Defenders, Who Believe It Makes More Readers.

Reading of papers on vital topics connected with the bookselling business and open discussion of the papers occupied the second day of the convention of the American Booksellers' Association at the Hotel Astor yesterday. The attendance was even larger than on the opening day, and the interest quite as keen.

George F. Bowerman, Public Librarian of the District of Columbia, opened the morning session with a paper on "Co-operation Between the Library and the Book Store," in the course of which he showed the beneficial results that might be achieved for all parties concerned, including the public, if the public libraries and the local booksellers would only work hand in hand instead of regarding each other as competitors whose interests were incompatible.

John L. Grant, whose topic was "Library Trade for the Local Dealer," continued the discussion along the lines already laid down by Mr. Bowerman, and added as his advice to the booksellers present to establish connections with local librarians.

Ralph H. Wilson of New York, who discussed Mr. Grant's paper, said that in his opinion the most important step for the booksellers to take was toward protection in prices, so that the local dealers should not become the victims of bargain sales. After a book had been on the market for about a year, he said, the booksellers who were stocked with it had no protection against jobbers, who, together with some publishers, at once began to sell off their surplus stock at cut rates regardless of how it might affect the dealers.

Ernest Dressel North of New York, in an interesting paper entitled "Fine Books as an Adjunct," advised the carrying of a small but select stock of rare books as well as standard works in fine bindings. He pointed out that in spite of the great increase in population there had not been anything like a corresponding increase in the sale of rare books and fine bindings. Even in such large cities as Baltimore and Richmond there were no dealers in this class of books.

"There are not more than twenty-five men in the book trade who know rare books when they see them," he said. "Yet the profits of this class of trade are large, even though the gambling risks keep pace with them."

The last paper of the morning session, on "School Book Business: Its Possibilities and Perils," was read by W. R. Barnes, President of the C. M. Barnes-Wilcox Company, of Chicago. He thought the great peril to the school-book business lay in State legislation. State uniformity, county uniformity and free books, he said, were the three factors that destroy profits on school books. Of these three county uniformity did the least harm, but State uniformity and State manufacture of books were equally harmful.

After luncheon, the afternoon session of the convention was opened by Christopher G. Grauer of the Otto Ulbrich Company, Buffalo, with a paper entitled "The Menace of the Reprints." Mr. Grauer began by denouncing the publication of books pandering, as he phrased it, to depraved tastes, and selling solely on the demerit of their filthy contents. His plea for clean literature was greeted by the biggest demonstration the convention has so far witnessed.

But books of questionable morality and of positive immorality were not the only menace to the bookselling trade, he said, and cited the cheap reprints of copyright books as another example.

"The tremendous output of these cheap reprints is glutting the market," Mr. Grauer said. "It is bound to result in congestion, stagnation and surfeit. It will ultimately lead to cut prices and the 25-cent book evil. And the 25-cent book is the bubonic plague of the business."

"The underlying thought of this convention is to stimulate the reading habit among the public," he said. "Is it not better for people to buy 50-cent books than none at all? The greatest evil, to my mind, is the publication of so many novels that have no excuse for publication.

"The 50-cent reprints are wanted and have their place. Again, children are the future buyers of books and we should encourage them all to have their own libraries. But the children can't as a rule pay $1 or more for books. I would not abolish the 25-cent juvenile rebounds for anything. Encourage the children to buy, even though they can only buy 25-cent books."

The last paper of the session was on "The Revival of the Religious Trade," by George W. Brazer of the Presbyterian Board of Publications, New York.

"Nothing is more worthy of optimistic note than the revival of the religious trade," said he. "Would it not be well to devote a section of our stores to religious books exclusively? And if we could prevail upon the ministers to preach sermons at stated intervals on the influence of good books, who can calculate the good that would result? I would have ministers mention the best current books from the pulpit, and tell their congregations enough of the plot to arouse interest. For every good book placed in the home acts as a monitor, pointing the way to higher ideals.

"Children are getting to be realists, and want twentieth century heroes. Those impossible, sugar-coated characters of the old Sunday school books are nauseating to the child of to-day. There is an increasing demand for readable, wholesome, probable stories. Why should not the Sunday school libraries be remodeled and made progressive?"

The session was brought to a close with the reading of a report on the relations of libraries and booksellers by Charles E. Butler, Chairman of the committee having the matter in charge.

In the evening the booksellers attended a theatre party in a body. This morning they elect officers for the ensuing year. In the afternoon they will inspect the manufacturing plant of Charles Scribner's Sons. The convention will close to-night with the annual dinner.

NEED MORE FOR BOY'S LEG.

Fund Is Still Short for the Aid of Crippled Orphan.

The Cripple Welfare Society has not yet received sufficient contributions in response to the appeal for $75 to buy a new artificial leg for a crippled orphan boy, who ought to have one so that on June 1 he can go to the country with the rest of the crippled children. SUES BELASCO AND McKAY.

Says Her Idea of Dual Personality Was Used in "The Case of Becky."

Miss Amelia Bachman began suit yesterday before Judge Mayer in the Federal District Court, as author of the play "Estelle," for alleged infringement of copyright against David Belasco and George L. McKay. She had submitted to Mr. Belasco the manuscript of her play, and she asserted that in the play "The Case of Becky" the playwright had appropriated her idea of dual personality in violation of her copyright. She was represented by Charles O. Mass, while Mr. Belasco had as his counsel Irving M. Dittenhoefer, and Mr. McKay had retained Abraham J. Littenhour.

After the plaintiff had given testimony in her own behalf and called Roy E. Fuller and Harry Bennett in her behalf, Edward Locke, a playwright, took the stand for the defense. He said he was the author of "The Case of Becky," and that it was in reality the dramatization of a book by Dr. Morton Prince, a nerve specialist, entitled "Disassociation of Personality."

In this Dr. Prince spoke of a female patient with a triple personality, but the witness explained he had given Becky only a double personality to make it easier for the actress who was his heroine.

Mr. Locke denied ever hearing of Miss Bachman, though he could not say he had never had a letter from her. His play was first produced in London in February, 1910, and not till a month later had he met Mr. Belasco. Then, at his suggestion, he had made some slight changes in the dialogue for the production of the piece here.

MADE THEIR OWN DRESSES.

Educational Alliance Girl Graduates Show Their Artistic Skill.

The closing exercises of the classes in domestic art, domestic science, and physical culture were held last evening in the auditorium of the Educational Alliance at 197 East Broadway. Prizes given in memory of Mrs. Isidor Straus by the Women's Auxiliary, were presented for proficiency in the various branches of study pursued by the pupils under the supervision of Miss Sarah Elkus.

Justice Samuel Greenbaum, President of the Educational Alliance, presided, and in the course of his address he praised the taste and proficiency shown in the dresses worn by the girls of the graduating classes, all of their own handiwork. Prof. Gottheil of Columbia University urged the graduates not to let their work stop with their closing exercises, but to make good use of the lessons learned in so good a school.

The salutatory was delivered by Miss Reba Goldman and the valedictory by Miss Anna Feinman.

The purpose of the classes is to teach young women economy and efficiency in the domestic arts and sciences, and thus prepare them for a useful domestic life.

ENGLISH POLO TEAM HERE FOR MATCHES

Five of the International Players Who Will Compete at Westbury, L. I.

HAVE MADE UP THEIR LINEUP

All Military Men, the Positions Will Be Cheape, Edwards, Ritson, and Lockett.

Five of the six polo players who will take part in the International matches on June 10 and 14, at Westbury, L. I., for England against the American team, arrived last night on the Oceanic, after an eight days' voyage, with each member of the squad in the best of health and spirits.

In the party were Capt. Leslie St. C. Cheape, King's Dragoon Guards; Capt. Noel Edwards, Ninth Lancers; Capt. R. G. Ritson, Enniskillen Dragoons; Capt. Vivian Lockett, Seventeenth Lancers, and F. M. Freake. The two first named are making their second competitive visit to America, as they both played in the series of matches at Westbury in 1911.

Lord Wodehous, who is to be the sixth member of the team, will arrive here about the first of the month. He also has been in the United States, having played at Lakewood and in California on the occasion of his previous visits.

When informed of the injury to Devereaux Milburn each of the visitors expressed much concern, and were pleased to learn that he was not out of the game for good. While they refrained from speculating verbally about their chances in the coming matches, there was a quiet air of confidence about the men, which seems to argue for a fine set of contests.

Capt. Ritson stated that it had been decided, for the present at least, that the lineup of the team would be Cheape, No. 1; Edwards, No. 2; Ritson, No. 3, and Lockett, back. As far as the first two named are concerned their positions will be similar to those played in the 1911 matches. Ritson further asserted that while the present team is not as good as the one in the previous contests, the members hoped to give a good account of themselves.

Although there was some contention in England over the make-up of the present team being practically an army one, such an impression did not gain much headway, as the main thing was the recovery of the cup.

The men were very much interested to learn that their ponies, which arrived on Wednesday, were in quarters at Piping Rock, and had landed in good condition. It developed that the men had thoroughly tried out each of their intended mounts with the exception of two, Spice Box and Sunshine, loaned to the Cup Recovery Fund by the Marquis of Stafford.

Capt. Ritson, who will, by virtue of his position of No. 3, lead the forces in the field, said that each of the men knew just what ponies he would use in the tournament, and that he thought they were a dependable lot. Personally, he had brought three all the way from India with him, these being Steward, Master Horace, and Dorry. Both Ritson and Capt. Lockett, who takes the place of W. S. Buckmaster, the former Captain, came from India especially to take part in the coming matches.

They regretted not having had a bit more time in which to fit themselves prior to leaving England, as the weather proved adverse, but they were enabled to keep up exercise on shipboard by walking. Each of the men confessed to being fit, and hoped to be able to get out to-day at Piping Rock and knock the ball about a bit.

The Englishmen were met at the pier by Capt. E. D. Miller, D. S. O., who has charge of the English ponies for the Duke of Westminster, who is financing the team, and H. L. Earle, the American representative for the Hurlingham Club. They went to the Vanderbilt Hotel, and will start for Piping Rock the first thing this morning.

MILBURN SOON TO PLAY.

Injured Meadow Brook Player May Be Out Saturday.

Devereux Milburn, the back of the American polo team, who was severely injured last week in practice at Cedarhurst, has recovered sufficiently so that his physicians, Dr. Behman and Dr. Rau, expect that he will be able to continue play by Saturday of this week or next Tuesday at the latest. An X-ray of his injuries was taken, and it was stated that no bones were broken in his chest, which was struck by his pony's hoofs.

Arrangements were completed at a special session of the Polo Association yesterday to provide for the building of a stand to hold 1,400 persons, which is expected to prove sufficient for the wants of the spectators aside from the stands now erected. On May 28 the seats for single days will be thrown open for sale to the public, but at present the demand for series seats and boxes has far exceeded the supply.

Mrs. P. R. Jennings Entertains.

Mrs. Philander R. Jennings was the hostess yesterday at a luncheon and bridge for nearly fifty women at her country place, Edgehurst, at Merrick, L. I. Luncheon was served at several tables decorated with Spring flowers, all in yellow. For the bridge which followed each guest received a heart-shaped satin box filled with bonbons. The guests were Mrs. J. Warren Goddard, Mrs. Walter Rutherfurd, Mrs. Frederick Roosevelt, Mrs. Riley Gilbert, Mrs. Justus Ruperti, Mrs. Hugo Reisinger, Mrs. Walter E. Lambert, Mrs. Henry Meyer Johnson, and Mrs. Isaac McConihe, and some forty others. Mrs. Hamilton R. Fairfax and Mrs. Moore poured tea and served punch.

HEAR RED-HAIRED MASCOTS

Minnie Green and her band of red-haired mascots from the Washington Irving High School, who startled Philadelphia with the brilliancy of their auburn locks when they went to Camden to assist at the launching of the new Hudson River steamboat Washington Irving, were all on hand to assist at the trial trip of the completed river giant yesterday afternoon.

The new steamer started on her maiden trip at 2:40 o'clock in the afternoon and made her way to Tarrytown and from there back to New York, arriving at the city pier about 6 o'clock. There were two stops on the way, at Forty-second and 129th Streets. At each of these places the mascots were on duty on the great decks and sang their songs of greeting to the guests who came on board to swell the number of persons who had been invited to take the trip. Following that there was a concert in the grand saloon of the boat. The mascots brought their own music, the Washington Irving High School Orchestra.

The new steamer is 416½ feet long and 84 feet beam. The broad decks from which the river travelers will view the beauties of the Hudson furnish two acres of promenades and lounging places. Inside the boat the old Cock Tavern of Fleet Street, London, where Irving and his contemporaries used to dine, has been reproduced for a lunch room, and Irving's study at "Sunnyside" has been adapted for a lounging room for the women guests of the boat. The big dining room is Colonial and the main saloon is both Moorish and Knickerbocker. The former is introduced because of Irving's long residence in Granada, and there is a series of views from the Alhambra painted by Henry W. Faulkner, who for many years was head of the American art colony in Paris.

American views show the Hudson as far as Albany, by R. A. Weed, and there is the New Amsterdam of Peter Stuyvesant, with Stuyvesant and his quaint little vessel on the Hudson. The city views show different scenes associated with Washington Irving's life, arranged chronologically. There is the so-called Irving house at Seventeenth Street and Irving Place, opposite the present Washington Irving High School, the school of the red-haired mascots.

President E. E. Olcott and the officers of the Hudson River Day Line were on board yesterday looking after the welfare of their guests. The Washington Irving will be put in regular service on May 24.

W. H. Brown Dead in Africa.

LAWRENCE, Kan., May 14.—William Harvey Brown, naturalist, writer and soldier, died on April 5 in Rhodesia, South Africa, according to word received here yesterday. He was 50 years old. While he was in Africa on a collecting expedition for the Carnegie Institute, the Matebele war broke out and he enlisted with the British. In recognition of his services he received 13,000 acres of land in what afterward became Rhodesia. He remained there and became a naturalized British subject. He served as Mayor of Salisbury.

ACTRESSES TO HAVE A CLUB.

They Are Displeased, It Is Said, with the P. W. L. Management.

The Mary Shawites danced for joy in the rooms of the Professional Woman's League last Monday, when the returns from the annual election seemed to indicate that Miss Shaw was to be their President for the next two years. But Miss Shaw wasn't elected. It was Mrs. Malda Craigen who was, and later there was a rush for the apartments of Miss Shaw, where an indignant lot of young women started a brand-new club on the order of the League as they thought it ought to be.

The new club will be launched and have proper sponsors and all that sort of thing next Monday night. It will start out with 200 members at least, and it will have a real clubhouse like the Lambs or the Players. That is what the women want.

Let no one think there is a row in the Professional Woman's League, for there isn't. Every one says so, and it must be so. Mrs. Malda Craigen says she thinks a great deal of Miss Shaw, and Miss Shaw thinks a great deal of Mrs. Craigen, and they both of them love the League.

"I am a life member of the League. I have been an officer from the time it was started twenty years ago up to the present, and I shall always continue with it," says Miss Shaw.

"Miss Shaw is fond of the League, and I don't believe she will ever leave it," says Mrs. Craigen. "She could have had the election anyway if she had only said so six months ago instead of waiting until the last minute. Of course I couldn't give up then."

The trouble comes in, say those who know, because the actresses who are the backbone of the organization cannot have the kind of a club they wish. The sum of $10,000 has been raised toward a clubhouse, and the actresses made possible the entertainments by which it was raised, yet they have no clubhouse. They don't like educational talk, parliamentary laws, teas and bridge, it is said. They want a home where they can go and relax when they are in town and enjoy themselves comfortably.

The new club will take in professional people of different classes. Miss Russell and Miss Amelia Bingham are among its promoters.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

Nobody Can Expect

to buy at the bottom or sell at the top, but shrewd investors are buying sound bonds because they are cheap. Their prices are affected by the only influence which depresses all good bonds—the high rates for money.

As the recommendation of a bond by this organization is invariably based on exhaustive evidence of its dependability, and as our circulars give reliable evidence of the merit of the present high yields, investors would seem wise in taking advantage of present opportunities. We offer municipal, railroad and public utility bonds adapted to every investor.

Prices Sag Back Again—April Agricultural Exports Establish New Record.

At a time when the value to the situation as a whole of the really excellent prospects for the crops, so far as these can be judged by mid-Spring conditions, is being underestimated rather than overestimated, it is fortunate to find in the country's current trade record a reminder of one direction in which great benefit has been derived from the bountifulness of last year's harvest. Our agricultural exports during April reported yesterday by the Department of Commerce exceeded all past records for that month, and never before in the history of the country have its agricultural exports for the ten months of the fiscal year ended with April come up to this year's record. To this showing the very large grain crops in 1912 have contributed in conspicuous fashion. The exports of breadstuffs in April were the largest for the month in ten years, being much more than double the breadstuff exports for the corresponding month a year ago. This excellent showing promises well for the total April trade statement soon to be published and for the amount of our credit trade balance. We have been sending gold out to Europe, but the trade figures as well as the prevailing rate of exchange show clearly that the gold which is being shipped is an accommodation to Europe rather than the settlement of a debt. The fact seems to be that we have lately paid off a very considerable amount of our short time indebtedness to Europe, and we have been helped in this by the surplus of farm products with which nature supplied the country last year. Large crops this year will again bring great benefit to the situation as a whole, and, so long as prospects in this direction remain unimpaired, there is good reason for emphasizing them as offering a large offset to some of the adverse factors which the situation contains. Viewed narrowly, the inconvenience incidental to the loss of the gold which has been going out is not lessened by the fact that it is being exported in the face of a rate of exchange which is in favor of and not against this market. Considered more broadly, however, the facility with which we may regain this gold when the need for it here is greater than at present will bear some direct proportion to the extent to which the Exchanges are strained to send gold to a market which is in no condition to draw on our reserves on anything like normal terms. Paris is taking gold here because in effect it is bidding a premium for reserve money to take the place of the cash which is still in hoarding abroad, despite the change for the better which has lately occurred in European politics.

This week's review of the iron trade situation lays emphasis on the disposition which many buyers are showing to restrict their takings of steel products and to postpone orders for future needs. This is having its effect upon prices, although it does not bear importantly upon the immediate position of manufacturers, in view of the large volume of orders which were piled up when none of the hesitation which consumers are now displaying was shown. The influences which bear importantly on the steel trade are varied and far-reaching, and the present temper of consumers illustrates as well as any one phase of the situation can the general attitude of conservatism which, though it tends to create a condition of quiet, offers support against future contingencies. Should an increase in rates be granted to the railroads, they would doubtless contract for new equipment and supplies with greater freedom than they would in the absence of some addition to their present revenue. Hence the outcome of the effort which the railroads are now making to obtain higher rates is one of the matters in which the steel trade has a large interest. The outcome of the crops will be another and still more important factor, which suggests one of the directions in which the satisfactory progress of agriculture so far this year contains favorable promise. The impending change in the tariff doubtless serves to postpone the time when full consideration will generally be given to what is favorable in the outlook, but those who attempt to co-relate the general probabilities of future business with the security markets are justified in anticipating the nature of the balance which will ultimately be struck between the favorable and the unfavorable elements in the country's position as a whole.

On the Stock Exchange yesterday prices yielded most of the gain which they had made the previous day, but no phase of the dealings reflected more than perfunctory trading interest. The volume of sales fell in between the record of extreme dullness on Monday and the slightly less dull record of Tuesday.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2¾@3 per cent., with the last loan at 2⅞ per cent. Most of the day's business was done at 2⅞ per cent.

Time money rates were 3¾@4 per cent. for sixty and ninety days, 4¼@4½ per cent. for four months, and 4½@4¾ per cent. for five and six months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 5@5½ per cent. for the best names.

The local banks have lost $3,145,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 3 9-16@3⅝ per cent. for short and three months' bills; Paris, 4 per cent., and Berlin, 5¼ per cent. Money was 2@3 per cent. in London, and 6 per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 25f. 20c. and the Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 44½ pfennigs.

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

London—Cable, $4.8665; demand, high, $4.8640; low, $4.8625; last, $4.8635.

Paris—Cable, 5.17½ less 1-16; check, 5.18¾ less 1-32.

SIXTY AND NINETY-DAY BILLS.

London — Commercial, sixty days, $4.82⅝; ninety days, $4.81¼.

Paris—Commercial, sixty days, $5.22½; ninety days, $5.24⅜, plus ⅛.

DOMESTIC EXCHANGE RATES.

Boston, par; Chicago, 10c. premium; St. Louis, 20c. premium; St. Paul, 55c. premium; San Francisco, 20c. premium; Montreal, 46⅞c. discount.

SILVER QUOTATIONS.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Stock Market to Close.

The mechanics will have an opportunity at the end of this month to take down the stock quotation tickers for an overhauling. They must need cleaning and oiling, for they have been ticking very irregularly of late, and yesterday there were periods when so many minutes elapsed without a sound from under the glass dome that the brokers felt sure that their wire connection had been cut out. Decoration Day, May 30, falls on Friday, and a petition to close the Exchange for the day following met with no opposition from the Governors. At the rate at which orders were reported yesterday a two-hour session might be expected to produce transactions totaling not more than 75,000 shares.

No Gold for Japan.

Hot weather stories are coming ahead of time this year, but this has proved to be an exceptional Spring in many ways. A rumor got into print yesterday to the effect that the real destination of all the gold, which has recently been engaged in this city, was Japan, and that it was being shipped to Paris to confuse a certain republic which some of the newspapers would have in imminent danger of going to war with the Nipponese. This story was one degree more restrained than one circulated Tuesday to the effect that 40,000 Japs had been landed on the shores of Puget Sound. Also, it had the merit of having a precedent. During her war with Russia Japan did buy and send secretly from this country a considerable quantity of gold to strengthen her war reserves. The money was shipped from San Francisco, but this fact did not become known for two months. To have advertised the shipment would have invited pursuit from Russian cruisers.

Lake Shore at 500.

Announcement of the plan for consolidating the New York Central and the Lake Shore served to increase the price for Lake Shore stock. All told, eighty-one shares of this issue changed hands in the course of trading yesterday. The first sale, of ten shares, was made at 470, and the next sale, of seventy-one shares, at 500. At the higher figure the stock showed an advance of 39 points from the previous sale of a full lot. On Dec. 16, 1912, 100 shares changed hands at 461. With about 90 per cent. of the Lake Shore stock in the Central's treasury the floating supply is exceedingly small, and most of the holders have evinced a determination to keep their shares. Some of them have put a value of $1,000 a share on them.

Michigan Central Quotations.

Even less active than Lake Shore is the stock of the Michigan Central, which is mostly held by the Lake Shore. There has not been a sale of this issue this year or last, but bid and asked quotations are regularly printed. Until the news of the proposed merger came out the stock was offered at 190, with no bid. Yesterday this long-standing quotation was changed to 150 bid, 175 asked. The last sale was made at 170. When the Lake Shore acquired its controling interest, in 1898, it paid 115 in 3½ per cent. bonds.

Amalgamated Buys Another Rival.

A feature of the Amalgamated Copper Company's report for the eight months ended with the last calendar year was an announcement of the exact interest bought in the Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company. It was known before that the Amalgamated had entered the porphyry mining field through a purchase of Inspiration Company shares, but the extent of its holdings had, previous to the appearance of the statement, been the subject of estimates alone. President Ryan said that 150,000 shares had been taken as an investment, along with $1,000,000 bonds of a railway company and "other small investments," the total aggregating in cost $3,957,000. With these figures to work with, the Street decided that the price of the stock ranged from $16 to $19 a share. There were outstanding 722,943 shares of the Inspiration Company, so that the Amalgamated interests amounted to a little less than 20 per cent.

Usual Spring Gossip on the Curb.

The sun has not yet begun to pour with its greatest intensity down into Broad Street, nor have storms and showers disturbed the open-air brokers to any great extent thus far into the Summer. Yet there was a revival of talk on the Curb yesterday about moving into a building. It could not be learned that the Curb Association was by any manner of means in favor of such a departure, and the brokers of longest standing in the market were outspoken against making a change. In consequence, the Curb is likely to keep on doing business at the old stand, despite pointed suggestions made by some of the restless spirits that the funds of the association could be handily applied to the rental of floor space beneath a roof in the vicinity.

Old Wine in a New Bottle.

Until official information was obtained that the action was a mere formality, the Street was concerned yesterday morning over a dispatch from Buffalo saying that the International Agricultural Corporation had filed a mortgage there for $30,000,000. The mortgage proved to be the one announced last year, of which $13,000,000 5 per cent. bonds were sold. It was learned that no further sale of the bonds had been planned by the company, and that there probably would have been no mention made of the procedure in the financial district if an error had not occurred in the message. It said that the mortgage was dated May 1, 1913, instead of the same day a year ago, as was the fact of the case.

Wabash Stocks Fall.

The making of new low records has occurred so frequently in stocks since the first of the month that the market following has become calloused to them. The fact that the Wabash issues were marked down yesterday was noted, however, apparently because the common shares would not have needed to go very much further to have been valued in cents instead of dollars. Wabash preferred sold at 7⅞ and the junior stock at 2⅞, at their minimum levels.

THE TREASURY STATEMENT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The Treasury statement issued to-day gives receipts and expenditures for yesterday and for the elapsed periods of the month and of the fiscal year as follows:

*Deficit.

The condition of the United States Treasury at the beginning of business to-day was: Working balance, $65,583,138; in banks and Philippine Treasury $44,257,063; total of general fund, $135,639,880.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Curb Stocks Quiet, Prices Irregular—Bonds More Active.

Transactions in unlisted stocks yesterday showed no increase over Tuesday's small total sales. Prices were irregular. Bond trading was in larger volume. Brooklyn Rapid Transit 5 per cent. notes closed at 95 7-16, a net loss of 3-16.

Transactions reported yesterday were:

BOURSES OF EUROPE

London Stock Market Opens Firm, but Weakens at the Close—Paris Prices Easy.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Thursday, May 15.—The Times in its City article to-day will say:

"Day-to-day advances on short fixtures remained unaltered. Discount rates, after being weak for a short time, hardened on the news that bar gold was being bought for Berlin and on rumors, which proved correct, that sovereigns would be withdrawn from the Bank for export to Chile.

"The general tone of the stock markets was firm at the outset. In some sections business appeared to be on a slightly larger scale. Towards the close sentiment was less confident, weaker advices coming to hand from the chief Continental Bourses. Home railway stocks, after showing pronounced strength, closed below the highest points. Consols again rose slightly. Canadian Pacific Railway shares were sold both on the Continental and American accounts. American shares closed dull, though higher on the balance in the majority of instances. New Brazil scrip weakened, while Guatemala bonds had a further sharp rise. The relapse in the price of rubber caused the market in shares to close rather easier.

"Carry-over arrangements presented no difficulties, though considerable annoyance was expressed at the action of the banks in again charging 4¼ per cent. for loans for financing the account, in view of the fact that rates on American shares, for example, were only 4¼ to 4¾ per cent., and money was offering in the house at lower rates at the close."

PARIS, May 14.—Prices were easy on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 84 francs 95 centimes for the account.

UTAH COPPER FALLS OFF.

Decrease for Quarter $263,289—Metal at 15.06 Cents a Pound.

Net profits of the Utah Copper Company in the quarter ended with March amounted to $1,535,363, a decrease of $263,289 from the record of the same quarter in the preceding year. The earnings were computed on the basis of 15.06 cents a pound for the 23,884,467 pounds of copper produced. In the first quarter of 1912 24,929,550 pounds of the metal were prepared for market.

After making allowance for smelter deductions the average cost of copper produced was 10.75 cents a pound. All the metal ready for delivery in the quarter was sold.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Opening at 9:30 o'clock heavy in tone, the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange for a time hesitated and then in the afternoon declined rather sharply. Activity increased decidedly at the expense of prices. Commission houses handled a large volume of odd lot orders, with transactions taking place in a number of stocks for which no other market was reported elsewhere in Wall Street during the day. In this class were American Cotton Oil, Pittsburgh Coal, Tennessee Copper, Third Avenue, and American Woollen preferred.

NO STEEL SUBSIDIARY WITHOUT A RIVAL

BIG COMPANY NEEDED

Only a Big One, He Thinks, Could Do the Government Work That His Company Had Done.

The testimony of James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, at yesterday's hearing in the suit for the dissolution of the combination, was devoted to showing that when it was formed the constituent companies were not in substantial competition, but were engaged in different lines of the industry; that these constituents did not now control a monopolistic portion of the country's output in the various products, that competition by independents had increased, and that they were subject in many respects to foreign competition.

The business of a number of subsidiaries, such as the American Bridge Company, the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, the National Tube Company, the American Steel Hoop Company, and the American Steel and Wire Company, were gone over in detail, and Mr. Farrell gave names of competitors of each company in various lines of product and the respective percentage of output of each subsidiary and of the independent makers.

"The American Bridge Company," said Mr. Farrell, "obtains nearly all of the business by competitive bidding. It gets its steel for fabricating into bridge and structural material from the Carnegie and Illinois Steel Companies. All Government work is let by competitive bidding. We furnished the material for Fort McKinley and for docks built by the Government in the Philippines. The work of erection is done by the Government."

"Fort McKinley is on Corregidor Island, isn't it?" asked C. A. Severance, counsel for the Steel Corporation.

"No, no," interposed Special Assistant Attorney General J. M. Dickinson, who used to be Secretary of War. "It is on the mainland near Manila."

Mr. Farrell confirmed this and went on to say that the American Bridge Company had been outbid by an independent, the McClintock-Marshall Company, for the Panama Canal lock gates. The Maryland Steel Company and other independents were among the bidders.

"The American Bridge Company, however," said Mr. Farrell, "had about $8,000,000 worth of work along the Panama Canal, emergency dams, transmission towers, the administration buildings and machine shops. We sometimes had to set aside other work in order to make deliveries when they were required. None but a very large plant could have furnished all the material on time."

"Does the Government buy any material from foreign manufacturers?" asked Mr. Severance.

"Yes; for the Philippines some of the steel material has been bought in Hong Kong and some from the Germans. The brickwork of Fort McKinley was also furnished by German firms."

Mr. Farrell told of the several plants of the American Bridge Company in Western cities and said that each was subject to local competition by independents. He also emphasized the point that only because of its size and financial resources could the company successfully perform some of its contracts.

"When we got the contract for the Hell Gate bridge," he said, "despite our extensive equipment, we had to invest $160,000 immediately in special tools for the work. It often takes a year to put up a steel building and we have a great deal of money tied up before we receive any payments. In putting up buildings, like the Singer and the Woolworth, we fabricate the material, deliver it at the place and erect it. The Woolworth building contains 24,000 tons of structural steel, the average price of which was $55 a ton."

Mr. Farrell said railroads invariably let their contracts by competitive bidding. He read a list of 375 plants which, he said, were competitors of the American Bridge Company when the dissolution suit was filed. Their capacity was 70 per cent. of the country's output, as against the Steel Corporation subsidiary's 30 per cent. He was asked if fabricators could buy steel from companies other than the Carnegie and Illinois, subsidiaries of the Steel Corporation. He named as independent steel manufacturers who sold to fabricators the Lackawanna, Bethlehem, Easton, Phenix, Pennsylvania, Central, Jones & Laughlin, Republic, Otis, Hudson, Inland, Wisconsin, Youngstown, La Belle, Seattle, Pacific, Pacific Coast, Portland and Western Steel. Several of these had fabricating plants. Many had largely increased their plants since the Steel Corporation was formed.

The National Tube Company, Mr. Farrell said, was not in competition with any of the other constituent companies when the Steel Corporation was formed, except in a small tonnage of light sheets. It had 56 per cent. of the steel tube and pipe business of the county at that time, but the growth of independents had reduced its proportion to 37 per cent. in 1912. It also had foreign competition, as some seamless tubes were sold in this country by German and other manufacturers. An oredr of 6,000 tons of seamless tube was now being delivered on the Pacific coast by a German maker.

The American Steel and Wire Company, he said, made practically nothing in competition with other companies that went into the combination.

The American Sheet and Tinplate Company made 73 per cent. of the country's tinplate output when the Steel Corporation was formed, and in 1911 it made only 61 per cent. It was making but 54 per cent. now, he said.

The American Steel Hoop Company had also been outstripped in extension of business by independents, from which it had very sharp competition. When the American Sheet Steel Company, afterward consolidated with the American Tinplate Company to form the American Sheet and Tinplate Company, was organized in 1900 it had fifteen competitors. The following year the number had increased to twenty-eight, and it was now thirty-six. Its percentage of the country's output had decreased from 67 per cent. in 1901 to 36 per cent. in 1911.

Steel wheels were taken up, and Mr. Farrell said the Carnegie Steel Company was the only subsidiary that made this product. Steel and iron wheels were both used, and the country's output was 2,600,000 a year. The Carnegie Company made 300,000 a year, 11 per cent. of the total, and 30 per cent. of the steel wheels alone.

Mr. Farrell will continue his testimony to-day.

Bank of France's Metal Holdings.

PARIS, May 14.—The weekly statement of the Bank of France when issued to-morrow will show an increase in gold in hand amounting to 9,131,000 francs and a decrease of 2,636,000 francs in silver holdings.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Cotton Exchange seat held in the name of Murray Mitchell of Mitchell & Co. was sold at auction yesterday to J. O. Williams for $15,600. The last previous sale was at $16,000.

The Committee on Stock List of the New York Stock Exchange announced yesterday that the following securities had been admitted to trading on the board: $2,500,000 6 per cent. convertible debentures, due 1925, of the Kings County Electric Light and Power Company; $6,190,500 additional stock of the Consolidated Coal Company; $498,300 additional stock of the General Chemical Company; $3,000,000 5 per cent. refunding mortgage bonds, due 1947, of the People's Gas Light and Power Company, and $500,000 additional 5 per cent. refunding mortgage bonds, due 1934, of the Virginia Railway and Power Company.

The MacAndrews & Forbes Company reported yesterday for the fiscal year ended on Dec. 31, 1912, net profits amounting to $989,440. After paying preferred dividends of $191,233 there remained for the common stock $798,207, equivalent to 29.6 per cent. on the outstanding shares. Total surplus at the close of the year was set down as $1,001,096.

INVESTMENT AND RE-INVESTMENT

has been the foundation of most of the big fortunes in this country. One of the best examples of the truth of this statement is that of the Stockholders of the Standard Oil; with absolute confidence these stockholders have re-invested in the holdings from which their earnings were derived. The results have proven the foresight of this policy.

Our latest circular contains an analysis of many of the former subsidiary companies, and will be sent to those interested.

STEEL 'BOOK COSTS' HIDE BIG PROFITS

TRUST'S NET COSTS SHOWN

Inter-Company Profit on Ore $1.30 a Ton, on Bessemer Pig $4.18, and on Bessemer Steel Rails $4.86.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Part III. of the report of the Bureau of Corporations on its extended investigation of the steel industry, dealing particularly with the cost of production, was submitted to the President to-day by Acting Commissioner Francis Walker. A discussion of the vast difference between "book costs" and "net costs" featured the report, figures being given to demonstrate that iron and steel manufacturing companies usually include in their statements of costs of production large profits paid to subsidiary ore and transportation concerns.

For Bessemer steel rails, for instance, the report stated that the average book cost of the United States Steel Corporation was $21.53, while the actual net cost, excluding intercompany profit on transportation and material, was only $16.67, an intercompany profit of $4.86.

Further differences were pointed out by Acting Commissioner Walker in his letter of transmittal, which was in effect an abstract of the report. The Commissioner noted these differences:

Book Versus Net Cost.

For the Steel Corporation in 1910, the intercompany profit on iron ore was no less than $1.30 per ton out of an average ore price per ton of $4.18, in which there was, in addition to the profit of $1.30, a further considerable transportation cost and profit. Owing to the fact that about two tons of ore were required to make a ton of pig iron, this profit per ton in ore involves a profit of about $2.48 per ton in the cost of pig iron on this account alone. For similar reasons, even larger amounts of profit per ton are included in the costs of steel products.

The profit of the Steel Corporation from the transportation of its own ore in 1910, averaged over all its ore delivered at lower lake ports, was about 57 cents per ton. This profit mounts up to over $1.09 per ton of pig iron.

Taking again, for illustration, the costs of the Steel Corporation, it appears directly from the records of that company that the average book cost of Bessemer pig iron in 1910 was $14.39 per ton, (including an assumed normal addition to furnace cost of 50 cents per ton for general expense and depreciation,) while the net cost, excluding intercompany profits on materials and transportation, was only $10.21. The intercompany profit deducted from the book costs, therefore, was no less than $4.18 per ton. If, however, only the intercompany profit on materials is excluded, the bureau computes the net costs as $11.21 per ton, as compared with the book cost of $14.39.

Similarly, for Bessemer steel rails, the average book cost of the Steel Corporation in 1910 was $21.53 per ton, (including an assumed normal addition to mill cost of $1.30 for general expense and depreciation, while the net cost, excluding intercompany profit on materials and transportation, was only $16.67. Deducting only intercompany profits from materials, the bureau computes the net cost at $17.82 per ton.

Pointing out the necessity of determining the net costs when consideration is given to the very high profits charged on iron ore and on the transportation of iron ore, the letter continues in part:

Profit on Ore Investment.

On the basis of the bureau's estimate of the average cost of ore property at the time of the formation of the Steel Corporation, together with due allowance for subsequent investments of the Steel Corporation therein, the average investment of the Steel Corporation in Lake ore was about $4.47 per ton of ore produced in 1910. This investment is computed on the basis of a thirty-year supply in reserves of ore, all additional investment in ore reserves being excluded from consideration. The profit of $1.30 per ton which was charged by the Steel Corporation in 1910 was equivalent, therefore, to a rate of 29 per cent. on the computed investment in ore. Considering that the Steel Corporation owns or controls the great bulk of the Lake ore supply, that in consequence of the number of its mines its risk of operating them is reduced to a minimum, that it has an assured market for the sale of its ore to its own manufacturing plants, and that its production of iron and steel is so extensive and diversified and so widely sold throughout the world that a very large output is always practicable, it is evident that the risk of this business is comparatively small and that the profit is excessively high.

Similar conditions are found with regard to the profits from the transportation of ore. This appears at once when the extremely low ratios of operating expense to gross earnings of the Steel Corporation's two railroads in the Lake ore mining district in 1910 are stated—namely, 30 per cent. for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway and 36.5 per cent. for the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad. The average ratio for all the railroads of the country in 1910 was 66 per cent.

On the basis of the total investment (including net working capital) and the total net earnings reported by these two railroads, the rates of profit in 1910 were for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway about 23 per cent., and for the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad about 17½ per cent. Such high rates of profit from a business which is monopolistic in character and also affected by a public use (common carrier) are obviously excessive. It should be noted, however, that the extraordinarily high transportation rates on ore from which these profits were derived were considerably reduced by the Steel Corporation in 1911, shortly after the publication of the first part of the bureau's report on the steel industry.

Large Companies' Advantage.

For Bessemer steel rails the net cost of the Steel Corporation in 1910 was $16.67 per ton, including certain estimated additional costs, as stated above; the average selling price was $27.45, giving a profit margin of $10.78. The investment in raw materials, transportation facilities, manufacturing plants, and net working capital required for the production of rails was about $65 per ton of product, according to the computations of the bureau. This indicates a rate of profit on investment of 16½ per cent. on rails. On a similar basis, the bureau's computations indicate for plates a rate of profit in 1910 of 10½ per cent. on the investment.

Comparisons are made between the net costs (but without deduction of transportation profit) of large companies and small companies, which indicate a decided advantage in favor of the former. Thus, for Bessemer pig iron the net cost (including an assumed normal addition to furnace cost of $0.50) averaged $11.61 per ton for the large companies and $14.62 for the small companies. This difference was due in part to the more complete integration of the large companies.

Parts one and two of the bureau's report were submitted during the Taft Administration by Herbert Knox Smith as Commissioner.

NEW EXCHANGE OFFICERS.

Governors Vote for Double Holiday for Memorial Day.

The Governors of the Stock Exchange organized for the coming year at their regular meeting yesterday. Only a few changes were made in the various committees, and no significance was attached to these by the members.

On the Committee on Admissions Ernest H. De Coppett and James H. Wainwright succeeded Winthrop Burr and E. V. D. Cox. H. T. B. Jacquelin and Blair S. Williams were put on the Committee of Arrangements to succeed R. P. Doremus and J. B. Tailer. On the Arbitration Committee Dexter Blagden, Warren B. Nash, and William B. Potts succeed A. W. Butler, Albert Francke, and R. T. H. Halsey. Bayard Dominick, Jr., and W. Strother Jones take the place of R. P. Doremus and Donald G. Geddes on the Clearing House Committee. J. S. Halle, James H. Jenkins, and Alfred Mestre succeed F. C. De Veau, H. T. B. Jacquelin, and Casimir I. Stralem on the Committee on Constitution. William T. Floyd takes the place of James B. Tailer on the Finance Committee, Alfred Mestre that of B. M. Baruch on the Committee on Securities, and Eugene Meyer, Jr., that of H. G. S. Noble on the Committee on Stock List.

The Law Committee, regarded as the most powerful sub-division of the Governing Board, remains unchanged, with none of the so-called progressives on it.

The Governors voted to grant a petition of the members asking that the Exchange be closed on Saturday, May 31, following the usual closing for Memorial Day, making a double holiday.

100 PER CENT. IN KANSAS OIL

Standard, Capitalized at $1,000,000, Has $1,088,479 Profits.

The undivided profits of the Standard Oil Company of Kansas at the close of the fiscal year ended on Dec. 31, 1912, amounted to $1,088,479, according to a statement made public yesterday by a Wall Street brokerage house, of which $1,056,190 resulted from the year's operations. The company was capitalized at $1,000,000, and the net profits for the year were, therefore, equivalent to more than 100 per cent. on the stock.

Total assets of the company were given as $2,321,921. Real estate and equipment supplied $591,940 of this amount and accounts receivable $793,591. Merchandise on hand was valued at $843,759.

Hope for Ely Wabash Terminal Deal

Daniel B. Ely & Co., sponsors for an independent plan of reorganizing the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal Railway and the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad Company announced yesterday that their foreign connections were considering the purchase of the entire $50,000,000 50-year first and refunding bonds provided for in the plan. If the deal goes through an alternative proposal of selling $21,000,000 short-term notes and $6,000,000 stamped income bonds to present holders of securities of the companies will probably be dropped forthwith.

Receiving Pennsylvania Warrants.

To facilitate the allotment of new Pennsylvania Railroad stock to shareholders, James F. Fahnestock, Treasurer of the company, notified the Stock Exchange yesterday that warrants might be left at the local office of the Pennsylvania, 85 Cedar Street, to be verified as to amount, assignment, signature, &c. Brokers have the privilege of receiving a single warrant for any large block of warrants. Payments accompanied by warrants will be received up to and including May 31.

SECURITIES AT AUCTION.

First Mortgage Bonds On 11-Story Building
Total Issue, $150,000
Value of Security, $300,000
We own and offer the Lombard Annex Building first mortgage bonds, secured by a new 11-story steel frame building at 171 to 179 W Quincy Street, Chicago, in the heart of the city's downtown district.
We briefly summarize this loan as follows.
SECURITY. An 11-story steel frame fireproof building for store, office and hotel purposes, of the highest type of construction and material.
VALUATION. The property securing the loan is appraised at $300,000, twice the total amount of the bonds.
EARNINGS: The upper ten floors have been leased for ten years, at a rental of $24,000 a year. The net annual income is three times the greatest annual interest charge.
MORTGAGOR The personal responsibility behind the bonds is very high.
TITLE & LEGALITY. Title guarantee policy by the Chicago Title & Trust Co. Legality approved by Zeisler & Friedman, Chicago.
Denominations, $500 and $1,000.

Beaded Goods in Controversy; Plush and Furniture Protests Lost.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained in part a contention by Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, regarding beads strung on threads and clasps for necklaces. The Collector took duty at 60 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 421, Act of 1909, as beaded articles. It was maintained by the importers that the beads were temporarily strung and were properly dutiable under the same paragraph at 35 per cent. This claim was sustained, but the board held that the clasps were dutiable as assessed.

J. W. Hampton, Jr., & Co. of New York, were defeated in a controversy over settees of wood covered with leather. The Appraiser reported to the Collector that leather was the component of chief value, and duty was taken under the leather schedule at 40 per cent. ad valorem. The importers argued that the tax should have been 35 per cent. under the provision for furniture of wood.

The board rejected protests by the Hewlett, Robin Co., on black silk plush, in chief value of silk. Duty was taken according to the weight per square yard at 45 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 399. The firm asked duty at 10 per cent. on hatters' plush. Judge Howell found that the plush was not of proper quality to be used in hats.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat prices broke in the last hour and closed ⅜ to ¾c net lower. Corn prices developed weakness at the close and final prices were ⅛ to ⅜c net lower. Oats moved, as did the other grains, leaving the market ¼c net lower at the close. Cotton closed steady, but at a net decline of from 2 to 5 points.

WHEAT.

After a day of steadiness, which was the more surprising because contrary to most of the news at hand, the wheat market experienced a sudden break in the last hour, which left final prices ⅜c to ¾c net lower. It was apparent in the early trade that wheat was not being offered freely, notwithstanding the bearish crop news, and this induced some buying for long account on the idea that bear interests were unwilling to operate further at these prices. The result was a moderate long interest among room traders, which found difficulty in liquidating near the close. Owing to good rains in the Northwest and through the Ohio Valley, crop accounts could hardly have been improved upon, with the exception of complaints about rather low temperatures in the Canadian Northwest. The Price Current confirmed this view by stating that soil conditions throughout the surplus producing States were nearly perfect, and that with favorable weather the next ten days the affect of the late season will be overcome. The Southwest was particularly weak in the late afternoon, both on the crop situation and easier cash markets. There was a rumor that 25 loads had been taken at Baltimore for export, but the business was difficult to confirm. As a rule, cash trade was light, both for milling and export account. Winnipeg wired that exporters were reported taking delivery of second half of May contracts to provide for tonnage, rather than pay the asked prices for spot wheat. The changes in foreign markets included declines of ¼d to ½d at Liverpool and ¾c to 1⅛c at Paris, while Berlin was ⅛c to ⅜c higher and Budapest ⅝c higher. Big seaboard clearances were again noted, representing the large export business done some time ago. Red wheat locally was still nominal at $1.13, cost, insurance, and freight, New York, and $1.14, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, 98¾c, free on board, afloat.

CORN.

The corn market displayed early firmness after a slight opening decline and was well sustained up to the last hour, when it suddenly turned weak, and closed ⅛c. to ⅜c. under the previous night. The movement continued light, but one of the factors connected with the late break was a report that country offerings were considerably larger and that the movement would increase. A somewhat better demand for cash corn failed to offset this influence. Elevator houses were buyers early, and there was a noticeable lack of selling pressure up to the last hour, notwithstanding favorable crop accounts as a result of good rains. The Liverpool market came ¼d. lower, and export corn here was quoted at 63½c., nominal f. o. b. afloat.

OATS.

The trade was a free seller of oats at the opening of the beneficial rains in Ohio Valley States and the Northwest, but became short and in later competition with commission houses ran prices up ¼ to ½c over the previous night, from which there was a subsequent break with other grains, leaving final prices ¼c net lower. Cash oats in New York were quoted as follows: Standard, white, 43½c; No. 2, 44c; No. 3, 43c; No. 4, 42c; ordinary clipped, white, 42½ to 43c; fancy clipped, white, 44c; all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

In the face of big Western receipts the market was generally firm yesterday owing to light stocks, a demand from packers and commission houses, and higher hogs. Offerings were light and closing prices on lard and ribs about the best of the day. Chicago receipts amounted to 25,000 hogs, Kansas City had 14,000, Omaha 11,000, and the West 100,000. The estimate for to-day was 19,000 hogs.

COTTON.

After a quiet but steady morning the cotton market turned easier under scattering liquidation or a renewal of bear pressure, which seemed to be chiefly encouraged by private predictions of rain in the Eastern belt and a few private reports of showers in Alabama. The close was steady but at a net decline of 2 to 5 points. The early advance reflected covering by some of Tuesday's sellers and moderate support from trade sources, with the buying promoted by the failure of the weather map to show expected rain in the Eastern belt and a bullish construction of the Census supply and distribution figures. These factors did not appear to be stimulating any important interest on the long side, however, and, with the demand far from aggressive, prices eased off under comparatively small offerings during the afternoon. Below 11 cents for new crop months the market showed considerable absorbing power, and it was rumored that leading trade interests were good buyers of October. Rumors that part of the cotton taken up on the first May notices would be retendered here, and that there had been some selling of July around 11.70 on Tuesday morning against tinges and stains in the Eastern belt may have contributed somewhat to the decline.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points. The cables were no better than due and there were private reports of unsettled sentiment owing to higher Berlin money markets and renewed uneasiness regarding European politics. The market showed firmness in spite of these features, however, and active months were soon selling 3 or 4 points over the closing figures of Tuesday. Realizing checked the advance at 11.03 for December contracts, and when it was seen that there was no aggressive support, sellers became a little more confident. Closing prices were steadied by covering, but within a point or two of the lowest.

The Census figures indicated a well-maintained volume of domestic mill consumption, which was placed at 503,677 bales for the month, against 485,182 in March. For the first eight months of the season the domestic mills have consumed 3,857,000 bales of cotton, which is at the record-breaking rate of 5,785,000 bales for the season. In estimating the world's consumption at 14,750,000 bales, prominent statisticians have allowed only 5,700,000 bales for the combined consumption of United States and Canadian mills, and have estimated the consumption of Japan and Mexico at 300,000 bales, whereas those countries have already taken about 367,000. Yesterday's report, therefore, tended to confirm the maximum view of the world's probable requirements, although the indications are that the mills will draw considerably on their reserve supplies. Domestic mill stocks for the month of April lost about 185,000 bales and now are equivalent to about three and three-fourths months' consumption at their present average rate. Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged with the exception of Memphis, which was ⅛c lower. Private crop reports were conflicting yesterday, one traveling expert predicting an unfavorable condition report for the Carolinas and Georgia, while another noted delayed germination in Georgia but reported very favorably on the prospect.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, with prices 10 points lower at 12c for middling upland; sales nil.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Opening steadier with lard, the oil market eased off under further scattered liquidation and disappointing outside trade. There were rumors that new crude was being offered, and further tenders of about 1,000 barrels were made during the day. The market closed unchanged to 2 points net lower.

MISCELLANEOUS MARKETS.

BEEF.—Prices for Western beef cuts did not change.

SUGAR.—The refined sugar market did not change. The London beet sugar market was easier, with trading active at the decline. The early cable quoted May and June at 9s 4½d, and August at 9s 7½d. Later the market was flat, with May at 9s 4d, June at 9s 4¼d, and August at 9s 7¼d. The local raw sugar market was quiet, with no further sales reported. Spot prices were $3.30 to $3.33 for centrifugal, $2.80 to $2.83 for muscovado, and $2.55 to $2.58 for molasses sugar.

MOLASSES AND SYRUPS.—Quiet routine trade was reported, with unchanged prices.

RICE.—There was a moderate jobbing demand, and offerings from the South continued small. Prices were steady and unchanged.

AMALGAMATED PROFITS UP.

As Large for 8 Months as for 12 Last Year—Rate of 6.42.

The Amalgamated Copper Company earned in the eight months ended on Dec. 31, 1912, within $51,000 as much in the way of net profits as it did in the full twelve months of the previous fiscal year. The statement issued yesterday covered the lesser period, because the end of the year of operation was changed from April 30 to correspond with the calendar year. Net income amounted to $6,595,510 against $6,647,006 in the preceding year, which was equivalent to 4.28 per cent., or at the rate of 6.42 per cent. for a full year on the outstanding stock.

After the payment of dividends there remained a surplus for the year of $2,748,413, and the aggregate profit and loss surplus was set down as $24,000,614. The balance sheet showed assets of $182,469,209 in stocks and bonds of other companies. A gain of $3,900,000 in investments occurred in the period, owing, largely, to the purchase for cash of 150,000 shares of the Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company.

President Ryan informed stockholders that the improvement in the metal market mentioned in the report of last year continued until well toward the close of the eight months covered in the statement, and the price received for copper was, on the average, in excess of that for any year since 1907. The increase in production was not as great as had been expected, he said, and was no more than required to maintain the equilibrium between production and consumption.

DECLINE IN STEEL ORDERS.

Trade Disposed to Think It Will Lead to Lower Prices.

Discussing current developments in the iron and steel trade, The Iron Age says in its issue of to-day:

The steel trade is more impressed with the rate at which new business is falling off and is more concerned with the outcome of present tendencies. There is the view that a fresh buying movement is to be expected in the third quarter through the release of business now held up by tariff and other uncertainties, and that it will help to maintain present prices for rolled products. On the other hand is the growing feeling that lower values are to be looked for and that buyers will be disposed for some time to shorten their contract periods and to specify with less freedom.

The Steel Corporation's falling off of 480,000 tons in unfilled orders in April left it still with nearly 7,000,000 tons on its books on April 30, or as much as it had in October of last year, when buying was nearing flood tide. It is the very large volume of business yet to be worked off that makes some steel producers impatient of any question as to the conditions to be met later in the year.

There is less disposition to look for early activity in pig iron, the halt there being now thought significant of general conditions. Naturally as the cost line is approached the decline is not so rapid, but it is appreciated that supply and demand and not higher ore or higher coke than last year's will fix the price.

In structural steel the condition is indicated by reports made at the meeting of the Bridge Builders' Society in Chicago last week. Shipments in April were 79 per cent. of capacity, while new orders were 55 per cent. of capacity. American Bridge Company operations are not included.

The Iron Trade Review says:

Continued mill activity, with new buying at low ebb, increasing concessions in prices and some restlessness of labor, especially in foundries, characterize the market. In finished materials, especially plates and shapes, prices are generally settling to those which Steel Corporation has been asking for many months. Independent companies find it impossible to obtain premiums which were enjoyed until recently. Dissatisfaction of workingmen, coming at a time when many employers are fearing that they will be compelled to reduce the number of their employes, is unexpected and is attributed in some quarters to the fact that workingmen, feeling the strain of long activity, are willing to quit on a slight pretext. Although pig iron is very dull, statistical conditions are favorable. In the East especially a continuation of the decline of stocks in makers' hands is to be noted.

April Cotton Consumption.

WASHINGTON, May 14. — Cotton consumed during April amounted to 503,677 running bales, the Census Bureau announced to-day. Cotton on hand on April 30 was: In manufacturing establishments, 1,746,611 bales; in independent warehouses, 1,355,785 bales. Imports during April were 20,732 bales of 500 pounds and exports 534,581 running bales.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Austin, Nichols & Co. Expand.

On May 31 Austin, Nichols & Co., Incorporated, of this city, will take over the business of Stoddard, Gilbert & Co., wholesale grocers of New Haven. This house was established in 1838, and has branches in Bridgeport, Norwich, and Waterbury, Conn., all of which will come under the control of the purchasing company. E. G. Stoddard, senior partner of the New Haven firm, will become a Director of Austin, Nichols & Co., who will increase their capital to $5,000,000 by the issue of $1,000,000 worth of 7 per cent. treasury stock. This has been sold for cash at par. Early in March Austin, Nichols & Co. took over the busines of Clark, Chapman & Bushnell, wholesale grocers of 295 Greenwich Street, and were reported after the business of a prominent Syracuse grocery house.

To Play Golf Indoors.

Gimbel Brothers are preparing an indoor golf tournament for their customers. It will be held on the fourth floor of their building from May 15 to 21, inclusive. A nine-hole course, 50 by 80 feet, covered with green carpet, is being laid out, suitable for approaching and putting. Contestants may use their own clubs, or they will be provided. Men's and women's first and second prizes are offered. The sixteen lowest scores in each division (men and women) will qualify for the finals, which will be held on the last day. The tournament will be in charge of Alexander Smith, former National open champion.

Store to Give Girls an Outing.

Pursuing its annual custom, one of the city's largest department stores will give its junior female employes an outing at Sheepshead Bay on Decoration Day. Plans are under way to entertain about 800, and each girl receives free transportation and the privilege of inviting her mother. Eight special trains will leave New York that morning on the Long Island Railroad. Refreshments will be carried by the firm's automobiles. The store will furnish the girls with special white dresses and hats for the occasion.

Must Pay Parcel Post Charges.

Because of the criticism received as a result of charging buyers with the postage required to transmit small shipments through the mail, the following inclosure is being sent out by a number of downtown houses with all deliveries of this kind:

> We beg to call your attention to the following resolution passed by the Merchants' Protective Association of New York on Jan. 7, 1913:
> Whereas, the operation of the parcels post introduces a situation where all postage on merchandise so transmitted, for the convenience of the buyer, must necessarily be paid in advance, which invariably puts the burden on the seller unless funds are deposited with him by the buyer for that purpose.
> Therefore, be it resolved, That where such shipments are so made, it is the sense of this board that a uniform custom of immediately charging the stamps so used to the account of the buyer or consignee should be adopted, thus maintaining in effect a practice in accordance with existing custom.

Household Show to be Held.

There will be a general show of housefurnishing gods, china, and glassware in the new Grand Central Palace Aug. 11 to 16. C. B. Axman, who has been connected with similar enterprises for some time, will be in charge. Rates of 50 cents a square foot will be charged, according to present plans, with small extra charges for signs and booth furnishings. The show will be open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M. daily, and will be exclusively for the trade.

A. L. Gifford on Tariff.

Discussing the probable effect of the revision of Schedule K on business in the woolen and worsted field, A. L. Gifford of the Worumbo Company says that not a few local selling agents believe that circumstances will develop abroad to equalize conditions. Some believe that labor costs there will advance, while others say that with free wool the domestic production will be curtailed, and that foreign wool, now scarce, will advance considerably.

OPPOSES RESERVOIR WORK.

Board of Trade Protests Against $19,000,000 Jerome Park Outlay.

At the regular monthly meeting of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation yesterday, Dr. William Schieffelin rendered a report showing why the city should not appropriate $19,000,000 for work on the Jerome Park reservoir, as had been voted by the Board of Estimate. Among the points made by Dr. Schieffelin in opposing the expenditure were that, next to Rome, New Yorkers now get the best drinking water in the world; that there was less typhoid fever caught here at present from drinking water than there was ten years ago, and that the attention of the board should be directed to Brooklyn, where there were twice as many cases of typhoid as in this city. He also showed how the decision of the Board of Estimate had been opposed by the Controller and the Borough Presidents of Manhattan and the Bronx, and how the Mayor and others had forced it through. The report will be taken before the Board of Estimate to-day by Dr. Schieffelin and other members of the Board of Trade empowered to do so.

A resolution offered by W. H. Gibson, asking Gov. Sulzer to veto the Senate measure calling for a two-platoon system in the city Fire Department, was adopted. In opposing the bill the resolution said that the two-platoon system had been tried here a few years ago and was found to be a "dangerous and expensive experiment."

Anohter resolution, opposing anti-Japanese legislation by States, was postponed. This resolution was opposed chiefly by Louis Windmuller and F. B. Dalzell.

Receivers for $3,000,000 Concern.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Receivers for the Realty Realization Company, a $3,000,000 corporation, were appointed to-day on a petition alleging insolvency. Clinton S. Woolfolk, who recently committed suicide, was President. Creditors allege the liabilities to be in excess of $2,000,000 and the assets not more than $750,000. The company was engaged chiefly in the colonization of lands in Texas and Louisiana. It is alleged that abnormally large salaries were paid, and that the values of assets in the books were inflated. An official asserted $2,000,000 was far too high an estimate of the liabilities.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

HERMAN A. MEYERS, residing at 130 West Fifty-seventh Street, has filed a petition, with liabilities of $8,704 and assets of $600.

ROCCO DE LORENZO, residing at 1,812 Amsterdam Avenue, has filed a petition, with liabilities of $5,134 and no assets.

LAURA ZIPKIN, residing at 800 East 160th Street, has filed a petition, with liabilities of $1,100 and no assets.

BOROUGH CUT STONE COMPANY.—A petition has been filed against the Borough Cut Stone Company, Austin Place and 144th Street, by the following creditors: Northern Engineering Works, $2,120; Michael Cohen & Co., $323.21, and Charles W. Nisbett, $1,050.

JOHN Q. SLOAN.—Judge Holt has appointed William H. Hoppin receiver for John Q. Sloan, millinery business, 30 and 32 East Twentieth Street, in $1,000 bond.

ISAAC YOGOL AND MAX SCHEINERMAN.—Judge Holt has appointed William D. Conrad receiver for Isaac Yogol and Max Scheinerman, individually and as copartners, trading as Boston Mattress Company, in $500 bond.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The foodstuff brokerage business of Harry Strachan will in the future be conducted by Strachan & Higgins. A. A. Higgins is the new member of the firm.

The Dan Talmage Sons' Company reports the Louisiana rice crop movement at New Orleans to date as follows: Receipts, rough, 976,685 sacks, against 1,118,965 last year; sales, cleaned, 661,320 pockets, compared with 1,124,260 in 1912.

The Pan-American States Association has decided to have plans drawn for a twenty-story building to house the association and to provide room for the installation of large exhibits of the Latin American republics. The building, according to present plans, will have an especially large hall devoted to the exhibition of machinery.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Much interest was aroused yesterday in local millinery circles by the report from Baltimore that the High School girls of that city had begun a campaign against the use of feathers of birds as millinery trimmings. The girls have also forwarded a resolution to their Congressmen, asking support for the measure in the tariff forbidding the importation of these goods into the country.

The recent cold spell stimulated business in imported canned fish in this market. Canned herrings and mackerel were well taken, but at prices generally not satisfactory to the importers.

One of the most effective of the Summer's dress accessories are little muffs of lace, silk and ribbon. They have been taken up extensively abroad, and should afford a good outlet here for lace allovers of the better grades.

Because of the good home demand and the lateness of the season, it is reported in the local crockery and glass trade that some of the buyers who have been holding off pending the action of Congress on the tariff bill will not get their goods across this year in time for the regular season.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

Ecuador does not offer a market for stoves worth attention. The cooks are prejudiced against them, saying that the excessive heat causes fever. Various families have tried to introduce stoves, but it is safe to say that not one is in use where a native cook is employed.

American box shooks are not much used for packing Irish linens for export to the United States, although the duty on the boxes would be saved. Irregularity of American box supply is said to be the chief cause.

The new Uruguay mining law, passed by Congress on March 6, 1913, has been translated by Consul F. W. Goding, of Montevideo. The copy will be loaned to applicants addressing the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington.

AUTO TRADE BODIES MERGE IN CHAMBER

Consolidation of N. A. A. M. and Auto Board of Trade Is Finally Completed.

As far as active work is concerned, the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers, organized thirteen years ago, and the Automobile Board of Trade, organized two years ago, ceased to exist on Thursday last, when it was arranged to transfer all of the affairs of both associations to the Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Ever since the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers was organized, seven or eight years ago, the trade has recognized the wastefulness and the general folly of supporting two associations carrying on, to a very great extent, the same work. The first steps to bring about a consolidation were taken at a meeting held in Chicago in 1912, when each of the associations appointed a conference committee. Practically the only difference between them was that the Board of Trade included in its programme a patent department, intended to protect the members against unjust exactions, a feature whose continuation was made a condition of the consolidation by the Board of Trade Committee. The committees met frequently, and by degrees evolved a plan under which the members of the two organizations were guaranteed membership in the new body on terms which both sides deemed equitable.

The Automobile Chamber of Commerce was incorporated on March 18 by the fourteen men who had comprised the Executive Committee of the N. A. A. M. and C. C. Hanch, the only Director of the Board of Trade who was not also a member of that committee. The necessity of observing certain legal requirements made it necessary to delay an actual transfer until Wednesday last, when, by vote of the Executive Committees, supported next day by a general meeting of the N. A. A. M., a part of the funds and all of the records and plants of the two associations were ordered to be turned over to the Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The action of the members of each association was unanimous.

All of the departments of the old associations will be continued under the same management. S. A. Miles, for ten years General Manager of the N. A. A. M., retains that position with the new organization, with H. A. Bonnell as Assistant General Manager. The traffic department remains in charge of J. S. Marvin and the commercial vehicle work in charge of H. W. Perry, to whose department will probably be added a bureau of publicity, with particular reference to the interests of good roads. The officers of the Chamber of Commerce are:

Charles Clifton, President; Wilfred C. Leland, Vice President; Hugh Chalmers, Vice President, in charge of the gasoline vehicle department; W. T. White, Vice President, in charge of the commercial vehicle department; H. H. Rice, Vice President, in charge of the electric vehicle department; George Pope, Treasurer, and R. D. Chapin, Secretary.

The committees so far appointed are:

Patents Committee—C. C. Hanch, W. H. Van Dervoort, L. H. Kittredge, Alvan Macaulay, and L. E. Latta.

Traffic Committee—A. L. Pope, W. E. Metzger, and H. H. Rice.

Legislative Committee—J. N. Gunn, G. H. Stilwell, and J. I. Farley.

"Senator" Morgan's West Hudson and Catskill tour got under way from Edgewater at 1 o'clock yesterday. There were twenty cars in the contest, and their occupants sallied forth for two days under the open sky with smiling appreciation for the warm sunshine, which they declared was "Morgan luck." The contestants will return to New York this evening.

ADVOCATES LACE EXCHANGE

Local Business Man Says It Would Be Profitable to Buyers and Sellers.

A movement is on foot here to establish a general exchange for the use of foreign manufacturers of laces and embroideries. According to a lace man who recently returned from an extended trip abroad, manufacturers of these goods on the other side are complaining of the tactics of the commissionaires in Paris, Calais, Plauen and other cities, saying that in addition to their regular charges to buyers the commissionaires are trying to get and in some cases are getting commissions from the manufacturers as well. Because of this he believes a general exchange here would be profitable both to buyer and seller. European trips by buyers could be largely discontinued, and the services of the commissionaires dispensed with.

The greatest drawback of such an enterprise, it is said, would be the danger of additional pirating of choice designs, but with plans to get legislation preventing it under way this danger should be eliminated within the next year or so. It is argued that the foreign manufacturers could get better prices for their merchandise in this way, and also save the fees demanded by the commissionaires for bringing buyers and sellers together.

TURPENTINE CONCERNS FAIL

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Two turpentine manufacturing corporations, with a total capital of $2,250,000, failed to-day. Judge Thompson in the United States District Court appointed William Sherratt receiver of the Atlantic Turpentine and Refining Company and the National Turpentine Company, with offices in this city. The receiver's bond was fixed at $30,000.

The failures, it is said, grew out of the recent collapse of the American Naval Stores Company, the alleged turpentine trust. Inability to market its products, which heretofore were taken by the Naval Stores Company, caused a lack of ready cash. That, coupled with the concern's inability to collect outstanding accounts and to realize on its assets, caused the officers of the two companies to admit they could go no further without the court's aid. The businesses of both the concerns are interwoven, C. E. Weaver being President of both the National and Atlantic Companies.

It is alleged that the Atlantic Company is indebted on a mortgage given as collateral for bonds amounting to $600,000 and on promissory notes for $250,000. The assets consist of land, plant, and equipment valued at $730,000, and accounts and supplies at $50,000.

William Conlen of counsel stated that the Directors of both concerns met today to perfect a plan of reorganization, and that the receivership was the first step in that direction.

The company first was chartered here Feb. 4, 1913, with Wilmington (Del.) incorporators. Its business is dealing in stocks, bonds, debentures, &c.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

The Daily Consular and Trade Report notes the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding them may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, care of the Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

10,912. KNITTING AND IRONING MACHINES.—A firm in a European country informs an American Consulate that it desires to be put in touch with American exporters of knitting machines and ironing machines. The firm indicates that it would probably be interested in the purchase, by way of experiment, of three knitting machines and of one each of machines for ironing woolen and cotton goods. Prices are desired, cost, insurance, and freight, city of destination. Terms of payment suggested are one-third down and balance on arrival of goods against bills of lading in hands of bank. Correspondence preferred in French.

10,913. MACHINE FOR BREAKING GRAIN.—An American Consul in the Far East reports that a resident of his district is desirous of obtaining a machine for breaking or cracking grain (principally Indian corn of American production) into pieces one-half the size of a grain of rice. The machine should be substantial, durable, and comparatively cheap in price.

10,914. RAILWAY MATERIAL.—A report from an American Consular officer states that a local railway board has granted a charter for the construction of a railway seven miles long. The promoters of the enterprise have organized with a capital of $150,000. Correspondence with persons referred to, whose names are given, may be conducted in English.

10,915. RUBBER MANUFACTURING MACHINERY.—A European engineer, at present engaged as consulting and visiting engineer for tea and rubber estates, informs an American Consulate that he is confident American manufacturers of rubber-making machinery could find a large market locally if they were willing to undertake the manufacture of machinery slightly different from that now in use on rubber estates. He states that he is willing to submit plans and specifications for machinery, such as he believes would find a considerable market among estates, to any American manufacturers who will communicate with him.

10,916. BAND INSTRUMENTS.—An American Consular officer in Mexico writes that a local State band is a superior organization of its kind, numbering some sixty musicians. It is proposed by the State to soon purchase entirely new instruments for the band. The leader suggests that catalogues and price lists be sent to him of band instruments. Correspondence and catalogues should be in Spanish, but if this is impossible, English may serve.

10,917. FISH NETS AND SUPPLIES.—A report from an American Consular officer in the Far East states that a local firm desires to secure fish nets from reliable American merchants. As a large part of the food of the native population consists of sea foods, there is a constant and very extensive demand for fish nets and fishing gear of all kinds.

10,918.—COOPERAGE STOCK FOR SLACK AND TIGHT BARRELS.—A foreign business firm which has probably the largest depot and auction establishment for the sale of hardwoods in Europe, states that it is also interested in all kinds of material used in making up cooperage stock, such as staves and headings for slack as well as tight barrels. This firm acts as agents for exporters on a commission basis and is said to be well known throughout the world as a firm of high responsibility.

SUMMONSES.

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF New York, County of New York.—JOHN T. CARROLL, as administrator of the goods, chattels, and credits of MARY ANN CARROLL, deceased, plaintiff, against JOSEPH KAISER, defendant.—Summons.

To the above-named defendant:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action and to serve a copy of your answer upon plaintiff's attorney herein within twenty days after the service of this summons upon you, exclusive of the day of service, and in case of your failure to appear or answer judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated New York, January 19, 1912.

GEORGE B. HAYES,
Attorney for Plaintiff, 111 Broadway, Manhattan, New York City.

To the above-named defendant:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of Hon. Joseph E. Newburger, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, dated March 31st, 1913, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York in the County Court House, Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York.

Dated New York, April 4th, 1913.

GEORGE B. HAYES,
Attorney for Plaintiff, 111 Broadway, Manhattan, New York City.

Life and Gayeties of the VACATION COAST
of New England

A region of wonderful vacation places. Nowhere else in the world will you find such a coast-line—rocky headlands, beaches, islands, lovely harbors. Or so much of the

THRILL and JOY of the SEA

Summer is one round of delightful pleasures. The German Emperor's own yachtsmen are coming over to race. The great yacht clubs will have their regattas and cruises. There will be famous tennis and golf tournaments. Glorious bathing, sailing, fishing, motoring. And, oh, such sea-air!

The social life is brilliant. You will meet people worth knowing.

And you can find just the vacation you want. Modern, up-to-date hotels, or perhaps a smaller hotel or boarding house filled with congenial people. Possibly a sleepy fishing village, or some island paradise. And you can suit your purse.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Low pressure continues over the interior of the country, and showers occurred generally in the Rocky Mountain region, the plains States, the Missouri and Upper Mississippi Valleys, and locally in the Upper Ohio Valley, the Middle Atlantic States, and New England.

In the South and extreme West fair weather prevailed, except in Washington and Oregon.

Temperature changes while decided as a rule were very irregularly distributed. They are much below season over the north tier of States and in the Central Rocky Mountain region.

The weather is likely to continue unsettled for the next two days over the eastern half of the country, with showers over northern and central districts, except in New England, where the weather will be fair Thursday, probably followed by showers Friday. There will also be scattered showers Friday in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, and Thursday and Friday in the Northwest.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate north and northeast; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate north to east; South Atlantic Coast, moderate south and southwest, except east on the Florida Coast.

Steamships departing Thursday for European ports will have moderate north and northeast winds and generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York and New England—Fair Thursday; Friday showers, moderate northerly to easterly winds.

Western New York—Increasing cloudiness Thursday, followed by showers in western portion; Friday showers, moderate to brisk easterly winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Cloudy Thursday, probably showers by night or on Friday; light to moderate winds, mostly northeasterly and easterly.

3 A. M.	45	56	4 P. M.	61	71
6 A. M.	45	55	6 P. M.	60	68
9 A. M.	56	60	9 P. M.	55	62
12 M.	66	68	11 P. M.	55	59

This theremometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 62; for the corresponding date last year it was 54; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 59.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 59, at 8 P. M. it was 64. Maximum temperature 71 degrees at 4 P. M., minimum 54 degrees at 5 A. M. Humidity 55 per cent. at 8 A. M., 31 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.98 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.05 inches.

EDUCATION NOTES.

The Board of Education, at its meeting yesterday, appointed the following as Principals of the Summer evening schools indicated, to take effect June 2 and to continue to Aug. 26 inclusive: Melvin C. Opperman, 25, Manhattan; Arthur T. Roberts, 62, Manhattan, and Samuel Katz, 84, Brooklyn.

During the recent Jewish holidays the following evening high schools, in which 70 per cent. of the students in regular attendance are Jews, were closed on the dates indicated: East Side for Men, April 22 and 28; Williamsburg for Men, April 22 and 28; East Side for Women, April 28; New Lots, April 28. In order that these schools may be in session for the full 120 nights the Board of Education extended yesterday the session in the first two named evening high schools two nights and in the latter two schools one night. The East Side for Women and the New Lots schools will therefore close on May 15 and the East Side for Men and the Williamsburg for Men on May 16.

The appointment of Frederick Siegel as teacher in charge of Evening Elementary School 20, Richmond, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Robert H. Hopkins, was confirmed by the Board of Education yesterday, to date from March 10.

Charles W. Pickells was appointed yesterday assistant teacher of music in the high schools.

Mary Molow, a teacher in the model school of the Brooklyn Training School for Teachers, will be retired on Sept. 1.

District Superintendent Alfred T. Schauffler and Miss Lucy R. Bliss, a teacher in the Girls' High School, will be retired on Sept. 1 under the seventy-year-old limit rule of the Board of Education. Dr. Schauffler, who is one of the most popular officials in the Department of Education, was appointed in 1871. Miss Bliss was appointed in 1890. She had previously had out-of-town experience as a teacher.

At its own request the Committee on High and Training Schools was discharged yesterday from further consideration of the matter of reporting the plan for granting credit for satisfactory service to teachers on eligible lists. The committee said that the proposed plan was in conflict with the Goldberg bill, which prevents the merging of eligible lists. On the same ground the Committee on Elementary Schools was discharged from further consideration of the subject.

Commissioner Barrett announced yesterday that at the next meeting of the board he would move for the reappointment of Thomas S. O'Brien as Associate City Superintendent. Dr. O'Brien's present term of office will expire on June 30, 1913.

On motion of Commissioner Frank D. Wilsey, resolutions were unanimously adopted by the Board of Education yesterday expressive of its high estimation of the services of former City Supt. John Jasper and its regret at his serious illness, and extending to him and his family its heartfelt sympathy.

Permission has been granted to Principal Ernst R. von Nardoff of the Stuyvesant High School, Principal Charles D. Larkins of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, and Principal Peter E. Demarest of the Bryant High School, Long Island City, to visit Fitchburg, Mass., for the purpose of studying co-operation between technical and trade high schools.

Miss Leslie Franklin Spencer has been appointed as librarian in the Bureau of Lectures for an additional period of six months from May 27.

The Board of Education has appropriated the sum of $1,004.50, proceeds from the sale of products of the Manhattan High School, to the Special Trade School Fund.

A license as model teacher in the Brooklyn Manual Training School has been granted to Theresa H. Haskins of Public School 62, Manhattan.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Operator Buys Washington Heights Block Front on Broadway—Private Dwelling Deals—Bronx Borough Shows Activity—Many Business Leases—Mortgage Loans Placed.

In the Washington Heights section, which has been characterized by considerable activity in the realty market during the last few days, one of the most important deals of the season was announced yesterday in the sale of the block front on the west side of Broadway between 150th and 151st Streets. This is the Broadway frontage of the former Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society, which sold the property over a year ago, after the removal of the asylum to Pleasantville, N. Y.

The buyer of the plot is Franklin Pettit, who has been a prominent operator in west side properties. Robert E. Lee Mordecai acted as the broker, the sellers being the Broadway, 150th-151st Street Company, of which Benjamin Mordecai is President. Associated with the company are A. L. Mordecai & Son, Heilner & Wolf, Daniel B. Freedman, and Samuel H. Stone.

The property sold has a Broadway frontage of 200 feet and 150 feet on each street. The selling company still owns, of the original plot, twelve lots, six being on 150th and six on 151st Streets, adjoining the westerly end of the parcel just sold, and fronting about 150 feet on each street.

The Private Dwelling Market.

John Peters has sold for Frederica Schafer to Betti Muller the four-story and basement dwelling, 220 East Eighteenth Street, on lot 18 by 80.

James Kyle & Sons have sold for Mrs. Mary B. Murphy the three-story private house at 857 Lexington Avenue, on plot 16.6 by 80. It is between Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth Streets.

Jennie Wolf is reported to have sold the three-story and basement dwelling, 1889 Madison Avenue, on a lot 20 by 100, between 122d and 123d Streets.

Pease & Elliman have sold for W. J. Cassard 139 West Seventieth Street, a four-story and basement dwelling, on lot 18 by 100.5, to a client for occupancy.

The Charles Buek Construction Company has sold to a client of Maurice Wertheim 16 East Sixty-fourth Street, a six-story modern American basement dwelling with passenger elevator, which was until recently owned and occupied by Dudley Olcott.

Bronx Borough.

Louis Lebewohl has sold for Joseph Levy a plot 125 by 95 feet on the west side of Sedgwick Avenue, 400 feet south of 171st Street. The buyer is a builder, who will erect two high-class apartments.

Ennis & Sinnott, operators, have purchased from Minnie Alsberg the northeast corner of Jackson Avenue and Home Street, a five-story flat, with store, on a plot 40 by 100 feet. M. Rosenbaum was the broker in the transaction.

The Brown-Weiss Realties have sold 971 and 973 Trinity Avenue, two five-story flats, each on a plot 37 by 100 feet, to E. E. Claff, who gave in part payment ninety lots at Hempstead, L. I.

The Jacob Cohen Construction Company has sold to C. Jass the three-story brick dwelling, 864 East 164th Street, on a plot 119 by 75 feet. David Mintz and Alexander Selkin were the brokers.

D. A. Trotta has sold for Smith Williamson to Angelo Feirro the private dwelling at 2,482 Cambrelling Avenue; for W. A. Solling to the Vista Construction Company a plot of 45 feet frontage on the north side of 187th Street, about 80 feet east of Cambrelling Avenue; for Warren E. Sammis to E. E. Miers two lots on the east side of Whittier Street, 250 feet north of Senaca Avenue; for L. Davis to E. E. Miers a plot of six lots on the west side of Edgewater Road, 225 feet north of Seneca Avenue.

The same broker, in conjunction with J. J. Brady, sold for Barry Brothers to George N. Fischer 2,071 Vyse Avenue, a four-story flat fronting 37.6 feet. The buyer gave in part payment a plot 50 by 100 on the northeast corner of Clinton Avenue and 179th Street.

Edward Polak has sold a two-story frame house, with a plot 50 by 115, on the east side of Bathgate Avenue, 150 feet south of 174th Street.

Buyer for Bronx Factory.

George Spaeth has sold to a client of Alexander Selkin for occupancy the two and a-half story brick factory, 1,178 and 1,180 Longwood Avenue, on a plot 50 by 151 feet.

Brooklyn.

Robert H. Thompson of Manhattan has purchased from Arthur H. Strong 599 East Eighteenth Street, Flatbush, a detached bungalow on a plot 40 by 100 feet.

A. J. Woldron has sold 369 Tompkins Avenue, a three-story brick house for Lawyers' Bond and Mortgage Company.

New Jersey.

Windsor L. Taliaferro has purchased from the W. J. Rich Development Company a three-story frame dwelling on Hillside Avenue, Hillside Estates.

Apartment House Leased.

The six-story apartment house at 38 to 40 West Ninety-eighth Street, between Central Park West and Columbus Avenue, has been leased by Albert & Platt for John Schreyer to Bluzt & Schreiber. The plot is 40 by 100, and the lease has been made for five years at a rental of $26,000.

Leases.

Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, agent of the Roach estate, has leased to Isaac Borowsky for a long term of years the property 401 to 421 East Eighth Street, 250 by 100, between Avenue D and the East River, comprising one four-story and three five-story factory buildings.

Samuel H. Martin has leased to Charles Fischer the store and basement at 867 Ninth Avenue.

Thomas Ford has leased for John T. Nagle to Harry Golding for a period of five years the store and basement at the northwest corner of Ninth Avenue and Fifty-third Street.

Richard Webber, a corporation of butchers and grocerymen, has leased for a period of ten years from James F. Meehan store space comprising about 8,000 square feet in the Community Building, at the corner of Southern Boulevard and 163d Street.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased for Edwin N. Tailer to William Ottman & Co. the store and basement at 35 Fulton Street.

Folsom Brothers have leased for the Packard Commercial School Company the corner store at 255 Lexington Avenue to Caesar Franchini, importer of marble art; also, for Dr. John A. Wyeth, the basement store at 129 East Thirty-fourth Street to Paul Arrighi.

Foley & Hughes have leased for Frederick D. Fricke 32 East Thirteenth Street to Samuel Rothenberg, and 263 West Sixteenth Street for Mary E. Shaw to William H. Becker.

$2,427,000 in Mortgage Loans.

Hughes & Hammond have recently placed the following loans, aggregating $2,427,000: Five hundred thousand dollars building loan for the State Construction Company on its new twelve-story apartment house at 103 to 109 East Eighty-sixth Street; $300,000 at 5 per cent. for the Leavitt Realty Company on its new twelve-story loft building, 126 to 132 West Forty-sixth Street; $230,000 at 5 per cent. for the Bramko Construction Company on its new twelve-story loft building, 31 and 33 East Thirty-second Street; $210,000 at 5 per cent. for the Frontenac Realty Company on its new nine-story apartment house, 122 East Eighty-second Street; $200,000 at 5 per cent. for the R. & A. Non-Resident Property Owners in the Third Ward of the Borough of Queens

The Third Ward
Rapid Transit League

The Third Ward, which includes Flushing, Bayside, Douglaston, College Point and Whitestone, has been entirely ignored in laying out the dual subway system, with the result that this section is put to a great disadvantage in comparison with the other sections of Greater New York and more than 20,000 non-resident property owners who have bought unimproved property are unable to improve and use the same on account of the high cost of transportation, which now is 37 to 41 cents per day on the Long Island Railroad.

Millions upon millions have been poured into the Bronx and Brooklyn for rapid transit and only a comparatively small amount has been allotted to Queens, although its assessed valuation has been increased $36,000,000 more than the Bronx within the last six years.

Every property owner, no matter where he lives, is entitled to membership in the League. We expect the League will have 10,000 members within sixty days, from which a Committee of One Thousand will be selected, each of whom shall pledge himself to work to have the Third Ward included in the dual subway system at the earliest possible moment.

Send your name and address to the Third Ward Rapid Transit League, Flushing, L. I., and we will send you a complete analysis showing where over Three Hundred Million Dollars is to be expended for rapid transit.

Do not fail to be at the Board of Estimate meeting at 10:30 this morning, when the Flushing-Bayside route will come up for final action.

Rothschild, the widow, heirs, and next of kin of CHARLES A. ROTHSCHILD, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas, Mortimer Stiefel of the City of New York has lately applied to the Surrogates' Court of our County of New York to have a certain instrument in writing, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of Charles A. Rothschild, late of the County of New York, deceased; therefore, you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York at his office in the County of New York, on the 6th day of June, 1913, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last will and testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed.

Witness, Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, a Surrogate of our said County, the 3rd day of April, 1913. DANIEL J. DOWDNEY, [Seal.] Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

JARDINE, DUDLEY.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against DUDLEY JARDINE, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof to the subscriber at his place of transacting business, at the office of his attorney, John M. Shedd, No. 43 Cedar Street, in the City of New York, on or before the 18th day of November next.

Dated New York, the 13th day of May, 1913. CORNELIUS B. GOLD, Executor.
JOHN M. SHEDD, Attorney for Executor, No. 43 Cedar Street, 16th Floor, New York City.

KINSLEY, ANGIE M.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against ANGIE M. KINSLEY, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same, with vouchers thereof, to the subscriber at his place of transacting business, No. 19 West 30th Street, in the City of New York, on or before the 28th day of July next.—Dated New York, the 23d day of January, 1913. GUSTAV BAUMANN, Executor.

Referees' Notices

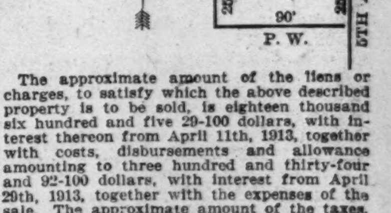
In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, made and entered in the above entitled action, which judgment is dated April 29th, 1913, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Numbers 14 and 16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, on June 6th, 1913, at twelve o'clock noon on that day, by Henry Brady, auctioneer, the premises by said judgment directed to be sold and therein described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the building thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, and which is bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the westerly side of Fifth Avenue distant twenty-four feet and eleven inches southerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the westerly side of the Fifth Avenue with the southerly side of One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Street; running thence southerly, along the westerly side of Fifth Avenue, twenty-five feet; thence westerly, and parallel with One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Street and part of the way through a party wall standing partly on the premises herein described and partly on the land adjoining said premises on the south, ninety feet; and thence northerly and again parallel with Fifth Avenue twenty-five feet; thence easterly, and again parallel with One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Street and part of the distance through a party wall standing partly on the premises herein described and partly on the land adjoining said premises on the north, ninety feet to the westerly side of Fifth Avenue, the point or place of beginning.

Dated New York, May 9th, 1913.
HENRY M. GOLDFOGLE, Referee.
JULIUS J. & A. LYONS, Attorneys for Plaintiff, 76 William Street, New York City, N. Y.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street number is 2216 Fifth Avenue, Borough of Manhattan, City, County and State of New York:



The approximate amount of the liens or charges, to satisfy which the above described property is to be sold, is eighteen thousand six hundred and five 29-100 dollars, with interest thereon from April 11th, 1913, together with costs, disbursements and allowance amounting to three hundred and thirty-four and 92-100 dollars, with interest from April 29th, 1913, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments and water rates or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is one thousand two hundred and eighty 20-100 dollars and interest.

The premises will be sold subject to the occupation of apartments on the second, third, fourth and fifth floors thereof, and also subject to any state of facts shown by a survey thereof.

Dated New York, May 9th, 1913.

RIKER DEFENDS PLAN FOR FLOOD CONTROL

HIS PROJECT INDORSED

It Is Already Before Congress with the Approval of Several of the Country's Famous Engineers.

The Engineering News, in a leading editorial article yesterday, attacked Carroll L. Riker, the mechanical engineer of Brooklyn, for giving THE NEW YORK TIMES an interview concerning his project to control the floods of the Mississippi Valley through the building of a dyked-up spillway ten miles in width from the Red River to the Gulf, with an extension to be built later toward Cairo, Ill.

The article in The Engineering News carried the title, "Amateur Engineering in the Newspapers." It quoted from THE TIMES's interview concerning a part of the plan having to do with the running of tunnels under the Red River, and then added:

"To an ordinary engineer, building tunnels under a river to carry a volume of water delivered by a flood channel ten miles wide might seem a bit herculean; but to a transcendental engineer like Mr. Riker it is merely 'a simple task.'

"If Mr. Riker has any claim whatever to the title civil engineer, he would do well to consider that article in the code of ethics in force in some of the National engineering societies, which prescribes that new inventions or projects in engineering work should be spread before engineering societies or in the technical press before publicity is sought in the newspapers. The contrary course may tend to injure seriously the profession in the public mind."

Based on Blunder, Says Riker.

When the attack in The Engineering News was shown to Mr. Riker, he said that it was based on a blunder concerning the nature of his tunnels and entirely misstated his conception of what they ought to do.

"I am a little surprised," he said, "at being attacked for giving to THE NEW YORK TIMES an interview about a bill pending in Congress when the interview was sought by THE TIMES. The bill had been before Congress at that time for several days and the technical engineering press, with due alertness, could have sought to know the reason therefor just as did the lay press.

"The blunder The Engineering News makes about the tunnels is as simple as is the tunnel project itself which the paper ridicules. It is all news to me that I have ever dreamed of running tunnels under the Red River to carry under that river the flood waters of the country above.

"But it takes only a greenhorn on Mississippi conditions to know that the high levees of the Mississippi have shut off drainage from the surrounding country into that river while the flood waters of the country above are passing through the river course. The great territory, especially west of the Mississippi, between the Red River and the Arkansas, is now swamp land, except for a few months late in the Summer.

"In throwing up the levees for the ten-mile spillway from the Gulf, which will keep the flood waters inside it, it will be necessary, in obtaining the dirt for them to dredge canals on the outside of the levees. Thus, on the outer sides of the proposed spillway there will be canals into which the seepage of the country on each side of the spillway will naturally drain.

"When this drainage from above the Red River reaches the river it will strike a levee which will prevent it from going further. It will be impossible to introduce this water into the Red River, as that river flows between its levees at a higher level than the drainage canal can attain.

What the Tunnels Will Do.

"Hence the tunnels. They run under the Red River from the bottom of this little canal, where it meets the Red River levee to a point on the lower side of the river. There will be a sufficient number of them to carry this drainage under the river, thereby reclaiming thousands of acres of what is now waste swamp lands.

"Water coming down the spillway area is entirely a different proposition. It is introduced into the spillway from the overflow of any leveed rivers along its course. Inside this spillway the flood waters will run over the natural surface of the land. As the levees of the Red River and Arkansas rivers will be cut down within the spillway area the spillway will begin taking their waters as soon as they begin to rise above a predetermined level. When the flood from the Arkansas reaches the Red River it will simply overflow that river and mingle with it and rush on down with it ninety miles to the Gulf, whereas through the present curving and twisting course the flood waters, within the levees, must take 315 miles to get to the Gulf."

From the Mississippi project Mr. Riker took up a proposal to change the course of the Labrador current, which he submitted to Congress last year. Mr. Riker showed a letter received by him from the editor of a technical magazine indorsing the project and offering to furnish a corps of experts to accompany any expedition Mr. Riker might succeed in having sent to the Grand Banks on a tour of investigation.

Later, during the absence from the office of the chief editor, who had signed the letter, an editorial article appeared ridiculing the project and characterizing it as one of the most foolish plans ever conceived.

Mr. Riker's plans for passing drainage water under the Red River as well as the flood-control project as a whole are now before the United States Army's Board of Flood Control, with the indorsements of R. G. Packard, builder of the largest dredges afloat; Lewis Nixon, W. J. Donnelly, consulting engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railroad; Linden W. Bates, and a number of other well-known engineers.

CITY DEAL FOR ASTOR HOUSE

Vincent Astor's Offer to Sell for Subway Under Advisement.

A suggestion has been made to the city for the purchase of the old Astor House at the corner of Broadway and Vesey Street. At present the southern half belongs to Vincent Astor and the northern half to William Waldorf Astor, and the construction of the Broadway subway has brought up the question of its ownership. The B. R. T. line will have to go under the southeastern corner of the building.

Vincent Astor owns 100 feet 7 inches of the building along Broadway and 157 feet 6 inches in Vesey Street, and he has asked the city $600,000 for the easement of building a subway beneath this corner. However, in addition to this the city would have to spend $340,000 in building a wall from bedrock to the foundations of the hotel and $147,500 for temporary easements. Consequently its outlay would be $1,087,500 for merely acquiring the right to construct the subway.

It is understood that Vincent Astor is willing to sell his rights in the old Astor House for $2,500,000. But if the city accepted his offer it would still have to erect the wall from the bedrock foundation at a cost of $340,000, and would also incur the interest on the difference between the cost of the easement and the purchase price, which for two yars is estimated at $135,100. So it is reckoned that the cost of the property would be nearer $3,000,000 than $2,500,000.

The city experts also doubt, if it took over the property, whether it would be able at the end of two years to find a purchaser for the building at the price it had paid. It could be used either for an office building or a hotel, but the erection of the Woolworth Building, the Municipal Building, and the new Equitable Building has made the putting up of more offices at the present time a risky business.

The city is likely, therefore, to consider the purchase of half the old Astor as a doubtful speculation and to welcome any offer for taking it off its hands. It is recognized that William Waldorf Astor is the most logical purchaser. He already owns the northern half of the Astor House, together with a plot to the rear of 75 Barclay Street, which runs through to Vesey Street. When Vincent Astor offered him his half of the Astor House for $2,500,000, he refused it, and it is also considered unlikely that he would be willing to bid at an auction, if the city decided to take the southern half and then submit it to public offers, subject to the easement.

WANAMAKER CUSTOMS CASE

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Henry N. Arnold, special assistant to the Attorney General, is here with a corps of investigators from the Department of Justice, investigating alleged customs irregularities involving John Wanamaker and other persons connected with the Wanamaker department stores. Just before President Taft retired Mr. Wanamaker paid $100,000 as a civil settlement of customs claims and he was of the impression that this settled the entire matter.

The case probably would have ended there had not friends of Chester W. Hill, Collector of Customs, asserted that he was being driven from office for political reasons. This stirred up the Administration and President Wilson learned that Mr. Wanamaker, like other merchants, had been allowed to make a settlement on the recommendation of Mr. Hill. This was the start of the present investigation.

According to the present plans, the United States District Attorney here will be ordered to impanel a Special Grand Jury to hear the testimony against Mr. Wanamaker and persons associated with him. This will not be done, however, until after the men from the Department of Justice ascertain whether there really is any evidence of fraud.

OBJECT TO WILSON'S PLAN.

Customs Officials and Importers Criticise New Appraisals.

Winfred T. Denison, Assistant Attorney General of the Department of Justice, and Chairman of President Wilson's Customs Committee of Inquiry, spent yesterday in New York conferring with local customs officials, importers, and attorneys regarding the amendment to the administrative act of the Underwood Tariff bill giving the Secretary of the Treasury power to fix valuations on imported merchandise. Mr. Denison called upon Collector Loeb, Appraiser Higgins, and Judge Somerville, President of the Board of United States General Appraisers.

Customs officials throughout the country are understood to be opposed to the plan of President Wilson to eliminate appraising officials. Importers also doubt whether any benefit would accrue from "proclaiming" values for a given period, ranging from sixty to ninety days. Customs attorneys told the President's investigator that the contemplated section in the administrative act prohibiting lawyers from taking contingent fees in tariff cases was illegal under the Federal Constitution and would be fought out to a finish in the courts.

Mr. Denison, before leaving for Washington, made this statement:

"My plan is not to reduce appraising officers of the customs and the members of the Board of General Appraisers to mere 'rubber stamps,' as has been suggested, but to obtain a higher degree of efficiency in the conduct of the customs throughout the country."

PLACE FOR DR. WILLIAMS.

Chief Medical Officer at Ellis Island—Dr. Hicks for Hoffman Island.

Surgeon L. L. Williams of the United States Public Health Service assumes the duties of Chief Medical Officer at Ellis Island this morning. Dr. Williams has served before in the Public Health Service, in 1900 and 1901, and has had wide experience both in this country and abroad. During the cholera scare in 1892 he was stationed at Liverpool. He was at one time Assistant Surgeon General in the Public Health Service. In the last few months he had been loaned by the Government to the committee of the Board of Estimate that has been investigating health matters.

Dr. John R. Hicks, of 50 Westervelt Avenue, S. I., has been appointed Chief Medical Officer of the Hospital and detention Hospital at Hoffman Island, by Health Officer O'Connell, and Dr. Albert A. Mendez, of 44 Rutland Road, Brooklyn, has been selected as Chief Medical Officer of the Contagious Diseases Station at Swinbourne Island. Both are specialists in contagious diseases. Dr. Hicks was a former army officer, and Dr. Mendez made a study of foreign quarantine cases and conditions for this Government. Two appointees take the places of Dr. F. C. Clark and Dr. C. S. Hudson, who, after three years service on the quarantine islands, have been promoted to the positions of Deputy Health Officers, and are now assigned to boarding duty at Rosebank, S. I.

Foss Names White Slave Board.

BOSTON, May 14.—Gov. Foss named to-day as the State Commission to investigate the so-called white slave traffic Dr. Walter E. Fernald and Roscoe Pound of Belmont, Charles W. Birtwell of Boston, Miss Lavenia L. Jaquith of Worcester, and Edwin Mulready of Rockland. The commission will have authority to summon witnesses and take sworn testimony.

How to Judge Pianos

You can't judge a piano like you can a piece of cloth. The parts that count in pianos are inside—you can't see them. The outside—the case—which looks important, because it's all you can see, is in reality the least important part. Even the most inferior instruments often have beautiful exteriors. That's why it's so easy to be fooled about a piano.

Send for Free Book

We have just published the first booklet of its kind, "The Pith of the Piano Problem," a copy of which we will gladly mail you free. This new book, as its name suggests, goes to the very heart of the piano question and tells in a simple, easily understood and interesting way how to really judge pianos.

If you are contemplating the purchase of a piano now or in the future, you can hardly afford to be without this book. Write today for your copy. There is no obligation attached—a postal will do—but send it now while it's in your mind. Address

EDWARDS APPEALS FOR PRIVATE HELP

Owners of Trucks Asked to Give the Use of Them to Aid Clean-Up Work.

3,500 EXTRA LOADS HANDLED

Street Cleaning Department Reports Having Removed That Amount of Excess Rubbish Yesterday.

Commissioner Edwards makes an appeal to those owning automobile and horse-drawn trucks in the boroughs of Manhattan, The Bronx and Brooklyn to come to his assistance in helping the Department of Street Cleaning to remove the bulky lot of material which has been thrown and is to be thrown from the houses in the three boroughs. Commissioner Edwards hopes that the many contractors throughout the city will show their public spirit and offer, free of charge, to the Department of Street Cleaning, as many of their trucks as possible. The Commissioner has no appropriation for this, but feels assured that he will get some response. Should any one desire to offer his services he can call up the Street Cleaning Department and get information where to send trucks.

The Street Cleaning Department had all it could do yesterday to carry away the immense amount of bulky material which was put outside of houses for removal. Every available vehicle was pressed into service, and last night many of the trucks worked until 8 o'clock. The scow situation was better yesterday than it was the day before, but one of the contractors called upon Commissioner Edwards and asked him if he could not slow up on the removal of the material, as the scows were being crowded, and there was a scarcity of scows in the market. Later last night, however, Commissioner Edwards was informed that the contractor was in better shape to go ahead than he had expected to be.

The Street Cleaning Department is removing a great deal of material which it does not handle ordinarily. This material, which is being put outside of houses, consists of cellar dirt, paint pots, old paint from paint shops, lath and plaster, mortar and bricks, and wall paper. In many cases trade waste, which the Street Cleaning Department never handles, has been thrown on the sidewalks and will be removed by the Department of Street Cleaning. The rubbish which has usually been removed from billboards has never been taken to the Street Cleaning Department dumps. This is known as trade waste, and it has to be disposed of at private dumps. All this material is now being thrown out for removal by the Department of Street Cleaning.

The department finds that a great deal of material it is taking it would ordinarily take up, but the department men are not allowed to go inside the houses and take this material. If the Tenement House, Fire and Health Departments see that this material is not allowed to collect in the different dwellings, there will be no need of any such work hereafter, but it is not the work of the Department of Street Cleaning to make these investigations as to the interior of houses. Its work is entirely in the removal of stuff after it reaches the street.

Dr. Lederle and Commissioner Edwards made a trip through the lower and upper east side yesterday looking over conditions in general. They were pleased with the progress of the work. In Fifty-fourth Street, particularly between First and Second Avenues, the sidewalk was piled high with all kinds of rubbish.

The schedule for to-day follows:

MANHATTAN.

10—Jefferson Street, Broome Street, Division Street, Ridge Street, to East River.
20—Avenue A, East River, East Houston Street, Seventh Street.
19—West Twenty-eighth Street, West Thirty-fourth Street, Sixth Avenue, West Street.
42—East Fifty-ninth Street, East Sixty-sixth Street, Fifth Avenue to River.
35—West Ninety-eighth Street, West Eighty-ninth Street, Central Park West to Riverside Drive.
52—East Ninety-second Street to East Ninety-eighth Street, Fifth Avenue to East River.

BROOKLYN.

5—Fulton Street, Concord Street, Fulton to Navy Street.
16—Flatbush Avenue, Bedford Avenue, Atlantic Avenue, Sterling Street.
26—De Kalb Avenue, Gates Avenue, Broadway, to City Line.
40—Bay Parkway, West Street, Avenue N, Nostrand Avenue, Garritson Avenue.

BRONX.

7—Bathgate Avenue, Harlem River, West and East 171th Street, and Fordham Road.

The amount of material removed yesterday was a little more than on Tuesday, being some 3,500 loads more than an ordinary day's work.

TOWN NEEDS WORKERS.

Its Appeal to Gaynor Elicits Some Comment on Congestion.

Men and women in New York who are out of work can find plenty of employment in Bloomsburg, Penn., according to a letter which the Magee Carpet Company of that town wrote to Mayor Gaynor yesterday. The writer stated that the town was healthy, with good water, good schools, cheap coal, and cheap rents, and that the carpet company alone could give steady employment to 1,100 more persons at wages which would enable them to save money.

"We do not want the irresponsible or those that wont work, but for any that want a chance to work we have vacancies. Can use whole families, men and women," said the writer. "The other industries in the town are in like position. We do not insist upon skilled help, as we can teach them. Will you kindly have the charitable organizations of your city put our name on their lists and have worthy applicants for work referred to us?"

The writer stated that the company never had a strike or any labor trouble. The Mayor sent this letter in reply:

> May 14, 1913.
> Dear Sirs: You tell me in your letter that you frequently read in the daily papers of people who cannot get work, and even commit suicide in despair therefrom. You say you greatly need workers and cannot get them; that you could give profitable work to 1,100 more people to-day if they would come to your town. I am well aware that such conditions exist all over the country. And yet we suffer from congestion of population in some places, and lack of work to do.
> The entire population of this earth, if brought into the City of New York, could be given two feet square each, which would enable them to at least stand up here. And if they were brought to Texas they could be given three acres each. And yet as small as the population of the earth is, compared to the area of the earth, we have congestion of population in some places, with all the evils thereof.
> The question is a great one. But very few are thinking of it. It does not excite as much attention here as the case of one policeman who takes graft. How this human race of ours has stumbled and bungled along from the beginning to this hour! But let us not be despondent. Things grow better all the time. Sincerely yours,
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

LINCOLN REGISTER LOST.

Needed in Divorce Case, Hotel Book Has Mysteriously Disappeared.

As evidence in her suit for divorce from John T. Coughlon, Mrs. Lillian M. Coughlon wanted yesterday to find the registration book of the Hotel Lincoln, which was raided last February by Inspector Dwyer. She had accused her husband of having gone there with the co-respondent on the day before the raid. Thomas J. McManus described a search for the register which he had made at the request of Mrs. Coughlon

"From the hotel I traced the book to the office of Inspector Dwyer," McManus said. "The Inspector could not find it, and I was directed to Police Headquarters, where a search was made without disclosing the book. I then tried the District Attorney's office, and all the clerks there joined in the hunt without avail. From there I worked back again over the course, but no trace of it could be found after the night of the raid."

Supreme Court Justice Guy said the situation was surprising, and that as the book was needed as evidence in the case he would reserve decision.

WILL HEAR THAW TO-DAY.

He Will Be the First Witness at the Trial of J. N. Anhut.

Harry K. Thaw will be brought from the asylum at Matteawan to-day to testify in the case of John Nicholson Anhut, the lawyer indicted for offering $20,000 to Dr. John W. Russell of Matteawan to obtain Thaw's release from the asylum, and who will be placed on trial before Justice Seabury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court.

Assistant District Attorney William A. De Ford had a long consultation yesterday with Horace A. Hoffman, a private detective in the employ of Thaw, who could not be found when the case was called on Monday. Hoffman said that he was anxious to testify against Anhut, and explained that he had been called away to Vancouver, British Columbia, on business and did not know that Anhut's case would be called for trial so soon. Dr. Russell also called upon Mr. De Ford yesterday and said he wanted to testify against Anhut at the earliest possible moment. Thaw will be the first witness, and it is believed that his testimony will take the greater part of the day. Dr. Russell will then be called and Hoffman will follow him.

KAPLOW, ALTRUIST, A PUZZLE TO NUTLEY

Man Who Gave of His Flesh to Save Child's Life Insists He Wants No Reward.

OUT OF WORK AND OF FUNDS

But Says That Doesn't Matter, as He Is Soon Going Back to His Father's Home in St. Paul.

Special to The New York Times.

NUTLEY, N. J., May 14.—To the deeply curious residents of Nutley mystery surrounds the identity and motives of Charles Kaplow, who on Saturday gave up from his right thigh a strip of flesh thirty-two inches in surface and nearly a quarter of an inch in thickness to save the life of seven-year-old William Coldwell of Vreeland Avenue. Entirely unknown to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Coldwell, the boy's parents, Kaplow appeared and offered to undergo the operation without asking any remuneration.

Kaplow, who is 22 years old and weighs about 180 pounds, seemed to-day to a TIMES correspondent to be enjoying himself thoroughly. He said that the operation had in no wise inconvenienced him and that he intended to return to New York on Monday. Explaining the circumstances of his offer to Mr. and Mrs. Coldwell, the child's parents, he said that a friend had called to his attention an advertisement in The Paterson Chronicle of May 4 which read:

> Wanted—At once, strong, healthy young man who is out of work and who will be willing to provide some of his skin to save the life of a 7-year-old boy who was seriously burned a week ago. Is there such a man in Paterson who is willing to make money on his pluck? There is no danger in the operation of skin grafting, and the one who offers his services will be given every consideration. A life is hanging by a thread. If you want to save it and make some money communicate with Dr. Whelan, 231 Franklin Avenue, Nutley, N. J.

On the Wednesday following Kaplow called at Dr. Whelan's office. He said that he had been a swimming instructor for the Y. M. C. A. at St. Paul, Minn., and that he had assisted in some of the New York branches in a similar capacity. Baring his left thigh he showed unmistakable evidence of a previous skin grafting operation by which, he said, some of his cuticle had been transferred to the body of a young girl. He said the girl was Bertha Wucher of 535 Fifth Street, Manhattan.

"But you understand that this is a more serious case?" Dr. Whelan said to him. "It is something more than a transferance of small sections of the epidermis. The operation requires thirty-two square inches of flesh as thick as my coat here, cutting right down to the fat."

"I am willing," the applicant replied.

"As to your remuneration—" the physician went on to say, when Kaplow interrupted.

"I ask for no reward," he said. "In case no other responds I will undergo the operation just to save the child's life. I ask only that you take care of me while I am incapacitated."

The operation was arranged for Saturday, and Kaplow went to the Coldwell house, had his right leg cocained, and allowed the strip of flesh to be cut away while he sat watching the operation. The boy's father and a Brooklyn man, whose name was not mentioned, each gave up four inches of their skin. The burned boy still lacks 140 inches of a whole skin, however, which, it is hoped, will be supplied within a week.

When asked his motive for volunteering to undergo the operation Kaplow said to-day that he was governed solely by a desire to save the child's life. He admitted that he was out of employment and out of funds, but said that made no difference. He exhibited a collection of newspaper clippings, telling of different incidents with which he had been connected, the contents of some of which, he asserted, were without foundation. He was not looking for any advertising, he said; in fact, he intended soon to return to St. Paul, where his father was in the clothing business.

Burt B. Farnsworth, Secretary of the Twenty-third Street Branch of the Y. M. C. A., said yesterday:

"Kaplow has never been connected with this association in any way. It was reported recently that he was a swimming instructor here. He is not even a member. He comes in at times and asks for mail, saying that he expects some will be sent on account of the articles published in the newspapers."
